They forget that this great country was on the eve of recovering from the panic, before even there was a possibility of the passing of many among whom is Simpson-that high protection duties. These periods Edgar Allen Poe of Oregon-who sang of of financial depression occasionally occur, and the great industries of the echoes may be heard mingling with the country recover to some extent, in spite music of our Chautauqua songs while of the opposition of monopolistic trusts its mighty waters thunder on through and the machinations of gold bug the Lowell of the West. Then there is financiers.

Good crops coupled with good prices, aves a new impetus to trade in innumerable ways. There is more labor for the memployed, and, as a consequence, all; he has sung in a foreign land and greater demand for manufactured articles, as well as the products of the farm and garden ensue. All these things set the wheels of commerce into motion, and soon an ere of tolerable prosperity strikes the country.

But the truth is the Dingley tariff schedule had nothing to do with it. The provisions of the tariff schudule in political debts. Politicians in some localities desired special articles in which they were interested or connected as manufacturers protected with heavy duties. Oregon has great deposits of nickel ore, but the makers of the Dingley tariff law refused to protect it against the importations of Canada nickel. The people of Clackamas county will be beavily taxed on the sugar that they use, as well as the woolen goods that they buy. Will they be able to ascertain wherein they are benefited by this exhorbitant protection bill.? Senator Teller, who was at one time something of a protectionist himself, says of the Dingley bill: "In my judgment it is the worst tariff bill ever passed. The mates are exceedingly high. It takes care of all the trusts in the country, and, I say it without offense, the trusts and combinations and syndicates have had too much to do with this bill."

CLACKAMAS county will have a fair at at will be a credit to this

Scrofula Affects the Eyes-Little Boy Treated by an Oculist Without Relief-But Now He is Weil.

"When my little boy was three months old his eyes became very sore and he was almost blind. I took him to an oculist who treated him for six months, and left him as bad as he was at the beginning. Finally Hood's Sarsaparilia was recommended and I began giving it to him. In less than three weeks he was able to go into the sun without covering his eyes, and today his eyes are perfectly well, and his cars and nose, which were badly affected, are also well, Hood's Sarsaparilla has certainly done wonders for my boy."
