Decorations That Fit the House. Who that has visited Hawthorne's old home in Concord, the Wayside, on the Lex-ington road, now occupied by the Lathrops, will ever forget the impression made by the low ceilings, polished floors, big fire places and antique fittings! So far as possible the interior has been kept as it was when the famous author lived there, many water alone no chemicals of any kind of the articles used then being still in their having been added to the solution .-St. old places. One is not surprised here to spy through a vista of doors a large spinning wheel in complete order. Very at-tractive is the old dining room, with its massive red bricked fireplace, darkened by age, and its brick hearth extending far out into the room. Hung at the skie is a large bunch of Indian coru, while over the top of the mantel are boughs of the feathery pine. Beside the mantel is a dish closet, hung by a dark toned portiere, which only half conceals the dishes within. The table and chairs are those used by the author's family. The sitting room, as it is called, contains the quaintest mantel, with irregular tains the quaintest mantel, with irregular shelves at uneven distances, partitioned off so that no two of the compartments are just alike. They are filled with old china. a ginger jar and china tea caddy, punch bowls, pitchers and decanters. Here is the author's favorite chair, big and ancient enough to have been "grandfather's chair." A high backed, low seated, rush bottomed chair stands at the side of the mantel. Exercthing in the room, apart from its Everything in the room, apari from its connection with the author's life, has also a historical interest. - Brooklyn Eagle.

M Zola has just received the highest price ever paid in France for the serial rights of a novel. The sum is about thirty-one cents a line, a total amount of $7,000, and is paid for Zola's new story, "Dr. Pascal"

Usually involves seasickness. When the waves play pitch and toss with you, strong indeed must be the stomach that can stand it without revolting. Tourists, commercial travelers, yachtsmen, mariners, all testify that Hostetter's stomach flitters is the best remedy for the manues experienced in rough weather on the water. Nervous and weekly travelers by land often suffer from so nething axin to this, and find in the flitters its surest remedy. No disorder of the stomach, liver or bowels is so obstinate that it may not be overcome by the prompt and therough remedy. Equally efficacious is it for chills and faver, kidney and rhoumaile trouble and nervousness. Emigrants to the frontier should provide themselves with this fine medicinal safeguard against the effects of viciositudes of climate, hardship, exposure and futigue. Selling Smoked Glass for the Fellose Few citizens in Brooklyn had apparently provided themselves with means for viewing the recent eclipse, and when the began to move across the snn's face there was a running hither and mither for colored glasses in the busipess part of the city in the neighborhood of the city half. On one of the corners a young man was heard to cry:
"This way for your smoked glass"

Five cents spiece!" He was immaculately clad in Prince Albert coat, fashionably cut trousers new kid gloves and patent leather shoes while his head was surmounted by a glossy silk hat. It was not long before he had all the business he could attend to and he smoked bits of window glass over a candle and passed them off like hot cakes, his singular appearance heightening his trade to a remarkable degree. He was imperturbable when guyed by the street arabs, and in a short time his pockets bulged with nickels

After the man in the moon had kissed farewell to the western limb of the sun the young man kicked the candle into the gutter and strolled around the corner. He was seen to meet another young man, who wore a dejected air and who proceeded to place sundry bills of large denomination in the vendor's outstretched palm

"Didn't think you'd the sand to do it or I wouldn't have bet," said the dejected. The other only grinned and remarked, "Come on up to the club and l'il open a bottle." They went off arm in arm. - New York Herald

The Crowd at Chicago.

Chicago has done well, and it is only fair that the fact of nonextortion should be recognized and universally known That overpressed hotels should raise their prices was to have been expected but that they should have been as comparatively moderate as they have is to their credit. They have charged very high rates, but they might have charged and obtained rates very much higher.

The chief extortion has been by the hackmen, but in view of the fact that there were a half dozen men after each vehicle the excess may be very properly set down to the fault of our common

What will be the fate of the people who imagine it to be wise and desirable to be here when the fair is first opened imagination fails to paint. Dignitaries correspondents and exhibitors must be here when the doors are opened, but it is dollars to cents the fair will not be here for a good month thereafter, yet experience warrants the prophecy that as half of the million strangers came to town to try and see dedicatory ceremonies, double that number will be here to participate in the wild and comfortless rush at the opening ceremonies next May.—Howard's Chicago Letter

The king of Greece has just lost a little dog which he came by in rather a curi ous way. He was at some maneuvers a number of years ago standing amid his staff, when it suddenly made its appearance, no one knew whence and stationed itself at the king's feet. All attempts to dislodge it were fruitles and it remained there until the end of the review. When the king went to his carriage the little dog walked in front of him, "as proud as Punch." with his tail erect, and scrambled first into the carriage before any one could say him nay. Arrived at the palace he darted in first, and insisted on remaining with the king. His majesty, who is slightly superstitious, said the dog's persistency was a good omen; that at any rate he had one faithful friend, and from that time forward it slept in his bedroom and scarce-30 ly ever left him. It was a most supercilious little dog, and would never take notice of any one except the king, whom it seemed to idolize. The dog died the other day, much to the sorrow of its

A Fifteen foot Shark is the Ohio.

A fresh water shark was one of the curiosities seen by fishermen in Jeffersonville (Ind.) harbor For several days the fish, which is estimated to be fifteen feet in length and to weigh 800 pounds, has destroyed great numbers of perch. master. - London Graphic. has destroyed great numbers of perch. buffalo and channel cat caught on trotline books. Wednesday morning the shark nipped a twenty pound perch which had been caught on one of the hooks of a trotline opposite the city, and destroyed one half of the fish at the first bite. Returning for the remainder, it swallowed the hook, and when an attempt was made by a fisherman to run the line the shark splashed the water similar to the way a young whale would. The shark is described as having a month like an alligator teeth two 84 00 inches long, and a nose resembling a pugdog. -Cor St Louis Globe Demo

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the custachian take. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for eir culars, free.
