A party was given in Oregon City last Friday, at the home of Miss Hattie Spulak, in honor of Miss Minnie Miller, of Woodburn, who had been visiting her for a week. A pleasant time was had and various games were indulged in until a late hour when refreshments were served. All report they enjoyed themselves immensely when they dispersed.—Woodburn Independent.

Professor J. W. Gray, after filling the place of principal of the Parkplace school for nine years, completed his work Tuesday, having tendered his resignation, which was accepted. Professor T. H. McCann, recently principal of the North Yamhill school, succeeded Mr. Gray beginning his duties Wednesday. It was the intention of F. F. White and Professor Gray to start to Dawson City (today) Friday.

Prof. H. L. McCann has secured the principalship of the public school at Parkplace, near Oregon City, and will move his family to Gladstone today and will enter upon it that school on Wednesday next. He resigned his position with the North Yamhill school very much to the regret of the patrons of the school who, however, gave their consent out of pure regard for Prof. McCann, who it is believed, is entering a more profitable field of labor.—North Yamhill Record.

Twenty-five leading young women of the city created something of a sensation Monday night by attending the Jessie Shirley Company's first night in a body, having previously secured reserved seats conveniently near each other. It was a hard hit at the young men of the city and was the more noticeable on account of the large crowd present. After the young women were seated, and a young man chanced to enter accompanied by his best girl, the applause was enthusiastic. At the second night's play a young man accompanied a young woman, who paid his way.

If anyone read the Oregon City edition of the Evening Telegram, what it contained Monday evening would be a base slander to Oregon City people. In speaking of the reception tendered the legislators on their return Sunday, it said: "It was a noisy crowd that had gathered, and they kept it up until late in the evening." There is not a word of truth in this. After a little demonstration on the arrival of the train, the city was orderly and quiet as on any other Sunday.

On last Saturday the Oregon City & Southern Railway Company filed a suit against the Oregon & California Railroad Company and Southern Pacific Company, asking for the privilege of crossing or intersecting the tracks of the defendants at Canemah. The plaintiffs recite that no satisfactory terms or arrangements can be made with the defendants in the matter of crossing said tracks, as to compensation or grade of crossings. The plaintiff asks the court to grant it the privilege of crossing said tracks at grade, and to name the remuneration to be paid, for such privileges.

A Clackamas county attache of the late legislature gives his version of the Gates money racket, which he asserts is the true facts in the premises. Gates is from Woodburn, and served as a janitor in the court house. While in the library of the capitol building he overheard two men talking, one of them saying that he intended to change his vote for senator on the following day. Gates, it is said, went to one of the senatorial headquarters, and informed the candidate that he could secure a vote for him, provided that he had $1500. The money was paid over in $100 bills, and the goods were apparently delivered as the legislator changed his vote for senator on the next day. Subsequently it was learned that the legislator had not received the money, and steps were taken by Representative Poorman and H. L. Gill to get the money away from Gates. Gates was arrested with $1300 of the money on his person, but no one appeared to prosecute him. He was discharged from custody Monday, and the money was returned to him.

Legislative Aftermath.

The state barber commission is dead, because the legislature refused to sanction its graft. They wanted the privilege of collecting $1 from each barber to pay the expenses of the commission. For the past two years the commission has travelled over the state on junketing trips, drinking good whiskey, etc., while the owners of barber shops and journeyman workmen footed the bills.

Senator Porter's bill to reduce the county judge's salary in Clackamas from $1100 to $750 per annum, to take effect in 1902, has passed the house. It will be the same old story; the next legislature will restore the former salary.—Woodburn Independent.

According to the report of the House committee on mileage and per diem, each member is entitled to $3 per day for 40 days and 15 cents a mile for each mile traveled in going to and returning from the legislature. The claims of the Clackamas county house members were as follows: G. L. Hedges, 30 miles, total, $139.50; J. L. Kruse, 390 miles, total, $178.50; J. A. Talbert, 188 miles, total, $138.20; A. S. Dresser, 74 miles, total $131.10. Extra compensation, J. A. Talbert, 104 miles, fisheries; G. L. Hedges, 56 miles, investigating deaf mute school; J. L. Kruse, 290 miles, investigating soldier's home, Roseburg. Kruse lived nearer Salem than any other Clackamas county member, and drew down the most mileage. Probably he is trying to get back some of the money that he invested in the Enterprise. It is also stated that Kruse's daughter is a regular house committee clerk.

Senator Brownell has distinguished himself by making the nominating speeches that elected both Simon and Mitchell.

A. R. Mattoon, the member from Douglas, whose vote made Mitchell United States Senator, was born and spent his boyhood days in Clackamas county.

Clerks from Clackamas county, who served on special committees, received the following compensation: E. C. Hackett, 35 days, at $3.50, $123.00; J. H. Darling, 37 days, at $3.50, $129.50; Florence Olson, 18 days, $45; Agnes Mather, of Clackamas Station, 21 days at $3 per day and $5 mileage to and from Portland, total, $68. Hackett and Darling have likely fallen into a snare by the discovery of frauds in the state land department, and it is likely that their work will continue for some months.

Hedges is the only Clackamas county member, who voted to reduce the fare on railroads from four to three cents a mile.

A Clackamas county member is accused of holding up the bill that declared against the practice of brokers charging usurious rates of interest. The bill had passed the senate, but could not be gotten out of the hands of the judiciary committee for action by the house.
