FISHING IN CLACKAMAS.—During past years persons engaged in the catching of salmon on the Clackamas river have, through some means, been able to flood the market with a big supply early in the morning of the opening day of the season. This can only be accomplished by violation of the law. The Clackamas river is a stream difficult to patrol, and fisherman, realizing this, pick out the most advantageous places for securing the first haul of salmon. Ofttimes they pack their boats far up into the mountains by wagons, over the rough roads, and, reaching a coveted place, float their boats, and drift down the river with the current with their nets. Last year Fish Protector McGuire employed one man to patrol the Clackamas river; but he was not able to accomplish much in the way of imposing penalties for violations of the state law. This year Mr. McGuire has appointed eight deputies, who live along the Clackamas river, to patrol the stream, and these guards are expected to keep a vigilant outlook, so that no illegal fishing will be indulged in during the final hours of the close season. The plans for artificial propagation of salmon have proved so extensive that the U. S. fish commission has deemed it necessary to secure the service of a special agent in the gathering of eggs. A contract has been made with Thomas Brown, of Oregon City, to collect the eggs on the Sandy river, and as soon as they are "eyed," to transfer them to the hatchery for artificial propagation. The work in this line has proved so extensive that Superintendent Hubbard, of the U. S. fish commission, could not give full attention to it on account of the increased work proposed to be carried on.

SCIENCE.—Samuel Faust, a farmer living a short distance back of Canemah, hanged himself in his barn Tuesday morning. He had been confined to the house much lately, taking care of an infirm wife, and had grown somewhat morose. He did not sleep well, and about 4 o'clock he arose and dressed himself in his best clothes and went to the barn. Later his body was found suspended from a beam by a small rope around the neck. The coroner was at once notified, and the jury that he impeached, after hearing testimony, reported that the deceased committed suicide, while suffering from temporary aberration. Mr. Faust was 61 years old, and lived with his wife and two sons in the family home. One son is in the state insane asylum. A married daughter lives in California. The family were in comfortable circumstances and lived harmoniously together, there having been no difficulty whatever between the members.

GRAND CONCERT.—The greatest, grandest and most complete concert ever given in Oregon City will hold the boards at Shively's on Tuesday evening, May 4th. The two great and only musical choruses of the city, the Treble Clef and the Haleyans, will participate. One of the numbers will be the wonderful child player and musical prodigy in some of her classical and soulstirring solos. The best, if not all, the musical and literary talent of the city will take part in the performance. This is a treat that the music loving people of Oregon City never had an opportunity to partake of before. The great violinist, Senor Ysaye of Portland, will render some beautiful solos. It ought to be a grand success. Program and particulars later.

New Factory.—C. C. Robbins of this city and D. S. Livesay of Woodburn will build a sash and door factory on lower Main street, opposite location of mill which burned some time since. The firm will be ready for business in about three weeks. Mr. Livesay is proprietor of the Woodburn lumber yard and will move his planing mill from that place to Oregon City and additional machinery will be added. They will do a general sash and door and planing mill business and will deal in cedar and hardwood lumber. Mr. Robbins is well known and has been in this business for 16 years. Mr. Livesay was a resident of Clackamas before he went to Woodburn some years ago.

Drs. Maybe and Mustbe.
You choose the old doctor before the young one. Why? Because you don't want to entrust your life in inexperienced hands. True, the young doctor may be experienced. But the old doctor must be. You take no chances with Dr. Maybe, when Dr. Mustbe is in reach. Same with medicines as with medicine makers—the long-tried remedy has your confidence. You prefer experience to experiment—when you are concerned. The new remedy may be good—but let somebody else prove it. The old remedy must be good—judged on its record of cures. Just one more reason for choosing AYER'S Sarsaparilla in preference to any other. It has been the standard household sarsaparilla for half a century. Its record inspires confidence—50 years of cures. If others may be good, Ayer's Sarsaparilla must be. You take no chances when you take AYER'S Sarsaparilla.
