BRYAN AT CHICAGO.

His Idea on the Philippine Question Very Popular.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Four thousand people crowded into the Auditorium to-night, despite the sweltering heat, to attend the political meeting given under the auspices of the Chicago-platform democrats. It was, from first to last, a silver meeting, an Atgeld meeting, an anti-trust and anti-expansion meeting.

"In speaking in Chicago, I am embarrassed by the fact that the advocates of the Chicago platform are divided into two camps. It is not my business to establish a secret service in order to ascertain the democrats which are most devoted to the principles set forth in the party creed. All Chicago platform democrats look alike to me, and instead of trying to drive any professed believer in that platform out of the party, my aim is to so impress upon all democrats the importance of the triumph of democratic principles that all local difference will be lost sight of in the determination to restore the government to the foundations laid by the fathers."

Talking up the money question, Mr. Bryan argued that the sending of a monetary commission to Europe was an acknowledgment that the gold standard was unsatisfactory; declared that bimetalism could be secured only through independent action, and said: "If the increased production of gold in the Klondike and the importation of gold from Europe have increased the volume of money and improved times, it is evident that more money makes better times, and times could be still further improved, and the improvement made permanent, by the restoration of bimetalism, which would make silver as well as gold available for coinage. If it was more difficult to maintain the parity between gold and silver when the supply of silver was increasing it must now be easier to maintain the parity since the supply of gold is increasing."

"On the trust question, I suggest the following propositions for your consideration: First, the trust is a menace to the welfare of the people of the United States because it creates a monopoly and gives to the few in control of the monopoly almost unlimited power over the lives and happiness of consumers, employees and producers of raw material; second, the president appoints the attorney-general, and can, if he desires, secure an attorney-general who will enforce the anti-trust laws; third, the attorney-general can recommend sufficient laws, if present laws are insufficient; fourth, the attorney-general can recommend an amendment to the constitution, if the present constitution makes it impossible to extinguish the trusts; fifth, the republican party is powerless to extinguish the trusts so long as the trusts furnish the money to continue the republican party in power."

"In the Philippine question, certain fundamental principles are involved: "First—There are but two sources of government—force and consent. The monarchies are founded upon force; republics upon consent. "Second—The Declaration of Independence asserts that all just governments derive their powers from the consent of the governed. "Third—If the Declaration of Independence is correct, we cannot rightfully acquire title to the Philippine islands by conquest or by purchase from an alien monarch to whose rebellious subjects we ourselves furnished arms. "Fourth—If the Filipinos are and of right ought to be free, they should be immediately assured of our nation's intention to give them independence as soon as a stable government can be established. "Fifth—The Filipinos having fallen into our hands by accident of war, should be dealt with according to American principles and not only be given independence, but protected from outside interference while they work out their own destiny."

His declaration that he felt embarrassed about speaking in Chicago because of the split in the local democracy, and that it was not his business to employ the secret service to see who was the foremost democrat, provoked a little opposition among the staunch adherents of Mr. Atgeld, but his assertion that "all Chicago democrats look alike to me," put them right again, and from first to last the speech was enthusiastically received.
