A remarkable increase in the business at the local land office, is shown by the financial report of Receiver Galloway for March. This report shows that the cash sales for this period amounted to $2562 78, and the fees, $699 80, making the total receipts $3261 58. Had final proofs been made on 10 timber claims within the time designated, the cash receipts would have been almost doubled. However, persons making final proof timber claims have 10 days grace after the designated time, in which to prove up on their entries. In March, 1899, the total receipts at the land office amounted to only $662 75, cash sales $215 20, and the fees and commissions, $447 55.

There has been strikes and rumors of strikes among some of the employees of the mills and factories during the past week. Last Saturday about 25 girls employed in the spooling and spinning departments of the woolen mills walked out because the restrictions were such that they could not make their former wages by piece-work. This matter was amicably adjusted, and they returned to work after an hour or two of lay-off. More or less dissatisfaction had been expressed by employees in other departments. On Tuesday the management of the woolen mills held a conference with a number of the employees, and made a general, satisfactory advance in wages to the employees. On Monday afternoon seven men in the wood room at the Crown paper mills walked out, because they were not granted an increase in wages from $1 50 to $1 75 per day. Their places were filled by other men.

O. W. Ganong has a record-breaker in the matter of a thoroughbred Jersey cow, that he recently purchased from Hon. William Galloway. The cow has a pedigree dating away back of the time when the late J. W. Namith imported the mother stock from the East into Oregon. Last week Mr. Ganong fed the cow on grass and a small allowance of oil cake each day. The milk from this was made into butter and an accurate account kept of each separate churning. At the end of the week the result was 15 pounds and one ounce of butter. It is a noteworthy fact that it costs no more to feed a cow like this than one of the common herd, that would produce only two pounds a week.

Saturday afternoon the county official received a notification from the insane asylum that Stephen A. Lane, a patient, had escaped from custody, and requested that he be arrested, if he came this way to prevent his escape. While Deputy Sheriff Jack was eating supper at Mrs. Samson's boarding house, Lane came in and engaged lodgings for the night. He was taken to the city jail for safe keeping. In the morning Jailer Nehren called Lane for breakfast, but could not get him up. Later, Deputy Jack and Nehren went to the cell, and upon pulling down the covers found Lane sawing away at the arteries in one wrist with a skinning knife. However, but slight injuries had been inflicted, and Lane was taken back to the asylum by an attendant on the Sunday morning train. Lane evidently intended to end his mortal career, as he had written the following on a piece of brown waste paper: "Please have my body embalmed and sent to John Byant, Bodes, Illinois. See Isaac G. Davidson, Portland, Ore. Farewell to this world of wickedness and man's perfidy. --Stephen A. Lane." Sheriff Cooke searched the prisoner on the night previous, but found no knife on his person. Lane works in the butchering department at the asylum, and evidently hid the knife in his bootleg.
