

That Tired Feel-

Extreme tired feeling afflicts nearly everybody at this season. The hustlers cease to push, the tireless grow weary, the energetic become enervated. You know just what we mean. Some men and women endeavor temporarily to overcome that Feeling by great force of will. But this is unwise, as it pulls powerfully upon the nervous system, which will not long stand such strain. Too many people "work on their nerves," and the result is seen in unfortunate wrecks marked "nervous prostration," in every direction. That tired

CANINE WORTH $50,000.

He Was Once a Tramp Dog—Found by a Rich Man.

In Denver, Col., there is a dog that is worth $50,000 in his own right, and he dissipated until now he is suffering with consumption. At present he is still alive, is receiving attention at the hands of the most eminent physicians in the West, and is valued upon by a trained nurse. This particular dog is a small fox terrier, and was a tramp until picked up some years ago by a rich Philadelphian named Davis. The poor dog and the rich man became inseparable, and when Davis became ill the dog was greatly affected, and would neither eat nor sleep. Davis died, and the dog would not be quieted until after the body had been interred in the cemetery. Davis' love for the canine was so great that he willed $50,000 to the dog.

The condition of the dog would not improve in Philadelphia, so the physician ordered a change of climate. It was suggested that he be taken to Denver. He was taken there in the hope that the change of air might benefit his lungs. At the present time the dog, in common with the family of the dead man, is quartered at the leading fashionable hotel of Denver.

It is an interesting question whether the $50,000 reverts to the family in the event of the dog's death, which is certain, or goes to the State of Pennsylvania.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF A GRAY OVERCOAT

Upon the tongue, yellowness of the skin and eyes, and completely changed the whole system, when entering it through the mucous surface. Syrup of Figs

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is every where esteemed so highly, by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

TRAINING GRIPMEN.

BREAKING IN COUNTRYMEN FOR CITY RAILWAY SERVICE.

Young Farmers Make the Best Gripmen on Account of Their Strength and Caution—A Situation That Requires Close Attention and Plenty of Nerve.

"Where do the gripmen come from?" a strong armed, blue uniformed employe of the Washington and Georgetown railway was asked last night as he left his car at the end of the route for a cup of coffee and a sandwich in the all night restaurant.

"Why, from the country, most of them. These fellows who are raised on cigarettes and beer in the city don't seem to have the muscle necessary to throw on the brake and stop the train on a down grade. Then again a countryman is mighty careful about going through the streets. He's afraid that every man he sees step off the pavement is going to be run over, and he is absolutely certain that every team that comes out from a cross street is going to collide with him. It takes him about two years to get over this fear, and then, as he becomes a little careless, he has a few accidents that smash up fenders and take the paint off the coaches, and then he gets fired, and the road is ready to break in another countryman."

"How do they break them in?"

"Well, they are mighty careful with them. A new man on the grip is about the worst scared object in the world. Talk about your condemned man being scared when he's walking out to be hanged—why, his sensations ain't in it with the man who's running a grip car for the first time. To be sure, an experienced gripman is on the car right beside him, ready to throw on the brakes and sound the 'lookout' bell. But between the grip, and the wheel brake, and the 'stop' signals, and the 'look out' bells, and the people jumping on and off the grip car, your new gripman just gets seasick. They say they don't mind it, but they're talking through their bonnets, that's all. Then, another thing, the way they throw on the brake yanks their arms out of joint and makes 'em good and sore, I tell you."

"There's something funny about breaking up a grip car. I came from the country to my job, but I wasn't always a plowboy. When I was a young fellow, I used to work in a country printing office, and used to have to run a Washington hand press—ever run a Washington hand press—you're in the newspaper business? Well! Never run one? Well, then, I can't tell you anything about it, except that if you don't know the trick you can't throw 'er over and get an impression no more than a rabbit. You may have a muscle like a blacksmith, but if you don't know the knack you can't pull the lever over, but if you are on to the trick, and don't weigh more'n 90 pounds, you can throw her around just like lightning and make 600 impressions an hour—that is, if you've got a good 'devil' to do your inking."

