THE ASSESSMENT QUESTION

It seems that Multnomah county's assessor is allowing mortgage notes to go un-assessed and untaxed, while hundreds of thousands of dollars of these notes are meting on this, the Gregorian says:

This year again the assessor of Clack. and was highly pleased. amis county has been using the records as evidence of notes secured by mortgage, and assessing such notes to the mortgages. This is the news from Oregon City. On the first day's session of the county board of equalization thirty taxpayers called to protest against "the assessor's practice of going to the records to find notes that should be assessed."

And well they might.
It is hard, the correspondent says, "to make the taxpayers see that it is not the mortgage that is being assessed, but the note which the mortgage secures." And hard it certainly must be. Of what avail is the repeal of the mortgage-tax law, if the records of mortgages are used as evidence of ownership of notes to be assessed and taxed, precisely as mort-gages were formerly assessed and taxed? If the assessor of Clackamas county, or any other county in Oregon, is honest, he will not be lonz in finding out that there is not safety in the assumption that a mortgagee of records is the holder of the note it secures. In Multnomah county a persistent chase of this class of notes resulted in the discovery that most of them were in the banks, either sold outright or signed over as collateral. The bank where they were deposited was their virtual owner.

This is not largely true, of course, as regards notes held by foreign companies, either in the East or in Europe. These are altogether unassessable. If the as-sessor of Clackamas county is determined itself at home, and to punish the Oregon farmers for borrowing the money needs in Portland instead of in Scotland, he can undoubtedly cause both the man who borrows to improve his place, no end of annoyance. But the inevitable effect of his policy ought to be under-
