The Censor in Russia.

Professor Nikitienko's memoirs are likely to be interesting. He was formerly at the St. Petersburg university, and gives some account of the ways of the censor in Russia. The censor once sent for the writer of a dream book, and asked him why he believed that the stars had an influence on men's lives. As the author could give no satisfactory explanation, the book was condemned. The censor Jelagoff ordered that a passage in a book on Siberia, stating that dogs were used in that country for dragging carts, must be cut out, "because this statement had not yet been indorsed by the government." Some years ago there was a cattle show at Warsaw, and a Polish paper spoke about the Mecklenburg cows to be seen there.

"It would be better if you said Spanish," said the censor.

"May I ask why?"

"Don't try to humbug me, sir. You were thinking of the grand dukes of Mecklenburg when you wrote that, and they are related to our dynasty."

Paintings also are subject to censorship. The painter Alekhimov painted a picture called "Advice From the Landlord," in which some peasants were represented going to the lord of the knout. The censor said, "Peasants must not ask advice of their landlord, but get it from a government official." When Alekhimov called his picture "Engaging Laborers," he was allowed to exhibit it.—Realm.

The Conductor Was Polite.

A friend of mine who has just returned from Italy, where he has been wandering for several months, told me an amusing story with regard to one of those railways that disgrace the high places of that delightful country, though doubtless to the lazy and the invalid, they are a blessing and a boon. My friend was seated in one of the cars near a stout English matron as they made the ascent of a certain mountain.

"And where should we go, conductor, if the brake would not work?" asked the stout lady in vile Italian.

The conductor courteously explained that in such circumstances there was a second brake, a duplicate safeguard, which might be relied upon in such an unlikely emergency.

"And where should we go, conductor, if this second brake would not work?" repeated the persistent stout one.

"Ah, madam," replied the official, with an inimitable shrug and smile, "that would depend on what our lives had been."—Sketch.

The First Portrait of Burns.

From an interview in Young Women with Mrs. D. O. Hill of Edinburgh, the famous sculptor and sister of Sir Noel Paton, it is learned that she is in possession of an oil painting which she believes to be the first portrait of Burns which Nasmyth executed. The publisher for whom Burns sat to Nasmyth explained to the painter: "You will find Mr. Burns rather nervous at having his portrait painted. Try to put him at his ease." Accordingly when the poet arrived Nasmyth said as he stood beside his easel: "Now, Mr. Burns, sit down for half an hour, and we will have a chat while I finish off this work. Then I shall be ready for you."

The poet sat down and talked away, little dreaming that the painter was rapidly transferring his animated face to the canvas. According to Mrs. Hill, Nasmyth painted his well known portrait of Burns from this first sketch.

PILOT MEDIUM.

The Dead Stallion's Fame Perpetuated by 64 Racing Descendants.

Pilot Medium is dead. This potent sire of trotters breathed his last at Battle Creek, Mich., on the farm which he has made famous; cared for in his final hours by the man he has made rich. Greater sires have lived and died, but the annals of trotting history reveal few instances wherein fame has been acquired against such heavy odds as those encountered and overcome by this good son of Pilot Jr. and Jackey.

As a colt he met with a misfortune, which not only disfigured him for the time, but also made him useless for track purposes for life. At this time Walter Clark was a struggling young lawyer in the Michigan town, which is still his home. An ardent horseman and ambitious to become a breeder, he began casting about for a young stallion that combined the essentials of a successful sire and the necessary cheapness. Almost discouraged in his search he chanced upon the trotter, then a weanling on the farm of Alexander Davidson, of Williamsport, Pa.

"You don't want that one," advised the Pennsylvania breeder. "He's crippled, you see, and a regular scrub."

"I'll give you a hundred and seventy-five dollars for him," was the reply, and shortly after the proscribed youngster was limping about the pastures of Battle Creek.

Years went by, and finally the gray gelding Jack, by Pilot Medium, dam a little runt of a mare by Magna Charta, flashed into prominence, and Pilot Medium stock went up in the market.

Jack finally took a record of 2:11½, and was still a prominent trotter last season. It was through him that public attention was first attracted to his sire, but this boom was soon supplemented by the performances of Lady Bullion, 2:10½; B. P. P., 2:10¼; Phletta, 2:11½; Lee's Pilot, 2:12½; Pilot Boy, 2:13¾; Racine, 2:14; Lady Belle, 2:14½; Medio, 2:14½, and many others—64 performers with records of 2:30 or better in all, and only five of them paced. He was valued at $100,000, and Mr. Clark. It is said, has refused an offer of $65,000 for him.

WARM FEET.

They Are Essential to Health—Proper Covering for the Feet.

