COR. 4TH AND MAIN STS., OREGON CITY, ORE.

Willing to Start Home.

MANILA, P. I., May 6.—Once more the members of the Second Oregon hear that welcome report that they are soon to see again their native land. Not so many of them as were beguiled by the same prospect three months ago. Some hearts that beat faster in anticipation than are now still. Go or stay, soon or late, those few have no changing pulse. Scars are borne by others who now turn their faces toward the rising sun; scars not known three months ago. There is a deep feeling of soldier experience, vivid memories of gory scenes, fearful moments. These three fruitful months have left marks deep as the wrinkles of time, but which the young, light hearts from Oregon cheerfully sought, and will now forever remember with different sentiments of life from those then entertained.

Of course the time of departure is vague. Officers of experience predict that it will be determined by the situation in Luzon. Others hold that the volunteers will be relieved soon, regardless of the warlike or peaceable attitude of the Filipinos. There is a general belief among the entire corps that the date for the Oregon regiment to embark is not distant. This is made doubly secure by the favorable aspect of the war. From the repeated attempt to gain peace the Americans think the Filipinos approaching the brink of submission. General Otis has been "stiff-necked," rather more so than was necessary in the minds of many, but there is but little alternative for the hunted blacks, if reports are correct. If the Tagals are are quieted there is no doubt that the volunteers will commence departing almost immediately afterward. That the Oregonians will be the first to leave is thought quite certain. The administration policy outlined to General Otis requires the regiments to return in the order of their coming. Oregon and California were first, but now California is so situated that the regiment could hardly be gathered quick enough to take the first transport. This gives Oregon the right of way.

ASSAULT ON LOUBET.

French President Canned by Count Christiani.

PARIS, June 6.—President Loubet, accompanied by the premier, M. Dupuy, and the chief of the military household, General Balloud, drove to Auteuil this afternoon, closely followed by Mme. Loubet in a second landau. As they drove along the Avenue des Champs Elysees the crowd bowed respectfully; but on arriving at Auteuil, they were met by a violent demonstration, evidently organized and directed against the president. There was a storm of hoots, yells and cries of "Panama," "A bas Loubet" and "Vive l'armee." A few shouts of "Vive Loubet" were drowned by the clamor. A strong force of police kept order and arrested many of the disturbers, including a man who tried to force his way to the president's carriage.

During the second race the clamor increased to violence and was plainly directed by a committee of the League of Patriots collected, with their supporters both before and behind the presidential stand, around which a formidable affray proceeded. During the steeplechase many blows were struck, and several police were injured in their endeavor to prevent an invasion of the presidential stand.

At the crisis of the excitement, while shouts of "Vive l'armee" and "Vive De Roulede" were heard on all sides, Count Christiani rushed toward the president, brandishing a stick, and directed a blow against him, striking his hat. The crowd rushed upon Christiani, who only escaped severe handling by being taken under police protection.

President Loubet remained all the while quite unmoved, talking to the premier, while the officers of his military household were defending him against violence.

Finally, after 30 arrests had been made, the prefect of police ordered the republican guards to surround the presidential stand. The principal leaders of the demonstration were M. Jos Larries, anti-Semite and nationalist deputy for Gers, and M. Fermin Faure, anti-Semite and nationalist deputy for Oran, Algeria.

Police Inspector Grilliere had his hand seriously wounded in the melee, and President Loubet has decorated him with the cross of the Legion of Honor in recognition of his devotion to duty. On returning to the Elysee palace, M. Loubet received many sympathizing callers.

It seems certain that the demonstration was organized by the Jeunesse Royaliste, the Ligue des Patriotes and the anti-Semites, the rallying signal being a carnation in the button-hole.

Count Christiani is a member of the Steeplechase Society, a very select body, and his conduct caused the greatest indignation.

MAY BE HALF A MILLION.

Population of Oregon By Census Of 1900.

