William W. Davis and sons, F. H. and W. W., jr., of Garfield, were in the city Saturday. Mr. Davis states that the grain looks well, although there is more rain in that section than here. A number of prospectors have recently been seen in that section on their way to the headwaters of the Clackamas.

M. F. McCown, who has been deputy fish commissioner for several months past, left Monday night accompanied by his family for Medford, where they will reside. Mr. McCown will assist Superintendent J. W. Berriam in conducting the Rogue river salmon hatchery, he leaving for that place Tuesday night.

J. J. Mallatt and Wils Pratt, of Mulino, were visitors in the city Saturday. They were accompanied by Ed Baumann. Mr. Mallatt stated that considerable hay was injured, but that the oat crop would be good; and also stated that three quarters of a mile of the Milk creek road is graded ready for the gravel. It is expected that the new board of county commissioners will make the necessary appropriation to have the work done.

Andrew Kocher, the Canby implement dealer, was in the city Monday. Mr. Kocher has been over the county to a considerable extent, and believes that there will be a fair crop of wheat. While fall grain will be short, the spring-sown gives promise of a big yield. As for hay, that part of the harvest has hardly begun. Of course, there was considerable loss of clover hay, but some farmers over estimate the damage to done to crops, judging a large area by a limited section of country.

Mrs. H. Green, of Sweet Home, visited friends and relatives in Oregon City during the week.

E. J. Wolf, who resides on the Molalla road, recently lost two horses with a peculiar disease. The jaws of each swelled and in seven or eight days died. Everything was done to save them. Mr. Wolf is now looking for another 1400-pound team.

Another lot of Clackamas county timber lands were sold the first of the week to an Eastern party. The claims belonged principally to Portland parties, and the majority of the eight 180 acre tracts sold brought $1,000 each, while the consideration named in one deed was $840. The deeds were made to C. G. Foster, and the agent who did the purchasing was Wade H. Richardson, of Milwaukie, Wis. The lands are situated between the waters of the Molalla and Batte creek.

Receiver William Galloway's financial report of business at the local land office for the month of June, shows a good volume of business. The total receipts, cash sales and commissions amounted to $4043 11. During the month there were 18 homestead entries and 21 final proofs; also 13 cash entries, including six timber claim final proofs. Ten new timber claim final proofs were filed. The total receipts for June, 1899, and the beginning of the present government land boom, was $3044 43.

The Oregon City base ball club has effected a complete reorganization with Gilbert L. Hedges as captain and manager, and will no doubt win some laurels on the Chantauqua athletic field. The boys are all star players, and William Nefzger, who has returned from British Columbia, takes his old place as pitcher. Following is the line-up of the team: Catcher, Seth Willie; sub-catcher, Ward Lee; pitcher, William Nefzger; sub-pitcher, Gus Kaiser; 1st base, James Church; 2nd base, Archie Clark; 3rd base, E. Chapman; shortstop, Ed Reckner; right field, Leighton Kelly; left field, J. Nelson Weisner; center field, Roy Kelly.

Frank E. Weed, of this city, who was first sergeant in Company A, of McMinnville, Second Oregon Volunteers, was married last Thursday afternoon to Miss Estelle Noll. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents in McMinnville, only a few immediate relatives and friends being present. Rev. Emanuel Northrup, of McMinnville College, was the officiating clergyman. The bride is known by a number of friends in this city as an accomplished young lady. She taught in the Roseburg schools last year. Mr. and Mrs. Weed will reside in the Caples house on Madison street.

The old county board of commissioners held an adjourned meeting last Thursday to wind up the business of the year. The bonds of all the newly-elected county officers were approved, whose terms began July 1st. Mr. Mumpower having completed his contract of making the fill at the Baker's Ferry bridge, it was ordered that he be paid the balance due, $325. It was ordered that the error in Road Supervisor Hornschuch's bill be rectified. The claim of J. E. Smith, road supervisor, was ordered paid in full. On petition of A. B. Cole it was ordered that the Weismandel and Mack road be re-surveyed, and W. W. Irwin, Chris Kocker and Jacob Reick were appointed viewers. One hundred and twenty-five dollars was appropriated for the bicycle path in the vicinity of Canby and Barlow.

W. P. Kirchem, the newly elected road supervisor, of the Logan district, was in town Monday. He stated that some of the potato fields were becoming affected with the blight, that may yet cause serious damage. At first the vines have the appearance of being scalded, which continues to spread until the vines are practically dead, dwarfing the growth of the potatoes and causing black spots. Last year the blight did not affect the potatoes seriously, as it was later in the season when it began. Mr. Kirchem states that the rains have delayed the work of leveling the road improvement to some extent, but a determined effort will be to get the farm teams at work as soon as haying is over. It is the intention to have the work completed before the rainy season begins in the fall.

Monday morning the elected county officers, whose terms of office begin on July 1st, took their places. The same arrangement of chiefs and deputies continue in the sheriff's and recorder's offices. In the clerk's office E. H. Cooper is now clerk, and Elmer Dixon is chief deputy. It is understood, however, that O. D. Ely, of Marquam, will be the chief deputy after a few months. The order also is reversed in the treasurer's office. Jacob Shade is now deputy, while Alfred Luelling is the chief officer. The county judge is a hold-over. J. C. Zinser, county school superintendent elect, does not assume his duties until August 1st, and Assessor Eli Williams does not succeed himself until January 1st, 1901. It is a notable fact that every officer or deputy in the court house, who received a nomination, was elected. The county judge, three commissioners, school superintendent, assessor, recorder and surveyor are republicans, while the sheriff, clerk, treasurer and coroner are citizens.

Considerable inquiry has been made as to the meaning of the rows of black figures painted on sign boards with a white background placed parallel to the railroad track on each side of the water tank, near the Southern Pacific depot. David Clouse, who is a walking encyclopedia on railroad signs and hieroglyphics, says these signboards are placed there so that engineers can ascertain the exact spot to stop when it is desired to take water. The combined length of engines and tenders are not all the same, but every engineer knows the exact length of his own engine and tender. These figures on the signboards indicate the points where engines and tenders of designated length should stop so that the water spout can be brought down to the manhole in the rear of the tender that receives the water for the boiler, without any unnecessary delay. Formerly the engine would pull up at the water tank, and the fireman would pull down the spout and find it at varying feet distance from the manhole. The train was pulled backward and forward, jarring the passengers and causing a delay of several minutes oftentimes, before a stream of water could be forced into the boiler. It is different now under the new mathematical contrivance. The engine is stopped at exactly the right place, and in an instant the fireman has a stream of water pouring into the engine tank.
