

SP1] POPULISTS.

The Populists of Oregon have met in convention adopted an excellent platform and named a ticket. A more earnest, patriotic body of men never assembled and their work meets with the approbation of the rank and file of the party throughout the state. While there was a division of opinion upon several important issues before the convention, every one of them were finally disposed of in a manner which gave satisfaction and the best of feeling was displayed between the delegates at the close of their labors.

CONVENTION IN DETAIL.

The state people's party convention was called to order by Chairman W. H. Spough in the opera house in Salem at 1:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon. He first read the call and made a short speech by saying that he was proud of the large representation present. He knew that the people's party had a grand work before it, it had a nation to save, and thorough, harmonious work must be done; the delegates must act in harmony for he thought the convention had a big job before it during the two days.

Nathan Pierce, of Umatilla, was elected temporary chairman, J. A. Jeffrey, of Jackson, secretary.

A committee of five on credentials was appointed, viz: W. G. Ballard, S. P. Smith, James Bruce, J. K. Sears, H. Caldwell. The delegates handed up their credentials and the committee proceeded to prepare its report.

On order of business the following gentlemen were named: H. A. Murphy, G. A. Sanford, D. E. Swank, C. Huffman, C. I. Stearn.

A motion was offered that a committee on platform and resolutions be selected to consist of one delegate from each county represented in the convention. An amendment was suggested that the committee be named by the respective counties. Carried. The committee selected was as follows: W. J. Simmon, J. C. Young, R. S. Graham, J. S. McCain, L. A. Ward, W. S. U'Ren, Frank Williams, J. W. Jory, C. H. Marsh, Dr. Brookhart, Dr. Embree, Wm. Parsons, Geo. Meader, W. H. Spough, John Gill, J. T. Johnson, W. J. Edwards, L. Henry, J. C. Luce, J. S. Smith, H. Benlinger, C. P. Rutherford, W. R. King, Chester Skeel, A. O. Brown, Martin Quinn, J. B. Griffith, J. C. Oliver, A. Baxter, G. R. Huff, H. Caldwell.

On motion, Multnomah county was granted an additional member on the platform committee.

By motion the ladies of the W. C. T.

U. were invited to seats on the platform and they were also granted permission to present a petition to the delegates. Mrs. Vandervort read the paper which called upon the convention to include in its platform a plank favoring prohibition of the liquor traffic. The document was ordered transmitted to the committee on resolutions.

On motion of Hengst, of Multnomah, a committee of five was appointed by the chair on revision of the plan of party organization, viz: D. Hengst, Ira Wakefield, Chas. A. Fitch, J. J. Sturgill and O. Teal.

On motion of W. D. Hare a recess was declared till committee on credentials were ready to report. At 5 o'clock it was announced that the committee would be unable to report before morning, and that Gen. Weaver would speak in the evening.

FRIDAY MORNING.

Convention reconvened at 9 o'clock A. M. and adopted the report of committee on credentials.

The house then proceeded to permanent organization, by the election of Judge Olmstead, of Baker, as chairman, John W. Jory, of Marion, secretary and Ralph Harper, of Marion, and E. H. Cooper, of Clackamas, assistants. Mr. Jory declined on account of engagements in favor of Mr. Harper, who was advanced to the office of permanent secretary.

The committee on platform reported and report was amended and adopted as follows:

THE PLATFORM.

W. S. U'Ren, secretary of the committee, read the report. Each plank was vociferously applauded by the convention and at the conclusion the document as a whole was adopted, not, however, without some debate on the plank relative to the "obligatory form" of the initiative and referendum, several desiring that it should be amended to read "optional," and others thought it entered into details at too great an extent. Finally the plank was simplified as shown in the platform below. The committee had labored on the platform from 8 o'clock Thursday night until 1:30 o'clock Friday morning and, as Mr. U'Ren said, drafted a platform of greater length than the moral law. Then the several factions of the committee got together at 8 o'clock Friday morning and seeing what they had done decided to leave the whole matter of a platform to a sub-committee of three and to them the convention is indebted for the following with the exception of the one amendment.

"National affairs—We reaffirm the fundamental principles of the Omaha platform and instruct our delegates to the national convention to readjust any details, if possible, in such form that all reform elements can unite on one platform and one national ticket;

"We favor changing our national constitution so as to provide some form of direct legislation, and the early submission of important national questions to the people;

"We recommend that our national convention devise some plan for the effective protection of American labor from the ruinous competition of Asiatic and European cheap labor, including restriction and, exclusion if necessary, of foreign immigration.

"State affairs—We demand the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the consent of any other nation."

