HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with uine and let it stand twenty-four hours; irsediment or settling indicates an un-sealthy condition of the kidneys. When brine stains linen it is evidence of kidney uronble. Too prequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and badder are

WHAT TO DO. There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain is passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effects of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention Oregon City Courcer and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co. THE GENERAL'S AIDS.

Signs of Disaster and Retreat Greeted the Plucky Rescuer at Every Step as He Neared the Front-Mounted on His Black Horse, Little Phil Inspired All.

We came suddenly upon indubitable evidence of battle and retreat. Alout a mile in advance the road was filled and men themselves don't like it. For one the fields dotted with wagons and men newspaper man to chant the praises of belonging to the various brigade, divibelonging to the various brigade, division and corps headquarters, and in among them officers' servants with led horses, and here and there a broken ambulance, sutlers' supply trains, a battery forge or two, horses and mules hastily packed with officers' mess kits, led by their cooks, and now and then a group of soldiers, evidently detailed enlisted men attached to the headquarters trains. In fact, this was the first driftwood of a flood just beyond and soon to come sweeping down the road. Passing this accumulation of debris with a rush by leaving the pike and galloping over the open fields on the side of the road, we pushed rapidly on, but not so quickly but that we caught an echoing cheer from the enlisted men and servants, who recognized the general and shouted and swung their hats in glee.

Within the next few miles the pike and adjacent fields began to be lined and dotted everywhere with army wagons, sutlers' outfits, headquarters supply trains, disabled caissons and teamsters with led mules, all drifting to the rear, and now and then a wounded officer or enlisted man on horseback or plodding along on foot, with groups of straggling soldiers here and there among the wagon trains, or in the fields, or sometimes sitting or lying down to rest by the side of the road, while others were making coffee in their tin cups by tiny campfires.

Soon we began to see small bodies of soldiers in the fields with stacked arms, evidently cooking breakfast. As we debouched into the fields and passed around the wagons and through these groups the general would wave his hat to the men and point to the front, never lessening his speed as he pressed forward. It was enough. One glance at the eager face and familiar black horse and they knew him, and, starting to their feet, they swung their caps around their heads and broke into cheers as he passed beyond them, and then, gathering up their belongings and shouldering their arms, they started after him for the front, shouting to their comrades farther out in the fields, "Sheridan! Sheridan!" realize what fine fellows they really waving their bats and pointing after him as he dashed onward, and they, too, comprehended instantly, for they took up the cheer and turned back for the battlefield.

To the best of my recollection, fron. the time we met the first stragglers who had drifted back from the army, his ap pearance and his cheery shout of "Turn back buen; turn back! Face the other way!" as he waved his hat toward the front, had but one result-a wild cheer of recognition, an answering wave of the cap. In no case as I glanced back did I fail to see the men shoulder their arms and follow us. I think it is no exaggeration to say that as he dashed on to the field of battle for miles back the groomed, looking for all the world like formed I rode over to my chief and urged him to ride down it, that all the men might see him and know without doubt that he had returned and assumed command. At first he demurred. but I was most urgent, as I knew that in some instances both men and officers who had not seen him doubted his arrival. His appearance was greeted by tremendous cheers from one end of the line to the other, many of the officers pressing forward to shake his hand. He spoke to them all cheerily and confidently, saying: "We are going back to our camps, men, never fear. I'll get a twist on these people yet. We'll raise them out of their boots before the day is

At no time did I hear him utter that "terrible oath" so often alluded to in both prose and poetry in connection with this day's work.—"Sheridan's Ride," by General George A. Forsyth. U. S. A., in Harper's Magazine.

Largest Brick Building. "Very few know it, but it is a fact," explained a prominent builder to a reporter, "that the pension office building is the largest brick building in the world. It has been subjected to much criticism, but it can stand it, for as time passes along there are many things seen about it that escaped notice when it was newer. In all there are over 10,-000,000 bricks in the building. General Meigs took liberties with bricks that no other architect had ever attempted. He not only used bricks exclusively for the building, but he used them in constructing the stairs throughout the building. In the matter of stair building bricks have often been used for the riser, but the step has always been of iron, wood, slate or stone. In the pension office both riser and step are of brick. As a brick building, therefore, pure and simple, it is unique in construction outside of the fact that it is the largest exclusively brick building in the world."-Washington Star.

