St. Johns Community Club

The regular business meeting of the St. Johns Community Club which should come next Tuesday evening will be eliminated in favor of a mass meeting under the auspices of the Club. Later in the week an announcement of the mass meeting will be made by hand bills and otherwise. It will be held for the purpose of considering the vote on the Fair.

Robert Neilson, senior, and Robert Neilson, junior, will give a free entertainment under the auspices of Camp No. 773, W. O. W., at Bickner hall Monday evening next. Both are splendid entertainers. The W. O. W. orchestra will furnish music. Do not miss it.

James H. MacMillan died suddenly at his home, 848 North Kellogg street, November 5th, of acute delatation of the heart. He was born in Prince Edward Islands, Canada, and came to St. Johns about three years ago from Idaho. He was a structural iron worker by trade, and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lottie MacMillan. The funeral services were held in the chapel of the St. Johns Undertaking Company Tuesday at 2 p. m. Dr. H. F. Jones preaching the sermon. The Masonic order had charge. Interment in Columbia cemetery.

Fellow Citizens of St. Johns

GREETINGS:
Your response to my invitation to call on this store under its new management was very gratifying. I hope to see many of you here again and often.

Through this paper I shall from time to time tell you what I am trying to do and just what the advantages will be to you if you buy at least some of your furniture here.

I'm not looking for all the furniture business in St. Johns. I'm not vain enough to ask for it nor genius enough to handle it. Besides there are other good men who are entitled to your patronage. But St. Johns is growing. Its community spirit is getting stronger. More St. Johns people are buying more goods in St. Johns. There should be a great deal more of that. It will come. I'm looking ahead. I only want my fair share of business. But first I'm going to prove to you that I am worthy of that business.

Some men make money by fanciful charges for fanciful service to people who demand it. Neither you nor I am that kind. Other men make large profit on a few sales of high priced goods. There isn't room for that kind in St. Johns. Then there are business men who are satisfied with a small profit on the individual sale and must make their money on a large number of sales. I have elected myself to this class. There's satisfaction in giving satisfaction to large numbers of worthy folks. Now, my patient friend, you may forget all else I have said if you will just remember this:

Your money is less important to me than your satisfaction. Whatever price you pay for a piece of furniture, you may be sure that's the best you can get for that price and more value for your dollar than you'll get any place else in Portland. That's the service I offer.
