OREGON OITY, NOV. 11, 1898. WAR, BONDS, AND REVENUE

TAXES. The war is over and we are told that it cost $150,000,000, though $200,000,000 of bonds were issued and a revenue tax passed that transfers $ 1,000,000 a day from the pockets of the people to the surplus in the treasury.

When war was declared against Spain Senator Stewart and other silver senators proposed to issue $150,000,000 in legal tender notes, [greenbacks], in lieu of bonds, and to coin the silver bullion owned by the government, to carry on the war. The gold men would not listen to the proposition. They preferred interest bearing bonds to legal tender non-interest bearing notes and silver dollars. They charged that it was unpatriotic to introduce the financial question in congress when the country was at war with a foreign nation. They would not admit that the issuance of bonds had as much bearing on the financial question as the coinage of silver and the issuance of legal tender notes, and being in a majority they had their way. Now all the people see, what the silver men in congress saw three months ago, that an issue of $100,000,000 of greenbacks and the coinage of the silver bullion owned by the government would have been ample to have carried on the war without one dollar's expense to the people. That would have increased the volume of money about two dollars per Notary Public and Real Estate Broker capita, thereby stimulating all branches of industry and labor. It is a long lane that has no turn. This government will get a divorce from Wall street sooner or ater .- Eugene Guard.

The Awkwardness of Being a Prince The Prince of Wales is placed by fate in the most difficult position of any English subject. Libeled incessantly, continuously and malignantly, silence is imposed on him by reasons of state. If he patronizes the drams, for the neglect of which the queen is persist-ently blamed, the prince is depicted as a trifler, who finds in the society of mummers relief from the tedium of a wasted life. If he encourages our national sports, he is a profligate and is compared with royal predecessors, whose conduct would certainly not commend itself today even to the stanchest supporters of monarchy. If he does not lavish money he does not possess, he is said to be stingy. If he makes an outlay on a church at Sandringham or a ball at Marlborough House, he is a spendthrift. Unworthy friendships are attributed to him with men upon whom he has never set eyes or with whom he may perhaps have exchanged a casual word. If he plays a game of cards, he is a gambler.

Fierce as is the light that beats upon a throne, the cruel and searching illumi-nation of the prince's life inflicts on him the disabilities and responsibilities, while denying him either the power of the throne or the privileges of a private station.—Harper's Magazine.

The English Broom

One of the botanical oddities of Massa chusetts is the existence of the English broom, which grows in only two places -in Sterling, this county, and in Sa-lem. It is not a native plant, and how it got across the water is a mystery. Perhaps some homesick colonist caused it to be sent to him, that the hills about his new home might have the familiar appearance of the old country. It is a beautiful golden yellow in color and grows in a compact, spirelike plant, with blossoms close together. So thick are the stalks that the pastures are like sheets of gold, and at first sight seem to be buttercups in masses. Arba Pierce brought some of it into the city and proposes to make a display of it at the exhibition of the horticultural society. Every one has heard of the broom English and Scotch literature is full of it. It was the flower of the royal house of Plantagenet. In fact, the name Plantaganet is the French for broom plant a genet. Their ancestor, the Count d'Anjou, wore a string of broom as a badge, therefore their name. The name broom is given it because of its usefulness for the purpose.-Worcester (Mass.) Ga-

A Bismarck Duel. A duel in which Bismarck was once ngaged had a very amusing origin. It occurred when he was chief secretary of the Prussian legation at Frankfort He went much into society, and one Christmas attended a big ball. During the height of the festivities Bismarck! attention was directed to an exceedingly pompous individual who strutted about the room. This was a M. de Clancy, a noted French duelist. Later on this important individual took part in a dance, but having omitted to leave his hat at the proper place had perforce to hold it out almost at arm's length while he danced. The spectacle tickled Bismarck F. Bullard to T. J. Mathews, tract in immensely, and as the Frenchman came sailing majestically along Bismarck stepped forward and dropped a coin into the hat. A duel was one of the next morning and said:

"Signorina, we cross the tropic of cancer today." "Oh, indeed!" she cried, with enthusiasm. "Then we shall see something at last." A Wedding Announcement.

This is how the editor of the Humboldt (Kan.) Herald recently announced his marriage: "Mr. F. A. McCarthy (that's us) and Miss Nannie Fisher (that's more of us) were united in marriage Wednesday, July 27, at 10 a. m. The ceremony was followed by a sumptuous repast, which we have only a faint recollection of. Some way events seemed to crowd on each other then, and God has given us the best earthly thing within his gift. The joy in a sweet wife is too great to be de scribed-too sacred to be spoken of."

Too Much Enting.

Gluttony has its victims, hardly less numerous than other vices. To overent is to overburden the digestive organs to such an extent that it will be impossible for them to perform their duties properly. Deleterious products are created, and health is finally destroyed. A prominent judge used to say such men dig their graves with their teeth-and it is so. On the other hand, there are those who eat too little. All extremes are evils that experience should govern. -Exchange.

An African Mother-in-law.

A native has been committed to the high court for trial for mutilating his mother-in-law by cutting off her ear.

The native averred that his motherdaughter away from him, her lawful husband, to some other native, and he took the extreme measure of cutting off her ear as a gentle hint to mind her own business. - Gwelo Times.
