The reports from Boer land are many and conflicting. The Boers of Stellenbosch declare that the queen's death has absolved them from their allegiance to England and will join the Afrikaners in the demand for an independent Africa.

Stellenbosch is but a few miles from Cape Town, where there is a strong force Monday, Feb. 18.

It is reported in London that the king is suffering from an internal complaint similar to that to which the Duke of Edinburgh succumbed and which is slowly killing the Empress Frederick.

The people of Germany are tired of the Chinese war and hate England on account of the Boer war.

A heavy fall of snow in the Eternal City.

If the Boers can succeed in stopping train service in South Africa for several weeks (at Cape Town it has stopped), the British in the Transvaal and the Orange Free State will be in a worse plight than was Napoleon on the retreat from Moscow.

Cape Colony is three times as large as Oregon and contains a half million more people than the two Boer republics combined. An uprising throughout Cape Colony will therefore be most menacing to England.

An officer returned from the South African war writes in bitter language in the Perth (West Australia) Morning Herald of the cruel manner in which the British make war on Boer women and children. He says in his letter: "Did we Australians go across the ocean to carry on such warfare as burning the homes of women and children to the glory of the British world-power? May the mother-country wash her own dirty linen."

Legislative Hold-Ups.

Brownell's bill for a constitutional convention is receiving cold adverse comment on all sides.

Brownell's bill exempting judgment debtors with families from execution against 30 days' wages, is now a law. The governor, also, has signed the Barrett bill providing that school districts may have and pay for school libraries, if so desired.

Only two democrats voted for the 3-cent rate on mileage bill. Hedges of Clackamas, and W. E. Grace, of Baker City, a brother of G. W. Grace.

A bill has passed the senate amending the present road supervisor election law, making it optional with county courts whether road supervisors shall be elected or appointed. Brownell opposed the bill as it took the power of election out of the hands of the people.

All the direct primary election bills have practically been thrown overboard, although one may be passed to apply to Multnomah county alone.

Brownell's bill for the election of district assessors failed to pass the senate.

When the matter of reducing railroad fares was before the house Gilbert L. Hedges, the democratic member from Clackamas county said: "Mr. Speaker: We are here as a sovereign body. We are not here to listen to evidence and then enact laws. We are not here to be bulldozed or menaced."

In yesterday's Oregonian Joint Representative Dresser is asked to explain why he pledged himself in writing to vote for Corbett in order to secure the nomination, then went back on his pledge.

The senate on Tuesday night passed senate bill 237. The measure makes it a crime for any person, firm or corporation to construct a railroad track at grade across the tracks of another company, except at points within the corporate limits of cities, and provides how suits in equity may be begun to enjoin any attempt across the tracks of another company. A lobby has appeared here to protest against the passage of the measure, on the ground, as they say, that it is designed solely to prevent the extension of the Oregon City & Southern Railway from building from Oregon City south into the Willamette valley. The space between the bluff and the river at and near Oregon City is quite narrow, and it is claimed by the promoters of the projected railway that they cannot raise their tracks the necessary 20 feet or lower them in a tunnel, because it is a physical impossibility.

RETURN OF THE SHIRLEYS.

This Popular Company to Play an engagement at Shirley's Next Week.

The announcement of the return of this popular company to Oregon City will be hailed with delight by the local amusement lovers. Miss Shirley and her excellent company need no introduction to the readers of this paper. The clever work of this company in the past is too well remembered here for that.

This year, the company comes to us, stronger and better than ever, with a repertoire including the latest New York successes and some notable revivals, which are being given. Such productions were never before attempted by a traveling company. Next Monday evening the engagement will open with a production of Effie Ellsler's greatest success, "A Woman's Power." The play itself is an English society drama, full of intense interest, and having the merit of novelty in a plot which is worked out with more than ordinary skill. Among the other plays to be presented during the engagement will be "The Country Girl," "The Ugly Duckling," "At the White Lion," "Little Lord Fauntleroy," and "A Sheaf of Arrows."

The company still carries its own band and orchestra and a corps of specialty artists, whose work reduces the necessary waits between acts to a minimum.

Chesney, the photographer, has just received a new lot of the latest card mounts, in small panels and mansion ovals, the very latest.

My wife, Mrs. Phemia Pettitt, has left my bed and board, and I hereby give notice that I will not stand good for any bill that she may contract.
