KEPT HIS WIFE.—On petition of Samuel Weirich, a writ of habeas corpus was last Friday issued by Judge Hayes for Sarilla Miller Weirich, who was alleged to have been unlawfully restrained by her father, Jacob K. Miller, at Needy. The matter was adjusted by the father surrendering his daughter to her husband. The trouble arose over the marriage of Miss Sarilla Miller to Samuel Weirich several days before. Mr. Miller was opposed to the match, and claimed the girl was not sufficient age to marry without the consent of her parents. While it is admitted that an action might lie against the party who falsely swore the young lady was 18 years old, in order to get a marriage license, it was decided that the father had no right to use force in keeping his daughter from her new husband. A general reconciliation followed.

DUTCH SUPPER.—The Presbyterians will give a "Dutch" supper the last evening in March. There will be reading and tableaux from Washington Irving's "Rip Van Winkle and Legend of Sleepy Hollow," living pictures from the "Old Dutch Master," and a Rembrandt gallery, in which will be displayed some fine works of modern art. Hans, Gretchen, Katrina and their friends will serve a tempting supper, consisting of Dutch sandwiches, Dutch doughnuts, Dutch fire, Dutch cocoa, coffee and other Dutch dainties. The Van Tassels, Van Blumers and a whole lot of "Vans" will be there and will welcome all their friends. Shively's Hall Tuesday evening, March 31, at 8 o'clock. Admission 10 cents.

CHAUTAQUA NOTES.—The Chautauqua circle took a delightful little excursion Monday evening out to Glendale and held a their meeting at the hospitable home of Elitar Messerve. Col. Miller was chosen leader and the lesson was enlivened with cornet and piano selections by Ned Driggs and Mi-a Ora Spangler. The circle meets next week with Mrs. Burkhardt at the old McCown mansion. The fine cut of the auditorium that adorns the new Chautauqua letter heads was done by E. S. Cheney, a rising young artist of this city.

Rev. Read A Lover.

The following story of Rev. J. U. Read, while an inmate of the asylum last year, is told by a number of trusted employes of that institution and published last week in the Portland Welcome:
Read was in constant attendance at the semi-weekly gatherings of the inmates, when they were allowed free use of the chapel for dancing and other amusements. The attendants, both male and female, are required to participate in these festivities and engage in dancing and social conversation. While Read did not dance he enjoyed being with others. Among the attendants was a young lady to whom Read paid a great deal of attention, and gossip declared that the young lady was smitten with her "insane" admirer. Thus the two kept up their pleasant relations until the minister was called upon to leave the asylum, being declared sane. After the release, so some gossip relates, Read called upon the young lady and told her of his love for her and that if she should ever marry it would surely cause his mental faculties to abandon him and as a consequence he would again be in the asylum.
It proved to be a fact. Not many weeks ago the young lady married and bruto to his prediction he is back once more in the insane asylum. Whether it was his endearing love for the young lady or the fear of punishment for the "sweated" twenties which he was passing, it remains for the people to decide for themselves.
The following conversation was overheard in a barber shop in Oregon City on Saturday between a "keeper" in the asylum, visiting here, and the tonsorial artist:
Barber—You are an attendant in the state insane asylum, I believe?
A—A attendant—Yes sir.
B—Do you attend Rev. Read?
A—No.
B—Is he insane?
A—Why! [nearly forgetting himself] of course.
B—Does he cause you much trouble?
A—None at all. If they were all like him we would have an easy job.
B—Do you think he is crazy?
A—We have no opinion. The doctors decide.

You would not knowingly swallow poison. When you drink poor whiskey you poison blood, body and brains. Besides this you don't enjoy the drink. Buy good whiskey. There's comfort, health and enjoyment in it. If overworked, worried or run down, you need a warming soothing tonic. Nothing like good whiskey. It aids digestion, makes flesh and pleasantly invigorates the system. Good whiskey does this mind you. Poor whiskey irritates the stomach, inflames the tissues and poisons the blood. You can't afford to run risks; get the best, it pays. Physicians drink and recommend I. W. HARPER'S Nelson County Ky. Whiskey. Sold by Hill & Cole, Oregon City, Ore.
