apportionment of school funds for each district of $41 will be made during this month. This is the balance of the annual $50 apportionment, a part of which was made early in the year.
 The junior and workman degrees were conferred on 17 candidates at the last Saturday night session of Falls City Lodge, A. O. U. W., and it is expected that a class of 25 will be initiated next Saturday night. Grand Master Ralph Feeney and J. U. Misener were both up from Portland, and materially added to the zest of the festivities.
 Mr. and Mrs. Duane Ely were the recipients of a pleasure-giving surprise party last Thursday evening, about 55 guests assembling to do the honors of the event. (Continued on page 2) A feature of the evening's entertainment, Evan Williams winning the first prize, a small diamond scarf pin. Refreshments were served, and a vote of thanks extended to the committee, who had the function in charge.
 J. Weaver, a sawmill proprietor on a branch of Deep creek, was fined a few days ago in Justice Jonsrud's court at Kelso for dumping sawdust into the stream. It is learned that he has provided another way to dispose of the sawdust. Some weeks ago Water Bailiffs E. G. Greenman and Malcolm McCown made investigation and complaint that sawdust was being dumped into a stream, a branch of the Clackamas river.
 A typographical error last week made games read cards in the account of the Muir party. The majority of the guests are members of the Presbyterian Christian Endeavor Society, and never play cards. Neither do members of the Muir family permit cards to be played in their homes. In fact, the many excellent families in the Presbyterian church here are fully cognizant of the evils that follow in the wake of card playing, and do not consider it the proper diversion for a party composed of people, who are doing their utmost to live up to the precepts of Christian teachings.
