Advantages of Rolling.

Upon the surface of land sown in the spring an incrustation is frequently formed, due to the heavy rains subsequent to sowing. If this crust is permitted to remain, the crop will suffer in two ways: first, from insufficient moisture, owing to the excessive loss through surface evaporation; second, from imperfect aeration of its roots. Rolling the land will obviate this in cereal crops, and materially increase the yield. Grain will not be injured by the roller, even if it is several inches high, provided it has not commenced to joint.

Excursion to Albany.

Just think of it! $1 for a trip to Albany by rail. On Sunday, May 28, the Portland Social Turn Verein will give a grand railroad excursion to Albany, in which all Oregon City'ers are invited to join. A delightful time is promised and at Albany there will be all the games, dancing, vocal and band music. Tickets will be on sale at Huntley's drug store until Friday, the 25th, at noon. Oregon City people should take first section of train, which leaves Portland at 7:30, and they will be assured of a seat, although all trains will stop at all stations both going and coming. Arrangements have been made for warm meals and refreshments at Albany. You can stop off at any station you wish.

A full line of Spalding's "official" baseball supplies in stock at Huntley's book store at Eastern prices.

Money to loan at 8 per cent interest on mortgages. Apply to C. D. & D. O. Latourette.

Mrs. Anna R. Simmons, president of the South Dakota Equal Suffrage association, writes: "We are not discouraged that we did not win the amendment. We are going right on again to get it before the people. This near approach to victory has put new life and hope into the friends of the cause. The adoption of the initiative and referendum is a great blessing to the people, as the legislature is obliged to submit an amendment to popular vote upon application by 5 per cent of the voters. We can double that amount."

Lady Henry's Statuette.

Lady Henry Somerset has modeled a statuette of Miss Willard. It is about 18 inches high and represents Miss Willard in the attitude so characteristic of her as she stood on the platform. Lady Henry has fully reproduced her fine features and beautifully shaped head. A number of the casts of the statuette are on sale. The proceeds will be devoted to the Duxhurst homes.

Title, but No Fortune.

The mother of the Duchess of Manchester is living very quietly in New York, where she arrived but recently from Europe. She is accompanied only by her maid and seems to be in very good health and spirits, although she is so lame that it is impossible for her to ascend even the most ordinary flight of steps without assistance. She displays no evidence of wealth whatever, and the very modest manner in which she lives is corroborative evidence of the generally well known fact that the Manchesters are as poor as church mice. If Kim, as the young duke is called at home, doesn't exchange his title for a fortune very soon, his American mother and grandmother will not enjoy many of the luxuries of life. His recent determination to adopt the stage as a profession may retrieve his fallen fortunes, and again may not.

But there is a large and delightful possibility that the American matinee girl of rich papa may become enamored with his Romeo or his "melancholy Dane" and induce papa to forget his deca gainness' sad, sad past. We shall see.—St. Louis Republic.

Tactful Mrs. Cleveland.

Francis Wilson, the comedian, while playing in Washington, received a note from the White House, saying that Mrs. Cleveland would be very glad to have him lunch with her and Mr. Cleveland the following Wednesday. It so happened that Mr. Wilson had been invited as the guest of honor at a midday meal for the same date to meet the speaker of the house, John Hay, Joseph Jefferson and others equally agreeable. He hesitated to cause inconvenience to so many men, and yet he desired above all things to show his appreciation of the courtesy extended by the president's wife. In despair, he wrote to Mrs. Cleveland, explaining candidly the situation. Promptly came her response, so like an adaptable, graceful woman. It read as follows:

DEAR MR. WILSON—Curiously enough, I find that I, too, have an engagement for Wednesday. Won't you come, therefore, the day following and lunch with us?

Trades Unions For Women.

The American Federation of Labor at its annual meeting in Kansas City passed the following resolution, prepared by Delegate O'Sullivan:

"In view of the awful condition under which woman is compelled to toil, the eighteenth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor strongly urges the more general formation of trades unions of wage-working women to the end that they may scientifically and permanently abolish the terrible evils accompanying their weakened, because unorganized, state, and we emphatically reiterate the trade union demand that women receive equal compensation for labor performed."
