The Methodist camp meeting at Canby has been well attended, and considerable interest was manifested. Rev. Myers was the principal minister in attendance.

Alfred Alm, of Portland, and Miss Mene Peterson, of Clackamas county, were married at the Presbyterian parsonage last Friday, Rev. A. J. Montgomery officiating.

Mrs. Ross Charman is having plans prepared by W. A. White for a new six-room house on her property, adjoining her present residence, which is being enlarged and repaired preparatory to being occupied by F. T. Griffith.

Aurora is experiencing something of a building boom. The Southern Pacific will erect a new depot building, 24x92 1-2. H. J. Miller, the hop buyer, will erect a two-story brick to be used for stores and offices. H. A. Snyder has erected an ice house and stocked the same.

County Treasurer Jacob Shade attended the spiritual camp meeting last Sunday, and enjoyed every minute of the day. He pronounces Professor W. C. Bowman, of Los Angeles, one of the greatest platform orators on the coast; while Mrs. S. Scowell is one the ablest mediums, it has been his fortune to meet. There was a good attendance at the meeting last Sunday, and there are many campers on the grounds. The meetings will continue over next Sunday.

It will be of interest to the people, who heard the Rev. Sam Jones at Chautauqua, to learn that there is a female Sam Jones stirring up the population in Missouri. Recently in a sermon, she said: "There is a man in this house that is untrue to his wife, and I am going to throw this book at him." She raised the book for the throw and every man in the house ducked, but one, to avoid the book. Then she blistered the dodgers and lauded the one true man. It was afterward learned that he was deaf and dumb.

The Union Veterans Union, which is composed of G. A. R. men who have seen battle, will have a camp fire about August 12th. This organization is not antagonistic to the G. A. R. and has for its object the preservation of the principles of war, to exact proper representation from the government, to support and recognize old soldiers for places of public trust and to care for widows and orphans of deceased members. Colonel Julius Priester, of Maple Lane, is commander and chief mustering officer of the state.

E. W. Parrish, a former pioneer resident of Highland, died at Wamic, Wasco county, July 14th. The deceased was born in Illinois in 1835, and immigrated to Clackamas county in 1864, settling near Highland, where he continued to reside until about 18 months ago, when he removed to Wamic. He was a highly respected citizen and Christian man, and was held in the highest esteem by a wide circle of friends. The deceased left the following sons and daughters: George W., Toledo, Or.; C. W., Independence, Or.; Mrs. Eliza Claggett, Salem; Mrs. S. A. Clarke, Logan; Mrs. S. R. Giesy, Aurora, and R. L. Parrish, Highland. The deceased was buried at Wamic on July 16th.

A. C. Sabin, father-in-law of T. J. Laws, of the Fourteenth Infantry, who was killed in the Philippines a few weeks ago, states that no news has yet been received giving particulars of his death, except that conveyed in the press dispatch. However a letter has been received from Washington stating that after the proper preliminaries are arranged, the body will be embalmed and shipped home. The deceased had previously served five years in the cavalry, and at the time of his death, only lacked 14 days of completing his enlistment in the infantry. The dead soldier stood high in the ranks; had saved his money, and it was his intention to return soon and engage in business. His unexpected death was a sad blow to the young wife, who expected him home in a few weeks.

TALKS WITH FARMERS.

Results of Practical Experiments on Clackamas County Soil by Actual Farmers.

Andrew Koehler, the Canby implement dealer, who has been a farmer at Mark's Prairie for many years, was in Oregon City Friday. He had just returned from a business trip through the Marquam and Molalla country, and said that fall wheat never looked better. The hay crop is good, but oats are short. The warm, sunny days have been conducive to developing an extra quality of hops, although the late cold weather prevented the hops from spreading as much as usual. Near Needy, he saw one of the finest fields of fall wheat ever grown in Clackamas county. Spring wheat is growing rapidly, and if conditions are favorable will make a good yield.

A. Ripzinski, who lives across the river from New Era, reports that grain looks well, especially on the uplands. Early-grown potatoes give promise of a good yield, but the outcome of late potatoes depend on the climatic conditions. Strawberry culture is receiving considerable attention in Clackamas county with gratifying success. W. B. Stafford, of Mount Pleasant, recently left a fine sample box of the Danby variety raised on his place.

William Barlow, of Barlow, who was in town Monday, says that he will have 200 tons of good quality hay this season, but does not know where he will get a market for it. It only brings $5 per ton now, costs $2 per ton to bale it, and the demand at this time is very slow. Mr. Barlow has considerable of last year's crop left over, and is not at all enthusiastic over the prospects of selling hay at a profitable figure. He says that the building of motor lines has lessened the use of horses to such an extent, that the demand for hay has fallen off enormously. Mr. Barlow says that fruit is the best crop that can be grown here, when the season is favorable. Last year he evaporated 3,000 boxes of apples, which brought in a revenue of $450. This season, however, the crop is short.

Casper Weismantle, of Mackburg, says that crops are all right, but if this dry, hot weather continues, it will cause a shortage in the late planted crops. He says that hops look well, and the indications are good for an excellent yield.

Chris Koehler, of Aurora, says that the hop crop is all right, if the mold and lice don't happen to strike it later. The growers, so far, have steered clear of contracts with buyers' agents.

COMMENTARIES.

Matters Concerning Local Every-day Affairs Noticed by the Courier-Herald Reporter.

The extreme hot weather, accompanied by the flow in the water pipes of lukewarm Willamette juice, makes the average citizen long for a different water supply. The water commission, however, are using every effort to get a new water supply, and will no doubt decide on a definite plan before many months. In their semi-annual report for the six months ending July 1st, the information is given that no new work has been done, and but little new work was necessary. The net profits were $875 05. They called attention to the progress made in trying to secure a new water supply, in accordance with the intention of the $50,000 worth of bonds voted last winter. After a preliminary survey it was found impracticable to bring water from the Clackamas by gravity, as there would be only 5 1-2 feet fall at low water in a distance of 5 1/2 miles. Since then the board have been investigating the supply of water in springs in the vicinity of Clarkes and other points, with a view to bringing the water by gravity to the reservoir. During the coming dry weather, it will be ascertained whether or not, the springs mentioned together with other springs of pure water that can be tapped will afford a sufficient supply. If these springs will not afford a sufficient supply, it is probable that the commission will put in a filtering plant of one million gallon capacity in 24 hours. The filtering plan submitted, guarantees absolute purity and clearness of 98 per cent.

Sam Jones is a big success in drawing crowds and he "stays there and gets there." However, it shakes one's faith in Christianity after hearing his slangy, at times almost indecent harangue. He is a man that is not doing the world any good. Sam is out for the stuff and gets there. He does not carry out the high Chautauqua idea in the least. After a contract had been signed, sealed and delivered with the Chautauqua people, he wanted to raise the price on them. His manager travels with him. But he is a crowd getter.