Will Oregon have a population of 500,000 when the United States census shall be taken a year from this month? Estimating for the present decade, a gain at the same rate as was made in the decade 1850-60 would give Oregon's population in 1900 at about 1,250,000. Calculating on the basis of the growth in the 1860-70 decade, next year's census would show about 549,000 people in the state. If the increase in this decade is at the same rate that obtained between 1870 and 1880, Oregon will have 597,000 inhabitants next June, and if at the rate of gain that marked the decade 1880-90, the census of next June will show a population of 574,000. But the years since 1890 have not been so favorable to increase of population in Oregon as were some of the years in each of the previous decennial periods, and it is not expected that so great a ratio will be shown by next year's census figures.

The United States has taken the census of this state five times, the first time being when Oregon had been under federal jurisdiction little more than a year, and, of course, before it was admitted to statehood. The result of each of these enumerations, by counties, is shown in the following table:

Umpqua county was abolished in 1902, its territory being given to Douglas.

The Oregon school census for 1890 gave the number of children between the ages of 4 and 20 years at 59,615, that number being a trifle less than one-third the total population of the state, according to the federal census taken the same year, the school census supposed to be taken in March, and the United States census in June. In 1890 the school census gave the number of children at 99,543, and the United States census of the same year gave the state nearly 31-6 times as many for the total number of inhabitants. The school enumeration showed the increase of children for the ten years between 1880 and 1890 to have been about 16 2-3 per cent. The figures for previous decades are not available.

But the increase for the eight years, 1882-89, as shown by the school census, was about 42 per cent, while for the period of 1890-98 the increase of children of school age was a little less than 33 per cent. Counting the increase of school children from 1890 to 1900 at 40 per cent would give about 140,000 in 1900, and using 31-6 as the ratio of school children to entire population, would give the total inhabitants at 433,333. But as the population of a new country becomes settled, the proportion of children of school age to the entire population increases, as is shown for Oregon in the only two decades for which figures for comparison are available. Taking 3 1/2 as the ratio, the 140,000 school children would indicate a total population of 490,000.

Anti-Trust Convention.
 AUSTIN, Texas, June 6.—Governor Sayers today telegraphed to all governors and attorney-generals of the Southern states a call for an anti-trust convention, to meet in St. Louis on September 20, for the purpose of securing concerted action against trusts.

As agents for a new stump blasting, bank blasting, and mining powder (the California Vigorit powder) we challenge the representatives of any powder company on earth at any time and place to test their powder against ours for strength, superiority and cheapness. This powder has been tested by Clackamas county and many individual citizens and is acknowledged to be one-third cheaper than any other powder. Its safety is one of the chief features of superiority.

Jones Lever Binder

This celebrated binder has gained an enviable reputation in the last four years in Oregon. It represents lever power as applied to binding grain. It will run lighter, last longer and bind tighter than any other binder in the market. The Jones Chain Drive foot lift Mower has no back lash, runs light and is very durable. Will cut heavy grass with ease.

I also carry a full line of Hay Rakes, Tedders, Hay Tocs, A' Vance Thrashers and Traction Engines, John Deere Plows, as well as a full line of Agricultural Implements and Vehicles. Call and see me before buying.

Paint Talks

(No. 3)

The claim is often made that it is cheaper to use lead and oil than it is to use GOOD mixed paint, but this is only true when oil is extremely low. At the present price (60 to 70 cents) it costs more to use lead and oil, and it will not last as long. Stop and think how much more finely ground must be the pigment of a liquid paint ground by machinery than one mixed by hand with a stick. Of course this liquid paint must be absolutely pure—not necessarily all lead, however, as any painter will admit that a certain quantity of zinc, properly mixed, will outwear the straight lead pigment.

The best painters in town have used Masury's paint during the past eight years, and I venture to say they will all confirm my statements—providing they have no ax to grind in selling material of their own buying.

A pure liquid paint, free from benzine, whiting and barytes, such as Masury makes, will outwear any paint mixed by hand. Masury guarantees this.