You will never be in good health and never do your best work if your feet are constantly cold. Grave diseases of the throat and lungs are caused by cold feet alone, and these troubles are always aggravated by a frigid condition of the lower extremities. If proper footwear does not give relief, consult a physician, for the chances are the system is "run down," and radical measures are necessary. In nine cases out of ten, however, the foot covering is to blame, either because of its shape or its material. Save in warm weather, and for low-cut shoes, leather, as ordinarily prepared, has serious objections. It lacks two prime qualities—porosity and capacity for absorption—being in this respect too much like rubber. No foot can remain either comfortable or healthy if kept in a perpetual bath of its own emanations and excretions. Leather, especially that of the more porous varieties, may be tolerated for the outside, but for cold weather it should always be lined with woolen cloth, or, better, with wool felt. In fact, for all climates, and for winter wear in all climates where there is any winter, a footgear made from all-wool felt approaches the ideal. According to modern notions, any illness in one part of the body may be occasioned by some irritating cause far removed from the seat of the trouble. Just how this is cannot always be clearly explained, but that such connection does sometimes exist is beyond dispute. In the matter under discussion, if the nerves of the whole body are irritated by a tight shoe, or the extreme coldness of the extremities makes extra demand upon the blood supply, there is neither nerve force nor blood enough left for other functions.—Vocalist.

An Untimely Hymn.

It is very often the case with an excessively demonstrative individual that he loves the shout and song more than the contribution box. I think it especially true in the case of an old colored brother of my acquaintance who holds a membership with the African Methodist church in a certain city.

Just before the close of service the minister announced that a collection would be taken and added, "Will some brother please start an appropriate song?" The request found a ready response in Brother C., who immediately started that old familiar hymn, "Yield Not to Temptation," and the collection box passed unheeded by.—Ram's Horn.

A Radical Correction.

A daily paper publishes the following correction of an article which had appeared in its columns the previous day: "Yesterday we gave the particulars of a fire which had occurred in the town of Barrie, mentioning the names and surnames of the victims. Having obtained further information, we hasten to rectify certain inaccuracies in the report of the sad event. There were no victims, since the fire in question never took place. We may add that the town of Barrie does not exist."—Motto per Ridere.

Preachers Made Victims.

"Preachers are the prey of all sorts of swindlers," said a prominent Methodist divine the other day to a group of fellow clergymen who were gathered in the Methodist Book concern in Fifth avenue. "I shall never forget," he continued, "how I was once taken in by what we sometimes call a 'temperance tramp.'"

The solitary layman in the party did not know the definition of "temperance tramp," and in reply to his inquiry the clergyman explained: "A temperance tramp is a man who goes from town to town delivering lectures on temperance. The man I refer to came one Wednesday evening to see me while I was stationed in a country town up in New York state. He presented one or two letters of recommendation from ministers whom I knew and said that he desired to lecture for me. We made over for his use a bedroom in the center of the house. My two sons and a daughter had rooms in the back of the house, and I occupied the front. None of us slept a wink all night—he snored so loud.

"At breakfast the next morning after grace had been said I was serving the oatmeal when the 'temperance tramp' pointed with his knife at the dish, and looking at my lean figure asked disdainfully, 'Do you think that stuff will make you fat?'

"That afternoon a stranger inquired if the so-called Rev. Mr. S— was at my house. I told him that he was. He said, 'Well, I have a warrant for his arrest and have been following him from place to place for the last two weeks.' He was wanted for the larceny of some books in Philadelphia, and had besides passed forged checks in various places through the state under assumed names."—New York Herald.

Bryant at Williams College.

The great name which we associate with Berkshire is that of Bryant. At Williams college his only college days were passed. Though he cannot be called with exactness a Berkshire man, he was born in sight of the Berkshire hills, across the Hampshire border, at Cummington. There was spent most of his life up to his twentieth year. He entered Williams as a sophomore in 1810, but remained only seven months. The beauty of his person, his reputation for genius and the dignity and grace of his manner made him a marked figure among his fellows, and had he chosen he might have won their affection as a comrade and made his mark as a scholar. But he was not content, and in May, 1811, he retired.

Something in the atmosphere of the place and of his surroundings he found congenial, and he betook himself once more to the retirement of his father's house at Cummington, with a Parthian shot behind him as he left in the shape of a satiric poem upon the town and college, which his friends, out of regard for the fame both of his college and himself, did not for half a century permit to see the light or know the touch of printer's ink. He lived in West college, the oldest of the colleges, and room No. 11 on the third floor is reputed to be the one which he occupied.

Years later the college gave him degrees and enrolled him among her graduates. His desire was to enter Yale, and it is pathetic to know that it was the narrowness of his father's means—himself a scholar and a cultivated gentleman—which prevented him from carrying out his earnest desire.—Arthur Lawrence in Century.

Strange Use of the Teeth.

Mrs. Peary has told what a hard day's work it was for the Eskimo women in her service when they prepared skins for clothing. The women cleaned the skins, and after a certain number of hours spent in masticating hard hides their jaws were quite tired. Polynesian women chewing a particular root so as to prepare a fermented liquor must have an equally hard time of it. Primitive man had to use his teeth much more than we do, for he did not eat with them alone.

