Purdom was a member of Company I, and was known to many people in this city.

A mass meeting was held in the county court room of the court house Saturday night, for the purpose of discussing the proposition to organize a citizens' cooperative meat market. About 200 persons were present, mostly employees of the mills and factories. On February 1 the butchers of the city announced an increase in the price of all meats of from 1 cent to 6 cents on the pound. They claim that the rise in the price of livestock made this increase in the retail price necessary. But the customers consider the prices exorbitant and unreasonable and declare they cannot pay them. Steaks that were 12 cents a pound are now 15 and 18 cents, and all other meats in proportion. It was decided to organize a joint stock company with a capital of $2,000, at $5 a share; to establish and operate a meat market for the purpose of furnishing meats at a minimum cost. A committee was appointed to draft articles of incorporation, etc.
