PRINCESS AND PAUPER.

Strange Virisitudes of the Widow of a Roumanian Prime Minister. A Princess and the widow of a celebrated Prime Minister has just expired at Gatz, as an inmate of the city almshouse. Twenty years ago the fame of Princess Marie Ghyka's beauty extended from the shores of the Danube to the banks of the Seine. Napoleon III. was one of her most fervent admirers, and there are doubtess many of those who took part in the festivities at the Tuileries and at St. Cloud during the closing years of the Empire who will recall to mind the grace and loveliness of the wife of the

By dint of an immense amount of bribery and of p ditical influence the unfortunate widow was deprived of any participation or benefit in her husband's estate. Finding herself penniless, she in a moment of recklessness and despair forgot what was due to her rank and station, and gave way to the temptation which her beauty caused to be held out to her from every side. She lived in turn with several of the best known mem-

ABOUT CARTOGRAPHY.

The Science of Making Maps a Decidedly

The early maps used by Prof. Horsford are partly French, and this, with the remarkable display of maps at the Paris Exposition, and the great work undertaken by the French bookseller, Hatchette, leads me to say a word about map-making, or "cartography," as the French call it. The age of Louis XIV., which produced so much else, gave an impulse to map-making, and early in the last century, the great atlas of D'Auville, which was forty years in making, was the ancestor of innumera-ble maps since published. France also, under the Bourbons, made the first im-portant topographical survey, under the lead of Casina de Fleury, who was en-gaged on it from 1744 to 1783, and his maps were used by Napoleon and Wellington in their campaigns.

In our century, however, geographical science and art under Humbolt, who studied in Paris, and Ritter have migrated to Germany with other branches of learning. The great pull-lisher. Porthes, at Gotha, employing men like Stieler, Sydow, Spruner and Peterman, and the rival Berlin pub-lisher, Kiepert, have for fifty years held sway in map-making. Hachette, in the days of the Second Napoleon, undertook to break down the German monopoly in former eminence in it, and this Paris publisher employed Vivien de St. Mar-tin to edit his new atlas, which is now coming out in monthly numbers, be-ginning with 1887. A still larger atlas, begun in 1887, is waiting to follow. Vivien de St. Martin died before much had been issued, and he had been suc-seeded by F. Schraeder. The prepara-tory work is done and the publication will soon begin again. A single map will occupy an engraver a year or two. In the smallest atlas, maps of Switzer-land, the British Isles and the Russian Empire are published, and appear to be better than the best former maps—those of Stieler, the German. Compared with work like this, the new atlas of Middlesex County seems rather crude and inac-curate, but the maps are on a large scale, and in the villages every man's house is put down with the owner's name.—Springfield (Mass.)
