ANOTHER PIONEER GONE.—Mrs. Sarah Daniels, a pioneer Clackamas county lady died at the home of her son, Reuben Daniels, near the town of Clackamas, Monday night after a long illness. She was 82 years old and crossed the plains with her husband in 1865, first locating in Linn county. The deceased continued to live in Linn county, until the death of her husband a few years ago, when she moved to Clackamas, and took up her residence with her son. Her funeral took place from Clackamas Tuesday, and the remains were interred in the Multnomah cemetery.

PROGRESSIVE WHIST PARTY.—A very pleasant progressive whist party was given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lewthwaite last Friday evening. A delightful evening was passed and refreshments were served. Miss Betta Fouts won the first prize for being the most progressive, and the booby prize was awarded to J. P. Keating. Those present were: Misses Josephine Chase, Hattie Versteeg, Pauline Campbell, Betta Fouts, Amy Kelly, Alice and Mamie Lewthwaite; Messrs. E. Chapman, J. P. Keating, Leighton Kelly, William and John Lewthwaite, James Church, Clare Campbell, Grafton B. Cheney, Mr. Geo. Bebb and Mr. and Mrs. J. Lewthwaite.

OUR FISHING INDUSTRY.—Clackamas county bids fair to not only outstrip its past record in the salmon fishing industry, but will become an important source of keeping up the supply of food fishes. The government hatchery on the Clackamas with its auxiliary facilities on the mountain streams for securing salmon eggs, is a mighty factor in making salmon more plentiful in the Columbia and Willamette rivers. Now an effort is being made to preserve the steel head salmon, and George Broughton and Thomas Brown began the work of constructing a hatchery for this purpose on the upper Sandy, and expect to secure 5,000,000 eggs during the coming season. They will also try the experiment of securing and hatching sturgeon eggs.

SKIPPED OUT.—Frank Foster, who had been in the employ of C. A. Willey for several weeks, bid an unexpected farewell to Oregon City last Monday. That is, his friends who loaned him several articles did not think that he would disappear so suddenly. He had been working in the harness shop for his board, but was presumed by outside parties to have a lucrative position. He secured the loan of a watch from G. H. Young, on condition that he would pay for it on the next day, or return the same, and also borrowed Adolph Willey's best overcoat with the announced intention of making a short visit to Portland. He did not return and a warrant has been issued for his arrest. Foster is supposed to have gone to Vancouver.

OFF FOR KLONDIKE.—It is estimated that at least 400 or 500 people will leave Clackamas county for the Yukon within the next two or three months. Among those leaving on the outgoing steamer Elder are T. M. and Clare Campbell, C. Graser, Thomas Smith and others. Next week J. A. Fairclough, J. M. Heckart, Malcolm McCown, Carl Huth, C. P. Scoggans and others, whose names are not yet ascertained will probably be on the road. Sheriff Grace is closing out his stock of general merchandise, and his clerk, Ben Fairclough, will leave in a few weeks for the Yukon, with a supply of staple goods. Hundreds of people, who cannot properly arrange their business or raise the necessary means, are anxious to go, but will remain home.

CLACKAMAS PIONEER.—Mrs. Susan Stearns Chase died at the home of her son, Marshall Chase, near Colfax, Wash., aged 86 years. Mrs. Chase was an old pioneer resident of Clackamas county, having arrived here with her husband in 1851, and settled on Clear Creek, where Mr. Chase conducted a sawmill for a number of years, and later moved to the Clackamas river, where the saw mill business was continued in connection with farming and stock raising. Mrs. Chase moved to Colfax in 1879, where she resided until the time of her demise. Mrs. Chase was a talented and cultured lady, and wrote a number of articles for the Pacific Christian Advocate on the evils of Mormonism. After removing to the Palouse country she taught school for awhile, although nearly 70 years old. The deceased was a devoted member of the Methodist church. While crossing the plains Mr. and Mrs. Chase were halted at Salt Lake, and kept prisoners for several months by the mormons.
