HOW THE RECORDS STAND.

Editor Courier—How many state pro-hibitory laws has the republican party passed? How many has it repealed? Please give record of democratic party in connection, and also that of any other party which has passed or repealed pro-hibitory law. R. E. DELHAM.

The states in which the general prohibitory liquor laws have been passed, the year of passage and repeal of each, if it has been repealed, and the political party or parties having control of the legislature that passed or repealed each law are as follows:

Ir hostilities broke out between England and Russia on the northeastern coast of Asia, the possession by England of the straits of Gibralter and Suez advantage. Russia would not be able to send reinforcements to her available army and navy on the Pacific side by any other route than that around the Cape of Good Hope, a distance exceeding that from Portland to Liverpool. The Northern Bear has advanced the trans-Siberian military as rapidly as possible, but events in Asia have succeeded each other more rapidly than the Russian statesmen contemplated. They believe the time is opportune for seizing a chunk of China, unless the British lion lies across their path. Russia certainly does not forget the disastrous Crimean war in 1853-4-5, nor her last war with Turkey in 1878-9, both of which failed of their object, the capture of Constantinople, because the other powers of Europe and primarily England, objected. The "Eastern question" is as far from settlement as it ever was, for to the Turkish "sick man" has been added the Mongolian invalid who is the more helpless of the two. It Russia had permitted Japan to reap the just fruits of her victory the possibility of a war would not now fire the British heart. However, greedy England has so often played the game of grab that Uncle Sam could hardly allow the opportunity slip to pocket Canada in case the Lion and the Bear came to cuffing. The English government is cussed and matter referred to committee. treacherous and selfish, and regards own interest to do so. The devil must street sewer. This was paid on be fought with his own weapons.

WE remember, only a few years ago, that Willamette valley farmers were plowing up their hop yards. The next year hops were a dollar a pound-and the wise ones who kept their vines in the ground and attended to them, reaped handsome rewards for their industry and display of good sense. Hops will probably never again be worth a dollar a pound. But they will bring, on an average, more than 61/2c. Willamette valley growers are the only ones in the world who can make money producing them at 10c. Don't dig up your hop free every week untill January 1, 1896. vines .- Statesman.

to recent censes is 81,342, an increase of 10,000 since 1890. A resident of that city told the writer that the employes of Weidner's sawmill were enumerated five times, by different deputies. Wonder how many people Portland hashonestly?

A YORK state paper tells of two far mers who, one year ago, were plowing in adjoining fields. As they turned at the line fence, they engaged in conversation, as farmers sometimes will. One drove pair of veritable crowbaits. After a few minutes' talk, the latter proposed to trade horses, which was finally cone, the owner of the poor team paying $50 to boot, and the horses were exchanged then and there. One year later, the two farmers again met. The former owner of the poor team, again had a poor team on his hands, and was willing Roll call, with response from Burns for his former team which were now sleek and fat. If this isn't a good illustration of the reasen why some men are rich and others poor, we don't know where to look for one. Of two farmers on adjoining farms, one has a productive, well-cultivated and well fenced farm with good buildings; the other has exactly the reverse. What is the trouble? Is it luck? Is it in the farm or in the man? Who can tell?

THE note of Secretary Olney to the British government in regard to the Venezuela matter ought to convince even the most fanatical republican that our democratic president will carry out a vigorous foreign policy when ever the occasion demands it. Cleveland is naturally dogged and courageous, and we cannot expect from him any policy whose characteristics are not pluck and and honor. There is no lack of fight in "CERTAIN business men in this town are in the habit of sending away for their job printing, when they know that they can have as good work done at home for prices just as reasonable. These same men who are in the habit of doing this, think it the duty of the local papers to do all they can to keep trade at home, but they overlook the fact that it is also their duty to practice the same doctrine."

THE Astoria Herald truly says "that the majority of its subscribers are toreigners, and that as a rule, foreigners desire to become educated and to keep posted on current events, while Americans, to a certain extent, do not subscribe for a newspaper, but either borrow from their neighbors or read them in the saloons."

Way does the law allow the assessor and all deputies $4 per day and the deputies of other officers but $2 and $2.50 per day. Assessor Coffee's family This shows that the democratic party of Salem received $20.50 per day for such work.