"Well, as I was saying, that's just like breaking up a grip car. Some big fellows weighing 300 pounds, with muscles on them like Fitzsimmons, go out on one of these grips with two coaches behind 'em, and the way they brake 'er up makes all the passengers think they have gone to sea. Then a little fellow, who don't look heavy enough to handle a team of mules attached to a sulky plow, gets a job on the road, and he grabs that old grip like a drum major throwing a baton, and he'll get the knack of the thing right quick, and when he brakes 'er up the passengers think that the first waltz at the Charity ball is just starting."

"But while he may be throwing on the brakes all right he's kind of off his pins when it comes to hearing the two bells for go ahead. You see, a new man can't do everything at once. Takes about a week to get the shiver off, and during that time a regular gripman runs with the new man, keeping a sharp lookout. Then the new man, after his week, goes to the superintendent and has to pass an examination. They ask him all about the signals, and where other cars cross, and where the 'dead men' are—'dead men' a block you strike if you don't let go the cable where you have to, and if you ever strike a 'dead man' your job's gone, no ifs ands about it—and all about the street and so on. Well, if the new man passes the examination, he puts up $10, and they give him a certificate, and he can go and put that up for a uniform and an overcoat, and there you are—he's a gripman, ready for 20 degrees below zero and 100 degrees above zero and his little old $2 a day."

"The company's breaking in six new gripmen on the Fourteenth street line right now. Two of the old men died and a couple quit. Each line always keeps about a dozen extra gripmen on hand ready for an emergency, so they're breaking in these new ones. One of the new boys had an accident at Ninth and the avenue the other afternoon. Ran into an Anacostia boat car. By ginger, I thought he was going to knock the thing clear to the Good Hope hill, but he didn't. Scared? Well, the passengers on the boat car wasn't half as scared as he was. He could hardly get off the grip to pick up the pieces of the fender. He thought he was as good as fired, but the company never said nothing. Guess they thought they was lucky to get off with as little damage. And besides an accident right at the start makes a gripman extra careful for all the rest of the time."—Washington Post.

HAIR OF GREAT LENGTH.

Nearly One Foot Longer than Its Owner Is Tall.

Mrs. D. J. Davis, of San Francisco, Cal., has the longest hair in the world. She is 5 feet 9 inches tall, and her hair is 6 feet 8 inches long. Her sisters also have very long hair.

"I never brush my hair," said Mrs. Davis, as she removed those long, coral pins that held great coils in place about her head so that her hair might be measured, "for the reason that I do not believe it is good for the hair. In fact I have demonstrated my belief to my own satisfaction by experimenting. When a girl I gave very little attention to my hair, and in consequence

It did not grow at all. Sometimes I felt very much chagrined to see how much longer and prettier was the hair of all three of my sisters, but I was somewhat careless. When I became a woman I suddenly developed a desire to have long hair like theirs, and began to take the utmost care of what little I had. Every morning, and sometimes twice a day, I brushed it thoroughly, but it did not grow any better. Then I noticed that the brush, after the daily application to the hair, even when the latter had no tendency to fall out, would be filled with very fine hairs, and soon I realized that while the brushing had no effect upon the long hair it effectually killed the new growth, and I decided to stop.

"Since then I have used nothing but a very coarse comb. Every morning I go over the hair thoroughly and carefully, removing every snarl until it is as free and flowing as water. Then I braid it and coil it into varied coils about my head. I never used cosmetics on my hair."

FRENCH MINISTER'S WIFE.

Takes Precedence Over Every Woman in the Diplomatic Corps Except One.

Mme. Patenotre, wife of the French ambassador, takes precedence over every woman in the diplomatic corps save one, Lady Pauncefort, wife of the British ambassador. When Lady Pauncefort is not present Mme. Patenotre is the guest of honor. She must be taken out to dinner by the host, and she must be allowed to give the signal for departure at all the ceremonial banquets when foreign representatives are present. But two years since Mme. Patenotre was Miss Eleanor Elverson, of Philadelphia. She was educated abroad, and had seen little of society until after her brilliant marriage. She is a beautiful woman, with a charming manner; she is absolutely natural and unaffected. She speaks French and German fluently, plays the harp with much skill and sings well. She is a general favorite, and has the ability of remembering names, which is a priceless boon to the wife of a diplomat. Her costumes are always chic and her jewels number among the handsomest in Washington. M. Patenotre's career has been marked by great success. After finishing his education in Paris he made a tour of Morocco, Egypt and Palestine. He then went as attaché to Athens. Persia was his next post, and he saw that country under the protection of the Shah. At Buenos Ayres he learned Spanish and visited every point of interest in South America. He has seen diplomatic service in Sweden, and distinguished himself in China in the negotiation concerning the treaty of Anam.

