PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY.

OREGON CITY, OCT. 11, 1895.

THE NEW YORK DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

The platform adopted at Syracuse last week is in substance what it should be. It declares for "home rule, the first essential condition of good municipal government; local jurisdiction and control over purely local affairs; no legislative meddling." This declaration is emphasized by resolutions in favor of local option on excise questions and the like.

In view of the republican declaration in favor of "the maintenance of the Sunday laws" the platform might have stopped right there. The issue of this campaign is that of personal liberty and local self-government against the policy of legislative interference on the nursery-governance plan.

The issue turns upon this single point, it involves all there is of difference between democracy and republicanism. Democracy stands for personal liberty and for home rule; republicanism stands for arbitrary and puritanical government from the outside, for the denial of personal liberty and for the government of municipalities by powers out of sympathy with their needs and conditions.

THE WORLD'S WHEAT HARVEST.

The Journal of Commerce publishes an important contribution to our stock of economic information in a summary of the estimate made by the French Bulletin des Halles of the world's wheat crop of the present year.

The two features of the report which interest us are the statements, first, that "the production of wheat throughout the world in 1895 will be greatly inferior to that of 1894," and second, that "all the exporting countries together will not have enough exportable wheat to satisfy the demands of the importing countries."

The United States is one of the wheat-producing countries in which a diminished crop is estimated, but with over a hundred million bushels to export we shall get more money for it. This means a contribution to a favorable balance of trade, check to gold exports and a disappointment to calamity howlers.

There is considerable good sense in the stand taken by the secretary of the treasury against the further issue of gold certificates by the government. He has never been an advocate of their issue, and has been disposed to take the view of Secretary Sherman, in his annual report for 1878, that "the only purpose that could be subserved by their issue hereafter would be to enable persons to convert their notes into coin certificates, and thus contract the currency and hoard gold in the vaults of the treasury without the inconvenience or risk of its custody." The gold certificates have now dwindled to $47,014,139, and the way in which they are prized is indicated by the fact that the amount has diminished only a little over $1,000,000 in six months, and that a part of this diminution is due to the surrender of certificates by the bond syndicate to the gold reserve. The outstanding gold certificates on January 31, 1892, amounted to $163,178,959. This amount was reduced at the end of a year to $120,645,819, and the reduction has since proceeded very slowly, except when certificates have been surrendered in lieu of gold at the times of the bond issues of 1894.

There is a constantly growing interest in the question of commerce with the Chinese Empire from which most of the restrictions have been removed by the recent Japanese treaty. The most important provision of the treaty is that which makes it free to carry on manufacturing industries. This provision virtually opens China to new enterprises and the kindred provision, relating to the free import of machinery, may be accepted as fully explanatory of the article contained in the commercial treaty between China and Western nations, being the first definite statement as to machinery which, in the past, has been imported under the name of commodities. Only a few years ago, when cotton gins were sent from Japan to Shanghai, the authorities objected on the ground that China did not allow foreigners to engage in manufacturing industries in the interior, and, therefore, the importation of machinery for manufacturing purpose could not be permitted. About this question there can be no more doubt, and machinery, as well as other merchandise, can be imported.

RURAL DELL.

Last Tuesday Alfred Keung raised his new barn.

There is a good deal of fire in this country at present burning in the timber.

Nelle and Sadie Crocker were home on Sunday for a visit.

Phillip Ogle finished making hay on Tuesday.

The lookout committee of the Christian Endeavor met at Mr. Crocker's place on Monday evening.

On the first of every month there will be preaching at the Rural Dell school house by the Free Methodist and on the first Sunday by the United Brethren.

School will commence here the first Monday in November.

J. C. Palmer has sold his hops, some for seven and some for five cents.

The early frost killed the squash and potato vines.

The reason there has been no items from this country the last few weeks is because of the busy times.

Mr. Huggins moved to their rented place on French prairie Tuesday.

Sunday school every Sunday at the school house.

Eastern Concord grapes, bananas, cranberries, new figs, new sauer kraut.
E. E. Williams, the grocer.
Slates, tablets, pencils, school bags, etc., at "The Fair."
Patronize home industry. The Oregon City Steam Laundry does better work than the Chinese or Portland laundries Geo. P. Bradford, the new manager, is a practical laundry man, having had charge of the best laundries on the Sound before coming here.
"The finest I ever ate" is everybody's verdict after trying our Wilhoit honey. E. E. Williams, the grocer.
Drs. J. W. Welch and F. P. Welch have opened a dental office in the Courier building, near depot. Frank P. Welch, son of Dr. John Welch and a graduate of the dental department of University of Pennsylvania will be in the office Thursday of each week.
The Racket store has moved to its new location, one door north of old place. The new quarters are larger and room is made for their new stock which is made necessary by their constantly increasing trade. Prices are low. Give them a call.
We are overstocked with grapes and peaches and must sell this week. Call and see prices. E. E. Williams, the grocer.
The "L. W. Harper" Sour Mash whiskey is, we think, (and if you try it you will agree with us) the finest flavored whiskey made in Kentucky. It is not sold until fully matured, and until the fusil oil has been eliminated. Indeed, we challenge any chemist to find a drop of fusil oil in a barrel of it when we put it on the market.
It is especially commended for medicinal purpose, on account of its purity, while as a beverage we unhesitatingly assert that it is superior to the finest French Cognac. Sold only by Hill & Cole Oregon City Oregon.
