W. A. Holmes has purchased the Parkplace store of R. L. Russell and will continue to keep a first-class stock of general merchandise at cash prices. The Retail Clerk's Association have planned to give a grand entertainment to their employes and families at Willamette hall next Monday night. Addresses will be made by members of the Portland association. Refreshments will be served. It promises to be a notable event. Sheriff Cooke completed the sale of property for delinquent taxes Monday afternoon. It took nearly two days to sell the 1109 pieces of property. It is estimated that the delinquencies on the property sold would not amount to over $7,000, as many property holders paid the taxes and added costs just in time to save it from going under the sheriff's hammer. Commissioner Scott bid in about two-thirds of the property for Clackamas county. A half of the other third was bid in by P. H. Marley and E. F. Riley, of Portland. The remainder was sold to Clackamas county parties, the principal bidders being T. F. Ryan, C. H. Caulfield, T. P. Randall and G. E. Hargreaves.

Bring chicken wheat—Parkplace store R. B. Hayhurst, an attache of the of the Portland house, lost a bran, new pair of $8 pants the other morning. Fred Bladeow, who claimed to have just arrived from Spokane, was given a bed in the room occupied by Hayhurst. In the morning the latter went down to work, leaving his new pants and suspenders hanging above the head of the bed. When he returned the pants were missing. Hayhurst notified the police and the Canby marshal, who was in town, took down a description of the stranger. The marshal went to Canby on the train, and nabbed Bladeow when he passed through, and turned him over to the Oregon City officers. He was sent to jail for 12 days by Judge Curry. The pants were not recovered, as they had evidently been hidden somewhere between here and Canby.
