PATRIZIE HOME INDUSTRY.

OREGON CITY, JUNE 26, 1896.

WHY HARD TIMES.

In 1873 the report of the agricultural society of one of the great states of the Middle West stated: 'The farmers have worked, watched and waited for an adequate reward until weariness has well nigh turned to hopelessness. Farming has been a financial failure for the past three years. Hard toil has opened up fine farms and brought to the bins the products of unexampled harvests, but the sales have hardly paid expenses and bought cheap clothing until the coming harvest.'

Twenty-three years ago, 'goldbug' had not become a term of reproach and contempt, and the free silver agitation was hidden in the womb of dim futurity. Clearly, then, the silver question was not at the bottom of the 'hard times' of 1873, there being no gold or silver in circulation. During the 40 years ending with 1849 money rose in value in comparison with staple commodities by 140 per cent and in the fifties corn sold at 6 to 8 cents a bushel in Illinois. That extraordinary fall in prices was not caused by the 'crime of '73.' There was, practically, free coinage of silver the world over except in England.

These two periods of depression were not ascribed to any invidious treatment of the silver dollar. What produced them? The causes, in each case, were not one but several or many. In 1873 the reaction from the civil war had reached its lowest level, and stagnation was inevitable. A collapse follows a boom. It is possible, therefore, that the free-silverite, however honest or zealous he may be, overlooks the number of other adverse influences that have brought us to the present state of circumstances, centering his mind's eye only on the silver dollar and the shylock goldbug.

As long as the financial agitation continues, business will not resume a healthy activity. Money, being cowardly, remains in hiding. With business in full swing, $1000 in coin, liquidates debts to an amount well nigh incalculable, for it 'keeps a movin'', and swells the volume of business wonderfully. But now, the first man out of debt, that gets his fingers on that $1000 puts it in his stocking and there it stays, inert, dead. Indeed, stability of our financial system is of as much, if not greater importance than the question at issue between the goldbugs and the silverbugs. We want to know 'where we are at,' and the sooner we know that the better.

THE SILVERITES' CHANCE.

The bolt of a few of the Western republicans from the party will not greatly endanger McKinley's chances, unless there should be a combination of all of the silver forces upon one opposing candidate. With the silver vote divided between a democratic and a populist candidate, and possibly Teller as a third silver candidate, the republicans could easily lose Colorado, California, Nevada, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming, in addition to the whole South, still win. But if the free silver democrats and populists can combine on either a democrat like Bland, or a republican like Teller, or a populist like Pennoyer, they would give McKinley a very hard battle, with good chances of carrying the country. There is no disguising or denying the fact that the 'silver craze' has reached immense proportions, and only a division in its ranks will prevent its ultimate success. But such a union of these various parties or fraction of parties is very improbable, hence McKinley's election may at present be confidently expected.—Welcome.

AN APPEAL.

The outcome of the democratic convention at Chicago may be (1) the nomination of a gold-standard democrat on a gold-standard platform, (2) the nomination of a free-coinage candidate on a silver platform; (3) the nomination on a 'straddle' platform of a weak compromise candidate, who would be kicked through an inglorious campaign to an unlamented defeat. Here is room for choice. It is the choice between life and death. The democratic party survived the war of the rebellion; survived the consequences of its own weakness and errors. About 20 years after the war, it elected a president. Eight years later it elected him again. That exhibition of vital force and recuperative power shows that the democratic party is tough, practically indestructible. The party will survive its present ills. But it must have medical care and good nursing, somebody to minister to its imperiled body, somebody to stimulate and direct its rallying powers. This is the work of the democratic leaders of the East, of the men who have always led the party when it has marched to victory. They have no ordinary case to deal with, but it is not at all a hopeless case. They must save the party from the frightful disaster which threatens it. They will save it if they work together with zeal, intelligence, and all their might.—N. Y. Times (Dem.)

Through every newspaper office day after day go all the vanities that want to be puffed, all the mistakes that want to be corrected, all the dull speakers that want to be thought eloquent, all the meanness that wants to get its wares noticed gratis in order to save the tax of the advertising column. Through editorial and reportorial rooms all the follies and shams of the world are seen day after day, and the temptation is neither to believe in God, man or woman. It is no surprise to us that in this profession there are some skeptical men. We only wonder that newspaper men believe in anything.—Ex.

It is absurd to think the Democratic convention will nominate Teller because he is a free silver man, when there are plenty of good free silver men in the party; of course, the silver republicans and populists would endorse him. But the democrats want a man that will get all the democratic votes besides the free silver republicans and populists.

A WORD TO THE WISE.

