last week to take charge of the pastoral there.

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Robbins, of Logan, were in Oregon City Saturday. Mr. Robbins, who is secretary of the Logan cheese factory, reported that the output has increased to 300 pounds daily, due to the better quality of pasture and the further fact that several of the producers have added to the number of their cows.

W. W. H. Samson, P. A. Graves and Frank Bruner returned from Prineville Saturday night, having been present at the trial of D. L. Bruner, who was found guilty of murder in the second degree. Had it not been for the bitter feeling existing between some of the ranch owners and corporation stockmen, it is believed that Bruner would have been acquitted.

Councilmen James Evans and Harry Gilmore, A. S. Baty, William and Arnold Kreger, all of Canby, were in town Saturday. The two former were making investigations as to what could be done in the matter of floating the bonds to defray the expense of building the proposed city hall. The structure is planned to be 35x70 and two stories high. Real estate is reported to be changing hands at a lively rate in Canby, new people constantly arriving from the East.

Rev. A. J. Montgomery, the retiring president of the Oregon Christian Endeavor Union, Mrs. T. M. Gault, who was re-elected junior superintendent, and the following delegates are home from the state convention, held at Salem: Mary Pursifull, Annie Gantenbeim, Emma Davis, Alice Andrews, Cora Wingfield, Ruth Latourette, Minnie Boyles, Mrs. George T. Howard, Allen Frost, Rudolph Gantenbeim and Rev. J. H. Beaven, the latter having a prominent place on the program. One of the stirring events of the convention was the presence of Rev. F. E. Clark, the father of the movement, and Rev. Montgomery, as the presiding officer of the convention had the honor of presenting him with an Oregon umbrella in lieu of one presented to him five years ago. He still carried the old umbrella, which had accompanied him in his trips around the world. Rev. H. S. Templeton, of Portland, is the new president, and the next state convention will be held at Ashland. Miss Nora Hale, who attended both conventions in Salem, also returned home.

of electing four delegates and four alternates to the grand cabin. Delegates should be elected, who will participate in the parade with the pioneers. Last year the pioneers were treated very shabby in this respect. The object of the order is to honor pioneers and early Oregon history, not as a stepping stone to political preferment.

In the probate court Richard Scott, administrator of the estate of Ezra W. Cressy, deceased, was granted an order to pay the outstanding preferred claims against the estate. Charles Daugherty, administrator of the estate of Robert Baty, deceased, was authorized to borrow $600 at 6 per cent for three years, in order to pay off outstanding claims, which are drawing a higher rate of interest. Eliza Hutchins, administrator of the estate of Thomas A. Hutchins, deceased, filed her eighth annual report duly verified according to law, which was placed on file awaiting the final settlement of the estate.

Just at this time hops are making a remarkable growth in Clackamas county and the crop indications are good. Prospects are favorable for good prices, buyers being extremely anxious to enter into contracts to purchase at 11 cents per pound. It is known that several growers in the south end of the county have contracted their hops, but the instruments have not been recorded. It is not necessary to have a recorded contract to compel the majority of Clackamas county hopgrowers to stand by a bargain. Many of the growers are in circumstances that enable them to handle their hops without contracting. In fact, the majority of them can readily borrow picking money when it is needed without putting up security.

William Beers, now employed in the paper mills, believes that he is the second oldest person born of white parents in Oregon. His father and mother came to Oregon with the Jason Lee party of missionaries, and he was born at the Lee mission, 10 miles from Salem, in 1852. The father, Alanson Beers, was the mission carpenter, and was one of the 52 men voting for the provisional government, whose names are inscribed on the monument dedicated at Champoeg, Thursday, May 2nd, 1901, in honor of the first American government on the Pacific coast. Years ago William Beers was a printer and worked on the case both in the Herald and Oregonian offices in Portland. He quit the printing business and in more recent years has lived in the Yaquina bay country.

Ex-County Commissioner Richard Scott was up from Milwaukie Friday morning on the lookout for a Swede, named Swanson, who had stolen $37 in money, a watch and suit of clothes from two of the hands employed on the farm. At this time all hands were busy on the Scott farm, and additional help was needed. Swanson was secured through an employment agency in Portland Wednesday afternoon and occupied the bed with one of the men that he subsequently robbed. Twenty-one dollars was cleverly abstracted from beneath this man's pillow while he slept soundly, and $36 from under another sleeper's head in the same room. The new hired man made his escape with the new suit of clothes, watch and money without awakening any of the inmates of the house. Other rooms in the building were not disturbed. No trace of Swanson, the deft-fingered hired man, had been received when the last reports were filed.
