City Treasurer Linn E. Jones states that the greater number of the property owners in the hill sewer district are paying their assessments promptly, only a very few being delinquent. The benefit of the bonding act was taken just in time by the property owners, as the legislature changed the provisions of the act, so that interest is now charged on the installments.

Residents of Mount Pleasant bitterly complain that Washington street is in such bad condition between Fifth and Seventh streets, that it is impossible to get to town with a team, without the risk of breaking their vehicles. It is said that the rough places along these two blocks, could be smoothed down with about five loads of gravel so that travel could be safe.

Hon. John A. Taltert, of Clackamas station, was a prominent candidate for master game warden, but the state board decided that he was not eligible under that section of the constitution prohibiting members of the legislature from holding an office created by that body when they are members. H. D. Van Dusen, of Astoria, was appointed master warden, and Louis Bean, of Roseburg deputy.

T. M. Cross, of Molalla, was in Oregon City Tuesday in the interest of improving the road over the Everhart hill on the Oregon City and Silverton road. The people in that section have subscribed liberally to the project of getting around this bad hill, and a number of local business men have responded liberally. This improvement will tend to bring considerable business to Oregon City, as now it is the only bad place on this road.

The next attraction to be given at Shively's opera house Friday, March 8, will be Sullivan's and Harris' mammoth scenic melodrama entitled The Angel of the Alley, which has been conceded to be one of the most stupendous theatrical entertainments given the stage in some time. It is strictly a local story of New York life, embodying all the familiar features of metropolitan existence among the different classes, and depicts a story full of heart interest and holding to a particular degree.

Hanging being the usual method of extreme punishment in the majority of states, the arrangement of a death cell and the fitting of the electricity chair will be something of a revelation to the average citizen. An opportunity to see an exact reproduction of these will be given this week at the opera house where the great melodrama "The Angel of the Alley" will be presented. A perfect representation of the famous "condemned" cell in Sing Sing with its intricate system of electric wires and the method of placing the prisoner in the death chair is portrayed and the reproduction is perfect in every detail. This is the first time that such a scene has been given upon the stage and it has been viewed with absorbing interest by the usands. One night only March 8.

Divine-Caples Wedding

The Goldendale (Wash.) Journal gives a column account of the wedding of Miss Nina Ruth Caples, formerly of this city, to Thomas J. Divine, and the reception that followed. Only the salient features of the event are given here. In fact that paper has the following: "One of the most beautiful and impressive ceremonies, which this city may ever witness was that of Wednesday evening, Feb. 13th, which united in marriage Thomas J. Divine, one of the most highly esteemed young men of the county, and Miss Nina Ruth Caples, one of the most charming young women who ever graced Goldendale society with their presence." Miss Echo Samson, of Oregon City, was maid of honor, and the wedding march was from Mendelssohn. Rev. G. William Gibony, of the First Presbyterian church of Spokane, formerly of Oregon City, solemnized the ceremony. A large number of invited guests were present, and a large delegation of Knights of Pythias and Rathbone Sisters attended in a body. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party left the church, and a reception was given at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther C. Caples on West Garden Row, and a tempting wedding breakfast was served. The bride was dressed in organdie over organdie silk, and carried a bouquet of white carnations, and the bridesmaid, Miss Echo Samson, was attired in blue organdie.

The following wedding presents were received from Oregon City: Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Poppleton, silver berry spoon; Chester Roake, silver shell; Mrs. Sarah Huntley, silver sugar shell; Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Montgomery, silver sugar shell; Mrs. G. A. Hamilton, one dozen napkins; Miss Echo Samson, silver berry spoon; Mr. and Mrs. A. Robertson, silver salad spoon; Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Ely, battonburg center piece.