WILL YOUR WIDOW DRESS AS WELL AS YOUR WIFE DOES? THE ONE who killed the goose that laid the golden egg, was no more foolish than she who persuades her husband to avoid or abandon life insurance for her benefit. HE HAND and SOXS should not be permitted by wives and mothers to go unsecured. Insurance is a cash appropriation and financial acknowledgment of a valuable life. YOU ARE NOT POOR, so long as you can earn a living and keep your life insured. THE PROPHET OAD gave David choice of three scourges, famine for seven years; three years defeat, or three days' pestilence. The families of those who neglect insurance have no choice. They must take what comes. Don't delay taking that insurance. The Mass Mutual Life Ins Co. is 45 years old, and writes the best policy. Send name and date of birth for same full policy. H. G. DEFIES ALL BURGLARS.

GREAT SAFE THAT IS A MECHANICAL CURIOSITY.

The Bank of Oregon City installs a Receptacle for Cash, Claimed to Be Proof against Any Attacks from Thieves, Mobs or Dynamite—A Revolution in safe-construction.

There was a curious sight on Main street last week, and it can be stated positively that not the oldest resident of Oregon City ever saw one similar in all its details. A large crowd gathered that day on the sidewalk in front of the Bank of Oregon City and watched with apparently absorbing interest the arrival of a truck drawn by four powerful horses.

The mysterious article which was evidently of great weight, was carefully wrapped in bagging and surrounded by a queer looking harness that added to its mysterious appearance. 'What is it?' was on everybody's lips, but not one could answer. Speculation ranged all the way from a 'gigantic cannon ball' to a 'monument of unique design.'

When the great wagon with its ponderous and mysterious load was driven in front of The Bank of Oregon City and stopped there, we learned that the curiosity was an immense burglar and mob-proof safe of original design made by William Corliss of Providence, R. I., one of the brothers of steam engine fame. Upon making inquiry we learn that this particular safe is over four feet in diameter, weighs 7 1/2 tons, and is built upon lines that make it as impregnable to attacks by burglars and mobs as the Spanish once found Gibraltar to be when they attempted to wrest that fortress from the British.

Having thus had our attention called to this subject we have taken some trouble to inform ourselves and find that the Corliss safe is a wonderful production, and, like many other radical departures from usual methods, its conception and perfection is the result of a trivial circumstance that entirely changed the life work of its designer and gave to the world a unique and very valuable invention.

Some twenty years ago Mr. William Corliss, then the treasurer and manager of the famous Corliss Steam Engine Company of Providence, R. I., (of which his brother, the late George H. Corliss, was the founder), while acting upon a committee of the Merchants' National Bank of that city, was called upon to purchase a burglar-proof safe. Upon investigating the system of construction practiced by the leading safe and vault manufacturers, Mr. Corliss pronounced it radically wrong and inherently defective.

Realizing the importance of the subject and comprehending the mechanical defects of the prevailing system of construction, Mr. Corliss' mind dwelt upon it so much that in the course of a few years he conceived what is now the Corliss safe, and finally embraced in the business of manufacturing it.

During the past few months a startling report has been issued by the government upon his subject. We refer to the report of the treasury commission upon safe and vault construction; this commission having been appointed by act of congress.

This report confirms the position taken by Mr. Corliss when the subject was first brought to his attention, for it practically condemns as worthless the standard and usual method of safe and vault construction. The report is profusely illustrated with photographic views of safes (made by all the prominent builders) that have been cut through, torn apart or opened with explosives. The Corliss safe was the only one that withstood all attacks made upon it, and its adoption by the treasury department was recommended.

In speaking of the Corliss safe the commission says: 'The whole is a well contrived, ingenious and novel system, as essentially a type by itself as is the Corliss Steam Engine in its class of invention.'

The Bank of Oregon City people are more than pleased with their new purchase and take great delight in showing it to their customers. One of the officials, when asked about the new safe, said in substance: 'This safe solves the burglar-proof question. This, to my mind, is the only strictly burglar-proof safe manufactured and I defy any one to get into it by means of explosive. Why it would take—' The sentence was not finished nor was it necessary. The construction of the safe precluded all questioning.

We congratulate our neighbors upon the possession of such a safe for their securities. It is only another evidence of their enterprise and prudence. We prophesy that their example will be followed by many.

National Matte Smelter.

A practical and simple method of matting sulphide ores, such as nickel, copper, gold and silver ores. In lots sizes where lead ores and fuels are scarce and almost unobtainable, our pyritic, water jacketed Matte Smelter has been recognized with highly satisfactory result, and has been thoroughly tested on various pyritic, sulphide and arsenide ores, in capacity of 2 to 30 per day. It is the most practical, cheapest and simplest method of gold and silver ore matting and concentrating that is known to-day.

It requires no extraordinary skill, no lead ores, no matting material, and no fuel of any kind for the smelter after it is started. The sulphur in the ore is its natural fuel only, and its cost has no comparison with any other process of concentrating.

We are prepared to furnish any size or capacity plant complete to substantial mining people. We will furnish our men to run it for them on easy payments. Prices and specifications furnished with references and testimonials on application.
