PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY.

OREGON CITY, JUNE 5, 1896.

A LAND SLIDE.

Monday's election resulted in a landslide for the populists, they electing every man on the ticket with majorities ranging from 30 for Wright for surveyor to 1390 for Dixon for county clerk.

The semi official returns are published in another column. The result was a surprise even to the populists themselves, who expected to elect a godly number, but the whole ticket was hardly thought of.

The democratic vote ran from 300 to 1070. Dr Sommer for coroner and E. C Hackett for assessor receiving the largest and Robbins and Irvine the smallest about 265.

The republicans elected M. F. McCown for constable in Oregon City precinct, but they would not have done that had there been a populist candidate in the field.

The following shows how the tickets were scratched: In Oregon City precinct No. 1, where 306 votes were polled, there were but seven straight tickets voted—four populist, two republican and one democratic.

The populist candidates, Vanderburg and Quinn, are probably elected congressmen in their respective districts.

The San Francisco Call of May 25th gives Oregon City a two column write up with several illustrations of the mills here. It is over the signature of J. M. Lawrence, secretary of the board of trade.

In the June Arena W. S. U'Ren receives a very flattering mention in connection with the direct legislation or initiative and referendum movement in the United States.

EVERY candidate that the Oregonian supported during the campaign was defeated. Does this signify anything?

AFTER July 1st the populists will practically have complete control of the county affairs.

BALANCE OF TRADE.

An Absurd Theory That Will Not Stand the Test of Scrutiny. A gentleman of this city, replying to the Herald's editorial on the absurd "balance of trade" theory advanced by Republicans, writes to The Herald:

"The large and continued (excess of) imports over exports of England and Germany mentioned in your editorial, and which appear at first sight puzzling, are, in my opinion, easily explained. Both nations have been investing for a long period of years a part of their wealth in foreign countries, and the surplus annually received by them in merchandise constitutes the interest and profit accruing therefrom."

This theory may seem plausible to some, but it will not stand scrutiny. The excess of values of Germany's imports over those of her exports of merchandise averages annually $242,000,000. And the excess of the values of Great Britain's imports of merchandise and gold over those of her exports of both averages $595,000,000 per annum.

If this theory be correct, it follows that (assuming 6 per cent as the interest on the capital invested abroad) Germany has invested $4,000,000,000 and Great Britain $9,900,000,000, sums vastly transcending the limits of probability.

But the theory is invalidated and completely demolished by the following consideration: From 1848 to 1861, under the low tariff (known as the Walker tariff), the United States received in exchange for its exports an annual average excess of imports of $32,000,000, which is the interest, at 6 per cent, on $533,000,000! Did we then—as now, we were a debtor country—have this stupendous sum or any considerable sum invested in foreign countries? We need only propound this question to show the absurdity of an affirmative answer.

As The Herald showed in its editorial of Monday last the enormous excess of values of Germany's and Britain's merchandise imports over those of their exports was mainly the natural increase and profits accruing to every nation which does not handicap its foreign trade with the barbarous system of high tariff "protectionism."—New York Herald.

SEMI-OFFICIAL VOTE OF CLACKAMAS COUNTY, JUNE ELECTION.

Table of candidates and their vote counts for various offices including Congress, Supreme Judge, District Attorney, etc.

THE SHEEP INDUSTRY.

Notwithstanding Free Wool the Flocks Have Not Decreased.

We have been hearing from our high tariff friends for some time past of the dread effect of free wool upon the sheep industry of the country, accompanied by statements of great reductions in the number of sheep raised.

The aggregate shows in the States named 15,665,520 sheep in 1890, against 15,601,837 in 1895. This shows a reduction of only 63,683 sheep during the last five years, which, considering the unprecedented depression in all industries, I think is a complete refutation of these statements of disaster, which are usually made without any basis of fact to sustain them.

The Lesser Evil.

Ordinarily, the Boston Herald, Independent, "would not desire the success of the bosses, and yet the danger from McKinley's positive views on the tariff and doubtful views on the currency is such that one is forced to hope for boss triumph to the extent of his defeat. The danger, should McKinley be elected, would be immediate and pressing; that of a triumph in which the bosses share may not involve the adoption of boss rule."

WHY DON'T YOU LAUGH?

Merriment During Meals Is the Greatest Medicine For Dyspepsia.

A writer in the Speaker of London calls attention to the value of conversation at meals as an aid to digestion. He says with truth that the frugal repast eaten in silence is more harmful than a copious one enjoyed in the society of gay and vivacious companions.

He asserts that an English dinner is, as a rule, a funeral rite of taciturnity, and that his countrymen reserve all of their talk for the political platform and sessions of parliament. The writer in the Speaker contrasts this habit of the English with that of Americans and Frenchmen, who, he maintains, are loquacious at meals.

