"NERVE WASTE."

One of the most helpful books on nerve weakness ever issued is that entitled "Nerve Waste," by Dr. Sawyer, of San Francisco, now in its fifth thousand. This work of an experienced and reputable physician is in agreeable contrast to the vast sum of false teaching which prevails on this interesting subject. It abounds in carefully considered and practically advice, and has the two great merits of wisdom and sincerity.

It is endorsed by both the religious and secular press. The Chicago Advance says: "A perusal of the book and the application of its principles will put health, hope and heart into thousands of lives that are now suffering through nervous impairment."

The book is $1.00, by mail, postpaid. One of the most interesting chapters—chapters xx, on Nervous and Nerve Tonics—has been printed separately as a sample chapter, and will be sent to any address for stamp by the publishers, The Pacific Pub. Co., Box 2658, San Francisco in plain sealed envelope.

ROAR OF THE FALLS.

During the day hundreds of people stop at the filtering plant at the corner of Main and Seventh streets, to drink at the faucets that run water night and day. This fact brings forcibly to mind the importance of drinking fountains, conveniently located on the main streets. It would be a furtherance of the plan already being agitated by the Clackamas County Humane Society, who desire to establish watering troughs for animals. A combined watering trough with separate filtering attachment to supply water for drinking purposes, would be the desideratum.

The photograph taken by Turney graphically showing a salmon in his attempt to climb the falls, might be used as a potent argument to the effect that a fish ladder is not necessary. The picture was reproduced in the Telegram a few days ago.

The present spell of warm, sunny weather is a god-send to Western Oregon. The continued cold, wet weather was beginning to have a tendency to work injury to the crops. Lice were forming on the hop vines, and the weather conditions were most favorable for the propagation of wheat pests. The warm sun, however, is causing the hop louse and the grain aphid to disappear, and the fall wheat stalks have resumed their wonted freshness. It is universally conceded by the farmers that this will be a great crop year, or at least, better than recent former seasons.

The dog circus with its attuned fakirs and antiquated, second hand paraphernalia came on the peaceful Sabbath day, and departed like a highwayman when the night policeman was on watch. As the heavy teams came down the Singer hill they smashed the landside wooden supports of the curb of the sidewalk, and it will take dollars to repair the damage. It is said that the show aggregation divided up on leaving Portland, a part of the lame animals and noisy curs going to Salem, and the remainder forming that part of the circus that showed in Oregon City. It was the same old gag—anything is good enough for the country towns. The clown gave the same old threadbare jokes, and the Arab in costume, that led the zebu was only the commonest kind of a nigger.
