Superintendent Greenman has the apparatus all ready for the spring run of steelheads at the Necanicum hatchery.

It is a noticeable fact that there have been an unusual number of strangers in Oregon City, during the past few weeks, and hotel keepers report the fact that they are continually crowded. It is nothing unusual for hotel proprietors to turn strangers away who are unable to secure beds. It is also encouraging to note the manner in which the heretofore vacant store rooms are filling up on lower Main street. It is an encouraging fact that Oregon City is beginning to attract attention from the outside world.

With the exception of the framework P. Roos has made virtually a new structure out of the building at the corner of Eighth and Main streets. The building was originally used as a store by the Hudson Bay Company in the early 40's, and was located near where the woolen mill now stands. Considerable of the old framework is still in position in the historic structure, as sound as when it was put in place by the carpenters in colonial days. The building has had a varied career, during its period of nearly 60 years of history.

The choicest of the potato crop of Clackamas county has been purchased and shipped although Messrs. Shank & Bissell expect to secure another carload. It pays only to ship large and uniform sizes of potatoes, as these qualities insure a ready sale. There is still an extensive supply of small potatoes, but they will not command prices that will pay for shipping. There is an occasional demand for small potatoes by restaurants etc., but they must be near as possible of a uniform small size. If growers will sort their potatoes they can always be assured of receiving the highest market price. If the small potatoes will not bring a good price, they can be profitably fed to stock.

The new coyote scalp bounty law is changed somewhat from the old one. The county clerk subscribes to the affidavit of the owner of the scalp, and retains possession of the same and the bill is audited at the regular monthly term of the county court. A certificate of the warrants issued are sent to the secretary of state, and the county is reimbursed for two-thirds of the amount paid out. Following is section I of the new law: Any person who shall hereafter kill within the state of Oregon, any wild cat, coyote, mountain lion, panther, cougar, gray wolf, or timber wolf, shall be entitled to a bounty of $2 for each of such animals as hereafter provided.

The January bulletin from the dairy department of the Oregon Agricultural Experiment Station at Corvallis, has been received at this office. It was compiled by F. L. Kent, and treats of "Creameries and Cheese Factories of Western Oregon." Mention is made of the Logan cheese factory, and the valuation of the plant is placed at $1500 with A. H. Olmstead, manager; Vetch Bros' Damascus creamery, A. Vetch, manager; cost $1200. No mention, however, is made of Kauffman's creamery in Needy precinct. By the time that another bulletin shall be issued next January, there will be a half dozen more cheese factories and creameries in Clackamas county. The bulletin contains much useful information to those engaged in, or who contemplate embarking in the creamery business. The bulletin will be sent free by the agricultural college to anyone who requests it.

ROBERT K. POTTER

Dies in an Astoria Hospital After Being Rescued from Drowning.

Robert K. Potter, a prominent early pioneer of Oregon City, died in the hospital at Astoria at 12 o'clock Sunday night, after being rescued from a watery grave a few hours previous. The following account of the narrow escape from drowning is taken from the Oregonian of Monday morning:

"Prompt work by Captain S. Coulson and First Officer J. J. Apperson, of the steamer Hassalo, saved the life of Robert Potter, of Oregon City, who fell overboard near Astoria yesterday morning.

"As the steamer was opposite Tongue Point and about six miles from Astoria, Mr. Potter came out of his stateroom and went to the rail and, holding on to a stanchion, began to cough. He lost his balance and fell overboard. The only person who saw him go overboard was one of the waiters, who immediately cried out, 'Man overboard!' Captain Coulson stopped the engine as soon as he heard the cry and turned the wheel hard over. Before the boat had gone her length he started the wheel again and turned back on his course in search of the man. He ordered one of the boats to be cleared away. Soon he saw the elbow and back of the head of a man in the water.

"First Officer Anderson and two of the crew jumped in the small boat and rowed to the place where the man had disappeared. They found him floating, but unconscious. He was taken on board the steamer, after having been in the water for nearly ten minutes. Volunteers from the crew and passengers began the work of resuscitation. After five minutes of hard work the man was out of danger. Upon the arrival of the steamer at Astoria, Mr. Potter was taken to the hospital."

Mrs. Potter stated that Mr. Potter had been continually in the house for the past five months, being almost helpless with rheumatism. He arose earlier than usual Saturday morning, and in response to an inquiry, stated that he felt as well as usual, and drank a cup of coffee. While the members of the family were busily occupied, at about half past seven, Mr. Potter drove away in a carriage, which he had previously ordered from a livery stable. On the return of Mrs. Potter to the front room, a note was found, saying good-bye until he returned from his trip. A daughter was at his bedside in Astoria, when he died.

Robert K. Potter was born in Monroe county, N. Y., and would have been 86 years old, had he lived until April 15th. He came to Oregon in 1852, and was married to Miss Mary E. Patterson in May, 1855, who survives him. He was engaged in active business for many years and was widely known. The deceased was a first cousin to Bishop Henry C. Potter, of New York. Besides his wife he left three children—Olara C. Potter and Emma Potter Davis of Oregon City, and Gilbert C. Potter, of La Camas, Wash.

An Olden Time.

Degree of Honor Entertainment Was a Grand Success.

The Degree of Honor entertainment at the Army last Friday night was a high class affair, greeted with a large audience, proving a success socially and financially.

The cakewalk by the little folks was an interesting and highly entertaining feature. Little Mildred Warren, of Portland, was the leader, and the following juvenile couples acquitted themselves with credit: Roland Fosberg and Clara Fields, Orr Cheney and Florence Grace, Frankie Michael and Hilda Fosberg, Georgie Dowty and Harriet Fosberg.

Miss Huldah Holden fully sustained her reputation as a reader, and her recitations were delivered with excellent elocutionary effect. Miss Holden has few equals in entertaining an audience, and her efforts were fully appreciated on his occasion.

Miss Essie Block made a good impression with her recitation, and responded to an encore.

Mrs. Ed A. Sheahan, the most popular of local soloists, responded to an enthusiastic encore. It had been some time since the public had an opportunity to listening to her cultivated voice, and her efforts were fully appreciated.

The ever-popular Dertlich Club double quartet, showed the effort of technique training. The personnel of the quartet is Mrs. C. W. Pope, Mary Conyers, Mrs. A. S. Dresser, Mrs. W. B. Wiggins, Mrs. L. L. Forter, Mrs. C. G. Miller, Mrs. G. E. Hayes, Mrs. C. H. Canfield, Mrs. E. E. Williams director and accompanist. The piano trio, Mesdames Hayes, Porter and Miller were enthusiastically encored.

Frank Conner and C. A. Miller, who are always popular entertainers, delighted the audience with their solos.

Livy Stipp was master of ceremonies during the rendition of the program. Dancing followed until a late hour.

The children, also, who took part in the program, were entertained at the A. O. U. W. hall the following day.

Rambler Bicycles

Are Always in the Lead

There are several reasons for their being in the lead. The Rambler people have made wheels for 22 years and know how to put up a strong, reliable, easy running wheel. Their guarantee is as good as gold. This year the factory turns out a more complete line than ever.

These wheels are fitted with the best and most expensive tire made, the G & J heavy detachable.

If you never had a Rambler, start in with one now and you will never have any other make.

If you do not know how they are made we will gladly spend our time and explain all the different parts of the wheel.

We sell wheels for cash or on installments, and take second-hand wheels in exchange.