So far as the latter are concerned, he is correct, but his assertion in regard to the former is only partly true. To those who have given attention to this subject the habit of our people who take their meals at hotels or more notable restaurants is, during their repasts, one of timid hesitation in indulging in conversation. Men and women seated at the same table are more than sparing of words. Each separate group appears to be oppressed with fears of the others. Oblique looks and an occasional sentence, uttered in low tones, take the place of animated talk.

The June Arena.

The June ARENA opens its 16th volume, appearing in a new dress, and being printed by Skinner, Barlett & Co. as an unusually strong number, opening with a brilliant paper by Rev. Samuel Barrows, D. D., the distinguished editor of the "Christian Register" of Boston, on "The First Pagan Crisis of Christian Faith and His Anticipation of Modern Thought."

Justice Walter Clark, LL. D. of the Supreme Bench of North Carolina, contributes an instructive and delightful paper on Mexico, "A Proposed Platform for American Independents for 1896," which illustrates how strongly the silver movement is taking hold of Eastern financiers no less than the mass of voters in the South and West.

Another paper of special merit, on "Bimetallism," appears in this number by A. J. Utley. It is able and from a silver point of view convincing.

Prof. Parsons of Boston University Law School continues his masterly papers on the "Government Control of Telegraph," a series of careful papers hitherto unapproached in authoritative character.

Mr. O. Flower, the editor of THE ARK, writes in a most captivating manner of Whittier, considering him in the aspect of a "Poet of Freedom," and giving many of Whittier's most stirring lines. Another interesting feature of this issue is Mr. Elwood Pomeroy's illustrated paper on the "Direct Legislation Movement and Its Leaders."

Students of the higher metaphysical thought of our time will be deeply interested in Horatio W. Dresser's paper entitled "The Mental Cure in its Relation to Modern Thought." Will Allen Dromgole continues her powerful serial of "Tennessee Life," and Mrs. Calvin Kryder Reifsnider's "Psychical Romance."

The Athletic Woman.

The woman who at this end of the century neglects physical culture or the practice of some form of athletics is a curiosity; all ages and conditions, all classes and nationalities, agree that woman to be at her best, whatever her ruling ambition may be, must cultivate her physical as well as her mental powers, for on the perfection of the former depends the brilliancy of the latter. The "all pervading bicycle" has undoubtedly been an important factor in establishing this principle, and if not the favorite form of exercise is invariably an adjunct to her special field in physical culture.

DEMOISELLE'S MAGAZINE for June has several excellent articles in this line; and all women should read the handsomely illustrated papers on "The Reign of the Bicycle" and "Woman and Her Wheel," also "Women in Athletics," in which experts in golf, swimming, wheeling, fencing, tennis, etc., give valuable points regarding the benefits and pleasures derived from the particular sport which each adores.

The fifth volume of the MIDLAND MONTHLY, (Des Moines) vigorously closes with the forthcoming June number. In this number is begun a series of finely illustrated papers by N. Tjornehoj entitled, "On Foot in Egypt and Palestine." A patriotic celebration in rural Switzerland is described by Consul General Richman; Twelve "Statesmen's Wives" are pictured by Mrs. Babbitt; Block Island is happily described by Mr. G. M. Hyde; Col. Pickett, who first nominated Lincoln for the presidency, is sketched; Mrs. C. F. McLean charmingly pictures the holocaust of Robert Louis Stevenson in Greece. In "The Glow's Course," Mr. Ed. L. Labin appears in the role of a romancer, and Stevenson himself couldn't have told the story better.

Among the poets of the number are Belle E. Smith, author of "If I should die to-night," and Mrs. Virginia J. Berryhill, a vice-president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs.

DEATH TO FRUIT PESTS.

To make the Orchard pay you must spray, winter and summer with Prof. Brown's Exterminator. The only insecticide known that will kill all insect life without injury to fruit or foliage.

Endorsed by the State Board of Horticulture of California, Oregon and Washington. Used by many Nurserymen and Orchardists. My winter wash is the only solution that will kill the woolly Aphis, (used only when the foliage is off). My summer wash is a pure destroyer of the codling moth, eggs, and all insects except woolly Aphis, use just after the blossoms fall off; my hop-o-use wash kills all insects that infest vines, vegetables and plants.

The ingredients used in any formula can be found in any drug store, costs much less than other washes. (Full and explicit directions for mixing and using.)

Knowing I have a sure remedy, some unprincipled parties are now selling imitations. Therefore, to discourage all such parties I have concluded for a short time only to reduce the price of the three formulas to $2.50 by mail to any address. Formulas copyrighted, January 14th, 1896.
