EVENTS OF THE WEEK

The Celebration of the Fourth brought several thousands of men, women and children to Oregon City from Portland and the count y round about. Nothing occurred to marr the harmony and good humor that prevailed Booths and stands draped with bunting were numerous along Main street. The several teambeats on the Poetral roots and stands are the Poetral roots and stands are the Poetral roots and teambeats on the Poetral roots and steamboats on the Portland route and the East Side motor line carried throngs back and forth. The procession and multitude massed in front of the Catholic church at the river. A Model FRUIT FARM .- P. F. Morey farm near Oswego. With the object of testing what profit there is in the "red apple" for which Oregon was but a little while ago famous, he has planted 7000 apple trees. They are being carefully sprayed and the cultivation of the is following ideas of his own on his potatoes between the rows keeps the milling interests at Heppner and ac-weels down and the soil loose. All the young trees look healthy and vigorous, mill at Drewsy, Idaho, with a bonus of and a very few years hence Mr. Morey will be shipping thousands of boxes of apples. One of the attractive fea-tures of the estate is a hot-house filed with rare and beautiful plants and flowers; another is the spacious park, a stretch of woodland cleared of brush and fallen trees and sown to grass Shaded paths and graveled carriage roads lead through this, along the sides of which one ob-serves here and there circular flower beds. Springs are handy to quench the rambler's thirst. The farm is in charge of Mr. Gowar, a professional horticul-turist, and 10 men are at present employed in clearing and grubbing. After the milk is properly ripened heat it to 82 degrees in the summer and 84 in the spring and fall during cool weather. After the proper heat is attained add the rennet in quantity to congulate milk in from 50 to 60 minutes. Then cut the curd in cubes of about three-eighths of an inch each, then stir gently 10 to 15 minutes, then apply heat, slowly at first, and raise the heat to from 90 to 92 degrees, when the heat can be raised rapidly to 98 degrees, when the whey can be drawn.

Then stir the curd gently until it begins to pack.
When sufficient acid is developed in the curd and cooled down to 85 de the curd and cooled down to 85 degrees, grind and salt about 2½ pounds of salt to 1,000 pounds milk. Then the curd is put to press. Apply the pressure grad-ually until the whey is pressed out. The cheese should be in press about 24 hours. The cutting room should be of a uniform temperature of about 70 degrees. After cheese is properly cured, if not market-ed, it should be placed in a cool room so the curing process will be retarded. Cur-ing rooms should be so constructed that the temperature can be invariably kept at from 60 to 70 degrees.—Farmers' In-stitute Question Box.

A new churn should always be soaked for several days before it is used, and if it is perfectly tight when this is done the bolts should be loosened, or else it will warp and get out of shape. Some manufacturers stencil this instruction right on the churn, and yet many butter makers neglect this simple precaution.

If not soaked well, the first churnings are apt to get a woody taste. Many are the different ways of soaking, some rec ending this, that and everything, but cold water will absorb most flavor if changed often, yet I should prefer the following method: Soak in cold water for 24 hours, changing two or three times, then churn for an hour with a solution of some weak alkali (powdered lye or lime), then rinse with boiling hot water, and if at hand soak for 24 hours with clean flavored buttermilk or sour skimmilk, repeating this if practical.

After that wash the churn as usual, as, for instance, by first rinsing with cold water, then churning for 10 minutes with boiling hot water, and if steam is available steam it sufficiently to make the churn hot enough to dry itself .-

Decreasing Butter Yield. Decreasing Butter Yield.

I wish to ask you a question in regard to the yield of butter. We are running a co-operative creamery: pay according to Babcock test. All through the winter we made five pounds of butter to 100 pounds of milk. About the middle of February our yield began to drop off until now it is down to 4.00; the milk tests iess. The patrons are feeding just the same as in the winter. Is the milk poorer in butter fat in the spring months than in the winter? Or what is the trouble?

ELMWOOD CREMERY.

If in addition to giving the yield of butter the actual test had been added, we might have found some defect in s in sec 25, t 5 s, r 1 e; s and 2, blk 99, Oregon City; $1.

Charles Moehnke, undi 2, of lots 10 spring rains and winds. It is well worth while to notice these things and investigate their causes. The Babcock test ought to put you in the way of making ought to put you in the herds are ning or churning to account in some discoveries. If all the herds are not affected in the same way, make a note of the different conditions.—Hoard's Dairyman.
