The fishermen begun active operations at noon last Saturday, but the high water in the Willamette, and the muddy condition of the stream, makes it difficult to get many royal chinook salmon. However, steelheads are running pretty well, and in some measure make up for the shortage of the chinook. Steelheads bring 2 cents per pound less in the market than chinook, and are consequently less profitable. Chinook salmon now bring 5 1/2 cents per pound.
Fourteen staunch Oregon City democrats attended the Jeffersonian banquet in Portland last Thursday night. A number of eloquent addresses were made, and the ceremonies lasted until 2 o'clock in the morning. Mayor Latourette engaged a car to leave Portland at 11:40, but only three of the delegation availed themselves of this opportunity of coming home. J. D. Stevens, of Canby, was one of the prominent speakers.
C. Knox Cooper, of Carus, has secured a patent for a self-sealing fruit jar that bids fair to excel anything in that line heretofore invented. The top screws on with a rubber attachment making the jar air-tight, but easily opened without the necessity of a wrench or danger of breaking the jar. Since the patent was granted a few weeks ago, he has been receiving two or three applications daily from prospective purchasers of the patent right. The young inventor is a brother of Deputy County Clerk Cooper and taught school on the Tualatin last winter, but is now working on his father's farm near Carus.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

The hat social given at Weinhard's hall last Saturday night by the ladies of the Episcopal church, was a novel and successful affair. In fact, it was the hit of the season in the way of entertainment. The way in which the embryo men milliners trimmed hats out of the raw material was a caution. When the contest was ended, after the grotesque grand march was executed and the critical inspection of the judges in the grand stand was a thing of the past, the display of female headgear would have been a creditable display in the window of a Main street millinery shop on opening day. Dancing was participated in by the majority of the large number of persons present, Miss Veda Williams providing the music at the piano. The members of Mrs. Lawrence's dancing class made some graceful figures on the floor. Refreshments were served. The reception committee were Mrs. Nelson Lawrence, Misses Hattie Cochrane and Imo Harding. In the hat contest Ronald Johnson won the first prize, J. P. Keating the second and Walter Bradley the booby prize.
Wednesday evening Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Montgomery gave a reception to the members of their congregation and friends at their home on upper Seventh street. During the afternoon and evening nearly 200 people called and paid their respects to the host and hostess. Refreshments were served in the tastily decorated dining room and the guests were received in the parlors. Mrs. Montgomery was assisted in receiving the callers by Mesdames Sarah Huntley, Ed Story, Forest Andrews, D. H. Glass, J. McKay and A. T. Muir, while Misses Lulu Meyer, May and Alice Andrews presided in the dining room.
The Avon Shakespearan Club met at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Caulfield Wednesday afternoon.
Last Monday was Mrs. N. J. Beattie's 64th birthday, and the event was celebrated by giving an afternoon to a number of her pioneer lady friends. The afternoon was passed very pleasantly in telling reminiscences of pioneer days and musical numbers. Misses Randall and Taylor sang several songs. Mrs. Meldrum related some of her experiences with the Indians in the early days, also told of their trip down the Columbia while coming to Oregon. A delicious lunch was served at 4 o'clock. Mrs. J. J. Cooke was assisted in serving the refreshments by Misses Anna Wilehart, Margorie Caulfield and Laura Beattie. The following guests were present, all notable pioneer women: Misses N. J. Beattie, Susanna Meldrum, James Taylor, A. D. Futrow, H. S. C. Phelps, Geo. Randall, M. F. Draper, Mary McCarver, Alex. Moore, Benjamin Jagger, Elizabeth Fuchs, Benjamin Roberts, Grace Williams, H. P. Bestow, James Wilkinson, Sarah Huntley, Reckner and David Caulfield.

Secretary J. W. Gray, of the Willamette Valley Chautauqua Association, received a letter Sunday from George B. Cortelyou, assistant secretary of President McKinley, acknowledging the receipt of an invitation asking the president to attend the assembly at Gladstone park. The letter states that the president will gladly accept the invitation provided he comes to the coast. President Robert A. Miller has also sent an urgent invitation to the president to attend the Chautauqua. President McKinley may yet conclude to visit Oregon and the Chautauqua.

The ladies of the Congregational church are making extensive preparations to give an entertainment and social Saturday evening, April 29th, at Willamette hall. First on the program will be a carpet rag contest—gentlemen to be the contestants. At the door each will be presented with an unique card that will introduce them to a charming companion, who will assist in securing a collection of rags. There will be a drill by 24 young ladies in costumes, and a splendid program of music and recitations. Admission, 10 cents; ice cream and cake, 15 cents. Full particulars next week.

M. F. Boyles and A. W. Phillips returned Wednesday from Bakeoven, Wasco county, where they recently completed the contract of erecting a large stock barn.

Mayor C. D. Latourette, Captain T. F. Cowing, Dr. E. A. Sommer, Dr. M. C. Strickland, Hon. William Galloway, Colonel R. A. Miller and David Close were among the visitors to the Jeffersonian banquet in Portland last Thursday night.

Sheriff Cooke has received an invitation from R. L. Stephens, sheriff of Douglas county, to attend the hanging of Oberman at Roseburg, on May 28th. J. M. Oberman killed Jap Casteel in the Myrtle Creek mines.

Miss Beatrice Barlow was the leading soloist at concert given by the Arion Society in Portland last Friday night. The Oregonian critic says that Miss Barlow's work on the piano proved her to be especially strong in technique. She also played the orchestral accompaniment for Mr. Dierke's concerto in G minor, by Saint-Saens, the most difficult number down on the program.

We have examined into the several offices in the county court house and find the same in a satisfactory condition, and the officers therein apparently doing their duty.
We have carefully examined into the pauper care of this county, and would recommend that the commissioners court of this county would carefully investigate all applications for aid, as we find that the monthly pauper account amounts to about the sum of $350. And we would further recommend the immediate purchase of a poor farm as a matter of economy.
We have visited the county jail and find it in a clean and neat condition; also visited the city jail and find it the same. We would recommend that the county commissioners order a change in the door opening into the corridor of the county jail, so that the jailer will not be obliged to turn his back to the prisoners while closing the door, and further we wish to congratulate the county of Clackamas for the reason that we found the jail empty.
And now having completed our labors, we most respectfully ask to be discharged.
J. S. Casto, foreman.
