Robert Thompson was bound over to appear before the grand jury by Justice Schuebel Friday, on a charge of stealing a saddle and bridle from Noblitt's stable. His bonds were placed $200, in default of which he was sent to the county jail. Thompson took the articles to Salem and disposed of them. He was arrested there, and brought back to the city by Chief Burns. On account of Thompson's extreme youth he may be sent to the reform school.

Assessor Stout is very busy with the assessment roll now, working early and late and Sundays, to get it ready for the meeting of the county board of equalization, which meets next Monday. Ex-Sheriff G. W. Grace and J. W. Grout are assisting the regular force to get the books ready within the required time. It takes an extraordinary lot of work to complete the assessment this year on account of the increased number of descriptions of newly divided parcels of land.

James Roots, an enterprising farmer of Clackamas, was in town Tuesday. Mr. Roots is making a success of evaporating apples, that would otherwise go to waste in his neighbor's orchards. He pays 15 cents per sack for all apples delivered at his drier. He ships the peelings to San Francisco, where they are used in the manufacture of jelly. He receives 2 1/2 cents per pound for this product, and later gets six cents per pound for the evaporated fruit. By doing his own labor Mr. Roots makes a small profit on his investment.

Hon. Corwin S. Shank, accompanied by his wife and child, visited his parents at Canby Sunday night. Mr. Shank is stumping the state of Washington in the interest of the union party, having made six speeches in Clarke county last week. He will put in every day during the campaign, and will finish up at his home at Seattle on November 7th. Mr. Shank is a Clackamas county boy, and delivered the decoration day oration here two years ago. He is confident of the success of the union party in that state as they are united and pull together.

The prune growers in the vicinity of Clackamas station are feeling considerably encouraged over present and prospective future profits in the prune business. The product of five of the largest driers there aggregated 82 tons apportioned as follows: Holcomb Bros., 25 tons; Marion Johnson, 15; J. W. Roots, 14; J. B. Cramer, 15; George H. Webster, 13. The entire product was disposed of to a Portland wholesale grocery house for cash, at prices ranging from 3 to 4 7/16 cents per pound. Some of the driers are now running on apples. It is probable that the yield from the driers around Canby will aggregate about 150 tons, as the Willamette Land Company's drier alone produced about 75 tons of prunes. Clackamas county growers are learning that it pays to produce large sizes, and to cure them in the best possible condition.

George Brown was in from the Salmon river hatchery for a few days during the week, and states that they will turn loose about a million young Chinook salmon on the 20th. Postmaster Horton has received the new money order blanks, which under a new regulation of the postoffice department, can be made payable at the office issuing money orders. This will be a great convenience to the public in many ways. Thus a person can pay a small bill or large one for that matter, through the postoffice, without going to the trouble of hunting up the creditor, or a person who wishes to deposit money for safe keeping can secure money orders at small expense, payable to himself. This is considered an introductory prelude to the establishment of government savings banks in the future.

Weighing Things

The value of our groceries depends on three things: How much you get for your money; how good it is when you get it, and the price you pay for what you get. We have sugars that are cheap and sugars that are good. We have coffees that will satisfy the appetite and the pocketbook. Staple goods at less than staple prices. We give you money-saving health-saving chances.