"We denounce the republican party for its entire failure to perform any promise it made to the people of Oregon in the year 1894, and hold it wholly responsible for the reckless and extravagant waste of the taxpayer's money by the legislative assembly of the year 1895;

"We pledge our candidates for the legislature to vote for the abolition of all useless commissions and boards, for the salary system of paying public officers, for a state appropriation bill pro-

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. Mr. R. T. Caldwell, is book-keeper in the First National Bank of Fulton, Ky. "I was completely run down. My nerves became so unstrung through loss of sleep and worry that I felt sure I would be compelled to give up my position. I would be awake all night long, and it took but little to shake me up so that I could not possibly attend to my business as I should. In connection with this I had liver trouble, heaviness about the stomach, and pains in different parts of my body. I was also much reduced in flesh. I was persuaded to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I first procured a trial bottle from a local druggist and good results quickly followed. I then procured a dollar bottle, and by the time I had used this up I was a different man. I am now on my third bottle and am able to sleep soundly and eat regularly, something I could not possibly do before taking your Nervine. I am now fully recovered, and do not hesitate to pronounce Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine the greatest nerve tonic on earth." Fulton, Ky. R. T. CALDWELL.

WHY THEY FLOURISH

SECRET OF SUCCESS OF MANY PROSPEROUS TOWNS.

With Similar Natural Advantages Those With Improvement Societies Far Outstrip Their Neighbors—How They Are Formed—Professor B. G. Northrop.

With practically the same natural advantages it seems strange at first thought that one town attracts new residents, local industries are successful and the deposits keep the home bank in a healthy condition, while another village barely holds its own from year to year and is an example of what a village ought not to be. One village has a high school, a building that cost, say, $80,000, and the income from the tuition of non-resident pupils and from state and town funds makes the school taxes reasonable, while an adjoining village is perpetually in hot water over its school affairs, and its taxes are heavy, without any corresponding benefit. Why are some so attractive educationally, socially and in such matters as shade trees, street lamps and good roads, while others are so backward and unattractive?

The difference is usually explained by the presence or absence of an organized or unorganized rural improvement society. An organized improvement society is a power for good so long as it maintains its organization, but it is often the case that half a dozen live, progressive property owners accomplish the work of an improvement society without special organization.

Professor B. G. Northrop, LL. D., the father of improvement societies, defines their work, which, he says, includes the sanitary condition in homes and their surroundings, sidewalks, roads, roadsides, school and church yards, cemeteries, parks and other public lands, as well as private estates, the grounds around railway stations, providing drinking troughs or fountains, lighting streets, removing nuisances, planting trees, organizing free town libraries and whatever else the exigencies of each plan may suggest for its growth and betterment.

Village improvement societies are recommended because they cultivate a general friendly feeling; they foster public spirit; they do much to break the monotony of the life of small communities, which is not commonly too exciting under any circumstances; they make life better worth the living and real estate better worth the buying; they attract people of taste and fortune who are prospecting for a place which they can call home.

The organization of an improvement society is an exceedingly simple matter. The officers usually consist of a president, vice president, secretary, treasurer and executive committee. The meetings are usually held monthly, with an annual meeting usually held in the spring. Special meetings may be called at any time by the president, and the annual dues vary from $1 to $5.

B. G. Northrop, LL. D., may be said to be the father of the improvement societies of America. He is a native of Litchfield county, Conn., and was born and bred on a farm. He entered Yale college and graduated, choosing the ministry as his profession. For a time he was the pastor of a church in Massachusetts, but soon abandoned the ministry for school work. For ten years he was agent of the Massachusetts board of education, when he was made secretary of the Connecticut board of education. He held the latter position 16 years, and was largely instrumental in bringing about the free school system in the state. During the last ten years, or until his recent trip to Japan and other oriental countries, his life has been devoted to the organization of improvement societies and the proper observance of Arbor day, of which he was the founder. It is said that Arbor day for economic purposes originated with J. Sterling Morton, while Arbor day for educational and memorial services, especially in schools, originated with Professor Northrop.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. Mr. R. T. Caldwell, is book-keeper in the First National Bank of Fulton, Ky. "I was completely run down. My nerves became so unstrung through loss of sleep and worry that I felt sure I would be compelled to give up my position. I would be awake all night long, and it took but little to shake me up so that I could not possibly attend to my business as I should. In connection with this I had liver trouble, heaviness about the stomach, and pains in different parts of my body. I was also much reduced in flesh. I was persuaded to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I first procured a trial bottle from a local druggist and good results quickly followed. I then procured a dollar bottle, and by the time I had used this up I was a different man. I am now on my third bottle and am able to sleep soundly and eat regularly, something I could not possibly do before taking your Nervine. I am now fully recovered, and do not hesitate to pronounce Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine the greatest nerve tonic on earth." Fulton, Ky. R. T. CALDWELL.
