OREGON CITY, FEB. 14, 1896.

Tirz gold fields in dispute between England and Venezuela are not yet producing such an output as those of the Rand or of Colarado, but according to English official estimates they already give employment to 10,000 men, and it is said that hardly more than a tenth of the gold-bearing territory has been explored. Mining has been going on for barely ten years. The discoveries of gold in paying quantities resulted in an output of £466,000 in the five years from 1886 to 1890, but in 1891 the production increased to £375,000, and by 1894 it had risen to £510,000, or nearly as much as the total revenues of the

THE earning capacity of money is about six per cent It costs half of this amount to support the government under present conditions. This is out of all proportion and it is a draft upon the people which they cannot endure long: One half the earning capacity of the people is consumed by less than one-fiftieth of a non-producing population. It is only a question of time when such a condition will result in bankruptcy of the tax-paying and producing classes .- Dispatch.

Justice courts everywhere are expensive and practically no benefit is received from the outlay required to maintain them, as nearly every important case coming before them has to be tried over before the circuit court. Often a double expense is thus created and then the case dismissed. What we need is a court always in session, where all ordinary cases may be tried and disposed of without any expensive and useless preliminary work, -Jacksonville Times.

Uncle Josh Spruceby.

Considering the inclement weather the audience which greeted the Uncle Josh Spruceby company last night, says an exchange, was larger than the management expected, and judging from the vociferous applause which was accorded to the exc ellent specialties the play was throughly enjoyed. In some parts the verbiage might be improved, but taken thoroughout it was a much better melo-drams than the public had been led to believe.

Mr. Burt Hodgkins, as Uncle Josh Spruceby, a typical New England farmer, played the part to perfection, and his adventures with the New York landlady provoked roars of laughter. Major O'Laughlin's manipulations of the musket and baton were marvelously skillful and drew forth rounds of applause. The sawmill scene in the third act, where Nancy Spruceby, after being choked by her husband, is thrown on the log and allowed to be carried almost sgainst the teeth of the saw ripping through the timber, is thrilling and exceedingly realistic. That is the scenic climax of the play and is a striking effect which the lovers of stage realism appreciated.

One of the best features of the per ormance, however, was the excellent orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Chas. Gerlach. It is one of the best which has been brought to Fort Worth this season, and the musical selections with numerous variations, introducing all the ordinary sounds heard on the farm, delighted the entire audience. At Shively's opera house Saturday, February 15th. Tickets on sale at postoffice.

When you use DUSTINE you do not need to scrub your floors. This saving of soaps and 'ye counterbalances the cost of DUSTINE. No sprinkling is required before sweeping. It means death to flees and all such vermin, hence is every house

PORTLAND TESTIMONIALS:

We take pleasure in saying that we had spread on our first and second floors the preparation manufactured by Mr. Wm. Bagley for the purpose of keeping the dust down. Mr. Bagley claimed that the preparation would keep the dust off our goods and we would have no further occasion to sprinkle our floors. We are pleased to say the claim is made good. We have now had it on our floors three months and have not been annoyed with the least dust in our establishment. Our floors need no sprinkling. No dust on our boxes of goods. We hardly need any duster now and we consider the preparation valuable to every mercantile business. We have it on our lineoleum and it acts the same as on our floors. We certainly commend the preparation to every storekeeper.

We have been using "Dustine" on the floors of our crockery store since March. 1894, and the results are so satisfactory that we continue using it and will do so in the future. All you claim for it has been performed. Two decided advantages result, namely, that no dust rises when the floors are swept, and that scrubbing is unnecessary to keep the floor clean. We cordially recommend ite use on any floor where dust is liable to settle.

OLDS & SUMMERS.

We have your "Dustine" on our floor now for some time and cas truly say that we become more pleased with it every day. We have no need of covers for our goods and have not used them since the "Dustine" was appled. To anyone wishing to keep their stock free from dust and also to avoid the generally hard labor of sweeping, we cheerfully recommend "Dustine."

CHICAGO CLOTHING CO.

We have had your "Dustine" on our floor about eight months and it is everything you claim for it. We have not used any water on the floor during that time, and it prevents the dust from rising or sticking to the floor. We would not be without it for any reasonable consideration.
