Talmage says: "A newspaper whose columns overflow with the advertisements of the business men, has more influence in attracting attention to building up a town than any other agency that can be employed. People go where there is business. Capital and labor go where there is an enterprising community. No power on earth is so strong to build a town as a newspaper well patronized, and its power should be appreciated."

The city council held a special meeting Monday evening, and it was ordered that an engineer be employed to prepare plans for the Center street improvement. Miss Case's Recital.

Miss Mary Case, who recently completed a course of music in Boston, gave her initial recital at the Methodist Episcopal church Wednesday evening, and scored a flattering success before a good audience. She was assisted by Mrs. Ellen Kinsman Mann, soprano, and Mrs. L. L. Porter, accompanist. She sang several late songs, notably among them, "Three Roses Red," and "O Mother Mine," the words of the latter by Kipling. The author of the latter, Homer A. Norris, heard her sing the piece, and said that she did it better than any one who attempted it. The music lovers present, greeted her with continued applause, and she received several magnificent bouquets of flowers.
