Not How High

But how low can we make the price, is the question we ask ourselves when marking our goods for sale. That's what makes ours an ever-expanding business, it's a potent advertiser; it tells the story through the purse in thousands of homes, only to be retold in countless others by appreciative money savers.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston, Nov. 3.—Roger Wolcott, the republican candidate, is re-elected governor of Massachusetts by a plurality of nearly 86,000. There are still a few remote precincts to hear from but the total vote in these districts is only 100. Revised returns show a total vote of 165,313 for Wolcott; 79,395 for George Fred Williams, the regular democratic, and 14,139 for William Everett, the nominee of the national democrats. Wolcott's plurality was 124,253 last year, nearly 11,000 less than his total vote this year. This year's political complex-

THE LATEST RETURNS.

Since going to press with the outside, more complete returns are in and the following results, while, of course, incomplete, will indicate the result on official count.

Pennsylvania is republican by a greatly reduced majority.

Kentucky has returned an old time democratic majority.

Maryland is democratic by a close margin and Gorman will, doubtless, be returned to the U. S. senate.

NEW YORK STATE.

Van Wyck, Tammany's candidate for mayor of Greater New York, is elected by 85,000 plurality. All large cities in the state have gone democratic. A change in the state of more than 24,000 votes from the republican to the democratic vote has been made over one year ago. Both sides claim a majority in the state assembly but the associated press insist on a republican majority for U. S. senator on joint ballot.

OHIO.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 3.—This afternoon the democratic state committee no longer claim the election of their state ticket, but announce that their majority in the legislature on joint ballot will not be less than six and may possibly be nine.

Chairman Nash this afternoon states that the republican plurality on the state ticket will be from 12,000 to 15,000 and the republicans will have at least three majority in the legislature on joint ballot for senator. Nash announced that the legislature would stand 75 republicans and 70 democrats.

With more complete returns today than were obtainable last night it is evident that it will require an official count to satisfy the contestants. The closeness of the election has caused intense feeling and a cry of fraud. The state headquarters will be kept open until the official counts are made in all the 88 counties of the state. It is expected there will be trouble in some of the close counties. There will no doubt be much agitation in all of them tonight.

The Dispatch (independent) has special today from all close counties. It makes the legislature on joint ballot stand 73 republicans and 72 democrats, and claims there is no doubt about this result.

It seems to be conceded that whatever may be the final outcome on joint ballot for senator that the democrats will have a majority of state senators and the republicans of representatives. As there will be a continued contest of one branch of the legislature against the other, no partisan bill can be passed.

IOWA.

DES MOINES, Nov. 3.—The returns by counties are nearly all in now, and Chairman McMillin of the republican state committee, has complete returns from 94 and estimates from the five remaining counties, and figures a plurality for Shaw, republican, for governor, of 31,782. He thinks these figures will vary but little from the corrected returns when the five estimated counties come in. The plurality may be set down as above 31,000 and below 32,000. Chairman Walsh of the democratic state committee, has given out no formal statement. He thinks that later returns will reduce the plurality for Shaw to 20,000. The republican plurality last year was 55,550, and a corresponding republican estimate it is therefore just about cut in two. Two years ago it was 59,000 for Drake for governor.

The legislature is safely republican. The senate has 50 members, of which 38 are republicans and 12 populists and democrats. The house has 100 members, of which the republicans have 61 and the populists and democrats 39. These figures are subject to slight alterations, but probably to the advantage of the fusionists. The republicans lost four members in the senate and 17 in the house, compared with the last legislature, which was overwhelmingly republican.

NEBRASKA.

No doubt about Nebraska. The fusionists have carried everything. The plurality will exceed 29,000.

NEW JERSEY.

Incomplete returns indicate that both branches of the legislature will have a republican majority.

VIRGINIA.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 3.—The latest returns from the election in Virginia give the democrats all the senators, and 94, and perhaps 95, members of the house. The republicans get four, perhaps five, members of the house, and the independent one member.

DAKOTA.

HERON, S. D., Nov. 3.—Returns show that the republicans have elected five and the fusionists two of the judges. The republican victories come as a surprise to the republicans as well as to the opposition.

COLORADO.

DENVER, Nov. 3.—The result of yesterday's election in this state is still in doubt, so far as justice of the supreme court is concerned, and it will take the official canvass to decide who has won. The Times, which supported Hayt, candidate of the republicans and silver republicans, claims his election by less than 1,000. Returns so far received show Hayt 800 in the lead. Counties to be heard from are divided, and some of them doubtful. The chairmen of the populist and democratic parties claim that the mill returns will give their candidate, Gabbert, from 1,000 to 1,500 majority.

"Why don't you run a paper like that?" a merchant said to an editor, the other day, throwing out a Philadelphia paper. "For the same reason you don't run a store like that," the editor replied turning to a full page advertisement of a Philadelphia house showing a twelve story building. The merchant looked attentively at the picture for a moment and said: "I never looked at it that way before."—Ex.
