While Bob Clendenning was going home from H. E. Hayes farm Monday with a load of hay hauled by a yoke of cattle, he was suddenly surprised by being turned over in a creek near Mr. Hohlswath's place and butied under the load. With some assistance he crawled from beneath it minus hat and dry clothes. He righted the wagon and put into the barn to dry himself. Some say, Bob was loaded with plum juice. If it be so, take warning, young men, and give your teams a
