George L. Himes of the Historical society of Oregon gave an interesting talk on the early history of Oregon at the Y. W. C. A. on Sunday afternoon following a song by the Community church choir and a short talk on the Woman's Protective Division by Mrs. G. B. Nickerson. But to an interested group of listeners who lingered after the meeting, Mr. Himes related the interesting story of his first Christmas in Oregon many years ago when with his father, mother and sister he had just crossed the plains to this state. "The family," he said, "was in almost destitute circumstances when they arrived and there was no food for himself and his father, but only enough for his mother and the smaller children, but they were established in an old cabin and through the efforts of a neighbor were furnished with food and some clothing. At Christmas time he had no stockings to hang up for Santa Claus to fill but with a mother's inventive genius, a stocking was made from an old coat sleeve and hung beside one of his mother's which had been mended for Helen, his sister. No child in this or any other city this Christmas will be more overjoyed with the most expensive toy received and probably not nearly as much as was Mr. Himes and his sister, Helen, when they found that in her stocking was a doughnut doll and an apple—that was all, but that was enough for them. They had a real Christmas."
