

Would be of Great Benefit

come, for the world will never stand still. It has been the most important century in the world's history, in discovery, invention and in the arts and sciences. We need only refer to the telegraph, telephone, graphophone, cable, submarine, wireless, aeroplane, automobile—the advance in astronomy, agriculture and manufacturing, and a whole host of ingenious inventions and discoveries which have marked the progress of the age in which we live. If the past is a criterion for future contemplation, we are simply lost in amazement and mystery as to what the untold and undeveloped future may have in store. We should be profoundly glad that it has been our proud privilege to have lived in this progressive day and generation, and to have participated in the enjoyment of all its untold advantages and promising opportunities. We esteem with adulatory feelings what has been and what may be accomplished by exercising that fraternal spirit and feeling in the world of comradeship. Who shall attempt to compute the transcendent fulfillment in the future to come? Consider for a moment a fraternal organization, with its trenchant power and prestige, struggling for an onward and forward movement in the redemption of a world from hatred, violence, intolerance and selfishness, that they will be banished from the earth and the ultimate adoption of universal brotherhood, in which equal and exact justice shall prevail—shall be proclaimed throughout the world! Ring out the old; ring in the new. Ring out the wrong, ring in the true. Fraternity is our chief corner stone; it is the key-note of our arch; it is our highest and foremost ideal; it is the supreme attribute of brotherhood; it is the basic precept, the fundamental principle in which, by which and through which we are governed. Without it our order would be like a craft at sea, without compass, sail or rudder, adrift in the universe, hopeless and aimless. Without it we would go through the world like an Ignis Fatuus; without it we are void of motive, of intent, of purpose and purport. But with it we are a veritable power for good, a tower of enduring strength and efficiency, a perfect and perpetual affirmation, in directing men to a higher plane of life, potential in influencing men to be "social and humane," and in leading them to exercise those cardinal virtues which brighten and enlighten our pathway. Our aim is to promote the social, mental and moral uplift of a common humanity. This beneficent consummation we dominate fraternity. Fraternity is the passport to universal peace, the progenitor of good among men, the pivotal axis around which revolve all that is high, pure and noble in the pursuit of life. Let us practice fraternity and what of the future? In the years that have come and gone we may know or remember of some of the happenings, and some have enjoyed a goodly heritage. Divine Providence has graciously blessed us with peace and prosperity. Truly the times have fallen in pleasant places. Amid the exuberance of our joy and gladness we are prone to submit the question concerning the years that are yet to come. What shall the harvest be? Let us not be over confident or unreasonably elated, but continue to strive to move in the even tenor of our way, resolute, patient and tolerant, always abounding in the desire to serve and subserve the preferred interest of all. May we reach out with increased confidence into the uncertain and untried future, faithfully continuing our ministrations of fraternal benefactions and relying upon Supreme Guidance for the further advancement and promotion of all peoples.—Publicity Manager Fraternal Boosters.

ANNIVERSARY SALE

Sixteen Years In St. Johns

The Pioneers In Business

September first is stock taking time with us; it is customary with all good stores to strive to make the inventory just as clean as possible. To do this we get out all the season-end goods and mark a reduction on them of such sum as will justify the trade in using them as season-end fill-ins.

Just as an inkling of what we are doing, some of the things are here listed.

THIS SEASON'S VOLIES

New Patterns and Designs, goods that were reasonable priced at the beginning of the season

55c Qualities Now	-	39c

Miscellaneous pieces and patterns in Voiles, Figured Flaxons and Crepes, none of them old or out of date but are left in stock because the season has been cool. Yet there will be hot days in July and August.

The prices on this yardage has nothing to do with what they cost us but we simply want a little money for our efforts and the public may have the benefit of the low prices instead of the goods being on the shelves another season. See What We Have For 19c, 23c, 39c.