Not Discouraged. A duffer of a sportsman went out partridge shooting, accompanied by an Irish keeper who was good natured enough to make all kinds of excuses for his patron's bad shots. At last the shooter, made reckless by ill success, perceived a covey of birds quietly feeding on the other side of a hedge and resolved to have a slap at them on the ground. He fired, but to his mortification they all flew away untouched. "Oh, faith," cried Pat joyfully, "begorra, sor, you made them l'ave that anyway. "-Household Words.

Why Crusoe Didn't Print a Paper-Edwin Arnold's Love of the Calling-Chauncey Depew and Els "Jollies"-A Tired Lo!

I like to brag about newspaper men who have done good work, because the and the very fact of its being tabooed makes it exceptionally tempting at times, so frail are we all. The proper professional attitude for a newspaper man-according to convention-is that of being always slightly bored and of hating above all things to see his own or another newspaper man's name in print. As to being in love with his profession-well, that's all right for a new hand just from college, but now-rats!

Don't you believe a word about newspaper work making genuine newspaper men tired. They couldn't keep away from it if they tried. If Robinson Crusee had been a newspaper man, he would have printed a daily edition of the Juan Fernandez Castaway in blunt stick type on the sand in front of his but every morning and got out an extra when he captured Friday

And it must be that age and rank and station den't serve to benumb this feeling. When Sir Edwin Arnold happened to be in St. Louis a few years ago, a sudden crisis in India-Russians and Englishmen glaring at each other across the rugged crests of the Pamirs, the 'Roof of the World"-made an interview with him of especially timely value. It came into my day's work to see him, and at the close of the inter view he fell to talking about the incidental phases of a possible Russo Eng lish war

"Should such a war to declared," said Sir Edwin, "I would instantly go to the front for my paper"-the London Telegraph—"and serve as a special correspondent. It is the most fascinating work in the profession, and there is none more fascigating outside."

And a moment later the English poet and newspaper editor was telling me that he considered James Whitcomb Riley the most distinctively national of living American poets, and that to his mind Riley owed much of this to the fact that he was a "newspaper poet," instead of a magazine poet.

newspaper men, then you'd begin to are. Dr. Depew couldn't live without newspaper men. They visit him in his private office in the New York headquarters of the New York Central railthe presidency of the United States and saw Dr Depew was at the Republican national convention of 1892 in Minneapolis, whither Dr. Depew repaired, as lively convention. He was surrounded six deep by newspaper correspondentsfacing them, tall and irreproachably the swell old heavy father in "The turnpike was lined with men pressing forward after him to the front. * * * Banker's Daughter," and giving out all After the whole line was thoroughly the news he consistently could, I supand gave them a "Depew jolly" of the you what he said, because, honestly, it

THE PROFESSION.

If I only had Dr. Channey M. Depew here to join in this talk about road, and they laugh at the jokes in his after dinner speeches and boom him for for anything else he may desire simply because they like him and he likes them. The first and only time I ever one of the "Big Four" of that very pose. And when he had exhausted his budget for the time being he turned in press which was really a daisy in its line. Of course I'm not going to tell was a bit steep, but I just want to give you an idea that I would be greatly reenforced in this talk if I could have Dr. Depew here to take a hand in it. Talking of conventions and bearing in the possibility of a newspaper man's ever getting tired of newspaper work. The tiredest lot of newspaper men I ever saw was at the close of the famous all night session of the Democratic na-1892-in Chicago. It was the night of the great anti-Cleveland fight made by Tamurany in the last ditch; the night when Bourke Cockran made the greatest speech of his life; the night when such an orator as Daniel of Virginia was hooted from the platform because the convention was actually too exhausted to listen; the night when Cleveland was nominated. With one recess, if I am not mistaken, the convention remained in session from 10 o'clock one morning until 4 o'clock the next. It was a crucial session, too, and kept ment. Bourke Cockran's speech against Cleveland was made about 2:30 in the morning, and a dying man would have been forced to listen and thrill at its eloquent invective and masterly sarcasm. But after that came the awful slump of utter weariness. When the convention adjourned, day had broken over Chicago and the streets were gray in its early light. White faced and limp, the corps of special correspondents almost staggered out and made their sleep blind way to their respective hotels. Tired? Yes, but it was as a soldier is tired in the trenches.
