When Taxes Are Dolinguest.

[•] Oregon City, May 25.—(To the Edi-tor,)—"Please state when our state, county and city taxes become delin-quent. I would suggest to the assessor that this information be printed on the tax statement. also the penalty, etc., as they do over in Washington. Tax-PAYER

It is never known for any length of time in advance when the collection of taxes can be commenced, so it can never be told just when the taxes will be declared delinquent. This renders it impracticable to have the information printed on the notices as suggeste l. The law defines March 1 as the time when the collection of taxes shall be commenced, and June 1 as the time when they shall become delinquent, but the county court and sheriff have power to change those dates, and also to extend the time allowed for taxes to be paid in, and usually the date upon which they are to be declared delinquent is advanced more than once. The reason for not declaring these taxes delinquent were hard times and the increased levy caused by the great falling off in values, especially in Os wego, on account of the closing of the O. I. & S. Co's. operations. The collection of taxes is usually commenced in April, as soon as the roll has been extended. It is not likely that taxes will be declared delinquent for some time. Should Sheriff Maddock, how ever, fail to be re-elected, it is probable taxes will be declared delinquent soon after June 1, as it will be necessary for him to close the rolls at once in order cost of the various county officers that leads to erroneous conclusions. Populists' False Position

Jacob S. Coxey, the commonwealer, in an interview claims that the populist stand for free silver is false. The democratic of Oregon is the only party that has a free silver plank in its platform.

Mr. Coxey says: "In December, 1894, Chairman Taubeneck, of the populist party, and General Weaver made an arrangement with the silver men to tie up the populist party; to discard the Omaha plat e; $1. form and join in a lengthy wrangle, over the question of the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. An Interesting Question.

The total number of delegates chosen in the various sections of the country is, however, still small compared with the many things now unexpected may happen before the 16th of June. The interesting question is whether Mr. McKinley's boom will keep on increasing like an industriously rolled snowball or melt harmony on the currency question, ap-pear resolved to keep up agitation for woolen goods to a far greater extent. higher protective duties. A calamity organ howls over the large importation of woolens in 1895 as if the like had never happened in the country before, when, in fact, these importations amounted in value in 1890 to $56,582,-432, at an average duty of 80 per cent. When the duty was raised by the Mc-Kinley tariff to 100 per cent, these importations declined in value in 1891 to $41,060,080. In 1895 the importations of woolens amounted in value to $60,-000,000, at an average duty of a little less than 50 per cent. The larger importations of 1895 cost at the custom house a little less than $90,000,000, and the much smaller importations of 1891 cost nearly a similar sum. When the goods passed from the importers to the wholesale dealers and the retailers, and claims upon the said company for the finally to the consumers, the difference proportion of surplus funds allotted to in cost was nearly if not altogether effaced. In other words, the American consumers are obtaining a great deal more warm, comfortable and pure woolen clothing for a great deal less money. But the same calamity organ asserts without proof-or rather in face of proof to the contrary-that a great deal of the woolen goods now imported is 'of the most unsatisfactory kind." This assertion is made on the gratuitons assumption that the American people are such poor judges of the qualities of their wearing apparel that they are easily imposed upon by the cheap and flimsy stuffs that are brought from abroad. It goes on the further assumption that the importers, merchant tailors and dressmakers do not hesitate to cheat their customers with these "shoudy" stuffs, when much better of home production could be obtained.

> If the manufacturers, merchants, importers, tailors, dressmakers and consumers of the United States could be summoned, there is no doubt that by an overwhelming majority they would testify that the woolen clothing, both of domestic and foreign production, was better, purer, cheaper and more abundant in 1895 than in any former year in the country's history. The proofs of this lie on the surface on either hand. The manufactures of domestic woolens of nearly every description were in far greater quantity and of far better quality than in any former year. As substantial evidence of the truth of this statement the consumption of wool, domestic and foreign, in the American mills last year was much greater and of much finer qualities than ever before. The products of this wool are not lying unsold in warehouses, but have gone to cover the backs of 70,000,000 of American men, women and children in this inclement winter. If the assertions of the calamity howlers had been true, the enormous quantities of fine wools of Australia and Argentina could not have been imported and made into goods against a

The American millions are enjoying the benefits of both movements in the excellence, variety, cheapness and abandance of their winter clothing.

As a further and most important consequence of this great revolution there is no doubt that the remarkable health which the American people enjoyed last year and are now enjoying has been and is due in a very large degree to the cheapness and abundance of their supplies of woolen apparel. Instead of going to the doctor for a pill or a bolus, or to the druggist for a patent medicine, upon every fresh attack of cold or rheumatism, they have prescribed for them-selves more warm blankets, flannels and underwear as a preventive of the diseases that are so frequent in the variable climates of the United States. By returning to high duties on wool, and still higher taxes on woolen clothing, the American people would grievously sin against themselves in both pocket and health. We do not believe they will be guilty of so great an offense.-Philadelphia Record.

Neither Honest Nor Satisfactory.

"The national convention will have to do better on the money question than did the Ohio Republicans," says the Philadelphia Inquirer, Republican, which characterizes the Ohio plank as 'not honest, because it is meaningless. It is nothing but a paraphrase of the national plank, and it is unsatisfactory.