What he does—if he is of a cautious and saving nature—is to put his rupees in a hiding place, but if he is inclined for show he indulges his fancy by putting gold or silver ornaments on the person of his wife and children.

These ornaments are the very last things to be parted with on a reverse of fortune, and even in the lowest social depths they are not put on the market until the last piece of coined money has vanished and no household utensils of brass or copper are left with which to obtain a coin.

Natural Question.

A Knight Templar and his family were travelling over the New York Central to attend last summer's convale in Boston.

The "limited" train was rushing along at the rate of sixty miles an hour, when a five-year-old youngster, who was sitting at the window, was startled by the rush and roar of a passing train, and fell back in his fright. Recovering himself quickly, he looked up in his father's face, and gasped, "Papa, did we swallow it?"

When there is a snow storm the fancy of very young men lightly turns to thoughts of tracking rabbits.

ALL CHICAGO KNOWS HIM.

W. W. Watson, Leading Real Estate Man, Restored to Health by Paine's Celery Compound.

Chicago, May 25.—Mr. W. W. Watson's reputation throughout the West for unerring judgment in the valuation of land has made him foremost among the most conservative, careful class of investors in Chicago.

Unlike many hard driven business men, the owner of "Alpine Heights," that splendid suburb of Chicago, has not neglected his health on account of his exacting business. The following unrequested statement from Mr. Watson shows how consistent with his lifelong, careful, conscientious and successful business habits has been his attention to getting well. He states in the Times-Herald:

"Upon the recommendation of a friend, I used Paine's celery compound for headaches, constipation, indigestion and loss of sleep, and found it all it was recommended to be. I suffer no more from headaches, sleep soundly at night, and am now in perfect health. This is the only medicine that I have ever taken for these complaints, which has benefited me at all."

"W. W. WATSON, 235 Dearborn st."

Busy men and women are apt to think there is always time to get well. The fact that only one person in a hundred dies of old age shows how recklessly men and women postpone attending to their health and allow it to go to pieces while they devote themselves heart and soul to affairs that are trifling in comparison. Wives and mothers have no greater duty than to see that those dear to them do not become so absorbed in the work of providing for the household as to lose their health and shorten their days.

No more thoughtful step could be taken during the spring days that are now here than to urge such tired and often irritable home providers to take Paine's celery compound. There are thousands of homes where overwork has led to worrying, fretting and despondency, that need only Paine's celery compound to banish the unhealthy atmosphere and make things bright and cheerful again.

It is the only spring remedy universally prescribed by physicians. It makes people well by giving them a hearty appetite and a relish for their food. Hard-worked men and women, the nervous, weak and debilitated, get new strength, fresh nerve energy and a purer, more vigorous blood supply from Paine's celery compound.

This most valuable nerve and brain invigorator and restorer practically demonstrates the lifelong conviction of its eminent discoverer, Professor Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth College. Professor Phelps was for a long time convinced that sound nutrition was the keystone of firm health, and that where there were signs of poorly nourished nerve tissues, and of thin, pale-colored blood, some means must be devised to supply these deficiencies briskly and rapidly. Professor Phelps prepared Paine's celery compound on this basis. It has proved an invigorator, strengthener and a great spring purifier, such as the world has never enjoyed before our day.

Tomorrow, or next day, or the day after is not soon enough to look about getting rid of weakness or disease. Take Paine's celery compound today. There is no time equal to these early spring days for throwing off poor health. There are few persons who do not need to take a spring remedy.

Many not downright sick, but tired or ailing, would be immensely benefited by taking Paine's celery compound, especially at this particularly favorable season of the year.

This great compound will banish that tired feeling, cleanse the blood and regulate the nerves.
