How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

As a general family remedy for dyspopsis, orpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever see anything class, and have never been disponited in the effect produced; it seems to a aimost a perfect cure for all diseases of the tomach and Bowels, very little need of sermons upon this subject, but the other day in a forty-mile drive across the country, the heart of the great dairy section of Ohio, it was of the great dairy section of Ohio, it was surprising how many dairies this drouth-stricken section was compelling to drink out of stagnant pools and dugouts, the water of which was, with its pollutions of mud and the offal of the cattle themselves, thick and horribly filthy. This need not be so, and the fault is all with the man who owns the farm, and not either in the withholdings of Providence or natural defects in the living water of the farm itself. In these days of cheap aerometers and cheaper pumps every man has a spring on his farm and an abundance of water at command, and no excuse exists for cows drinking filthy water. In the dairy districts bad water means more than its injury to the cattle, тау вау." means more than its injury to the cattle, for it has its deleterious effect upon the butter and cheese, for milk being 87 parts water, and this serum must have a parts water, and this serum must have a water origin, it is seen that it is very probable that bad water will give as bad influence to the milk; for while with good food and water it is quite a difficult thing to influence the natural flavors of dairy produce, yet with improper food and drink it is one of the easiest things to feed a "stink" or objectionable flavor into what would otherwise be a table luxury—butter and cheese. Good, pure water is as certainly demanded as much as good food, and the present drouth ought to be full of heeded lessons in these very particulars.

PAYS THE PARMER.

PAYS THE FARMER.

The Homestead thinks farmers will not allow the poultry to be slighted, as they realize more fully what can be made out of it, and recalls the instance of a small farmer who became converted to poultry farming by an experiment. Wishing to adopt only those branches of farming that pay him the best, he kept a ledger account of all his crops—vegetables, grain, hogs, cows, poultry. He kept this up three years, and then settled down to poultry as the best crop. His farm pays better to-day on ten acres than any 100 in the neighborhood. He states the situation in this way: "If I put much time and expense in the growing of vegetables and a dry or unfavorable year should present itself, so that the crop becomes a failure, I am at a big loss; but with poultry I am safe—that

The American one day commented indignantly on this fact to the older man.

"Why," he asked, "should P—, a man much your inferior, outrank you?"

"Hold there!" said the old officer. "You mistake. P— is not my inferior. Pehhaps he has not studied the art of war as thoroughly as I have, but the little he knows he puts into practics. When you see us in battle you will understand the difference. I know what ought to be done. He does it. If a park of artillery is to be taken, while I am for a moment or two taken, while I am for a moment or two hesitating over scientific rules as to the best way to do it, he, with half of a rule dimly in his mind, takes it."

A SIMPLE DEVICE. A SIMPLE DEVICE.

A correspondent of the Country Gentleman gives a device he uses to keep his cows from getting soiled while in the stable. The plan is simple, and places no restrictions on the animal. He says: "A device I am using answers the purpose. It is simply a board, which may be padded to keep from rubbing the hair off, placed across the stall, just high enough not to touch the animal when standing at ease. When she wishes to void excrement she must arch her back. The position of the board prevents her; so she steps back to get into the position nature requires, and the excrement falls in the gutter or offset, far enough away to permit her lying down in the clean stall. The board must be placed at different heights and lengths to suit the size of the animal. A little notice of the actions of each will give one the exact place to put it."