Every "osteologist has noticed," writes Professor Mason, "how the teeth in the crania of certain savages are worn to the socket, and we are frequently told that this arises from the large quantity of sand in the food." But it is probable that primitive man used his teeth not alone for the trituration of his food. The teeth set on some small object made a vice, and teeth were used for cutting implements. In basket making the teeth were the ready nippers, and the small branches of osiers must have been peeled by the same means. "Whoever has seen," writes Professor Mason, "an Eskimo bog neatly pickered all around the edge of the sole will not be surprised at the brevity of the good woman's teeth when he comes across her skull in a museum."—New York Times.

A Jehu's Courtesy.

A noted American singer is fond of telling of a little experience she had in Boston once upon a time. She was to sing at an evening concert, and a carriage was to be sent for her. She was staying at the time with a friend, who had a suit of rooms in a large apartment house, in which the tube system of communication with the outer world prevailed. It was past the time when the carriage should have appeared, and the lady was growing a little nervous. She was sitting with her wraps on when the bell rang furiously. Hurrying to the tube herself, the prima donna said: "Well?"

The reply came in a voice heavily charged with irritation.

"I'm a hackman," said the voice, "and I was sent here to get some cussed lady, and I don't know what in time her name is! I've rung ev'ry bell in this house! Are you her?"

When informed that the "cussed lady" herself was speaking to him, he coolly replied:

"Well, come on. We'll have to hope it all the way to the hall to get there on time!"—Detroit Free Press.

Head the Red Flag of Danger at the Railroad Crossing—A Warning to America's Men.

"For twenty-six years I have used tobacco in great quantities, and of late years took to cigarette smoking." writes Mr. W. E. Simpson, of Leont, La. "I want to go on record that tobacco has ruined me in many years of life and a great deal of happiness. I realize it now as I compare my feelings and my condition with that of a year ago, when I was a tobacco saturated cigarette fiend.

"Many and many a time did I try to quit smoking myself into sterility, but I could not put through a day without suffering extreme nervous torture, which would increase hour by hour till finally, to save myself as it seemed from almost flying to pieces, I had to light the little white pipe and swallow the smoke.

"One day I read in my paper 'Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away,' just what I was doing; it came to me like the warning of the man who waves the red flag of danger at the railroad crossing, and set me to work to get rid of my habit. I got rid of it through a day without suffering extreme nervous torture, which would increase hour by hour till finally, to save myself as it seemed from almost flying to pieces, I had to light the little white pipe and swallow the smoke.

"I did not believe it, but like a drowning man grasping at a straw, I commenced taking No. 10 BAC.

"The effects were magical; it destroyed the nerve craving and desire for cigarettes. Two boxes, would you believe it? made me well and strong.

"I have gained mentally, physically in vigor and manhood, and with the brain free from the nicotine and a breath no longer fettered with tobacco smoke, I am happy to-day to write No. 10-BAC did it all a year ago, so the cure is time-tested and tried, not only in my own case, but several of my friends who have also been cured.

"We have a baby boy now.

"My wife and I feel that all this happiness started from the time when I first used No. 10 BAC, and in evidence of our appreciation, and in order that the memory of the happiness may be perpetuated in a living form, we want to name our baby boy after the man that wrote the line 'Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.'

"No. 10-BAC is popular here and all our druggists sell it. Hardly a day passes but somebody asks me about No. 10-BAC, so I don't want you to hesitate to use No. 10-BAC in any way that you think will make known to suffering humanity the happiness that there is in No. 10-BAC for use many men with nicotineous brains and weakened constitutions, if they will only make up their mind to have the greatest relief power—to say nothing of the money—now being up into smoke and out in tobacco spit.

"If you want a sure relief for pains in the back, side, chest, or limbs, use an

MAN WAS MADE TO MOURN.

Perhaps, but rheumatism need not add to the calamities to which we are more or less subjected. There is such an efficient means of counteracting the dire complaint as Hester's stomach Bitters. When the liver, bowels or stomach are out of order, or the kidneys of secret troubles, the Bitters is also an efficient remedy. It prevents and remedies all malarial disorders.

WHAT'S A BUMP?

In our peculiar vernacular, we say a bump on a log and a bump on a human being. What one might call a bump another would call a thump. Thus we have a bump from a thump and a thump from a bump. In like manner, a bruise may cause a bump, and a bump may cause a bruise, or perhaps a thump may cause both. Well, what's the difference, so long as we suffer from either bump or bruise, we want to get rid of it. That's true, and the surest, quickest way to cure a bruise is at once to use St. Jacobs Oil. Then the question will be not what it is, but what it was, as it will promptly disappear.

two inches across formed and in walking to favor it I sprained my ankle. The sore became worse; I could not put my boot on and I thought I should have to give up at every step. I could not get any relief and had to stop work. I read of a cure of a similar case by Hood's Sarsaparilla and concluded to try it. Before I had taken all of two bottles the sore had healed and the swelling had gone down. My
