

A Klondike Sketch.

Herewith find a sketch of the Klondike and way points: Dawson can now be easily reached. Take cars to Seattle and fast steamer to Skagway from there to four days. Another day by rail over the scenic White route to White Horse, then by steamer to Dawson in two days, or a week in all. The total distance is 2100 miles, and the fare about $100.

Leaving Seattle and the Sound we steam along through the inside passage, passing hundreds of beautiful islands and wooded mountains. Great fish can be seen spouting and riding the waves. Skim the waters or ride the waves.

Ladysmith, a coal port on Vancouver Island, is having a little boom. Ketchikan has secured the custom house and bids fair to become a good mining town. Wrangell is dead; the totem poles and Indian curios are worth seeing however.

Juneau holds her own, and the great Treadwell mines near by are big producers. Juneau's gold mountain now is the "Glorious Hole," and a hard name it has. Indian labor receives $2, payable every night.

At length we steam up to the head of Linn Canal, where now slumbers the famous town of Skagway. Not the once wild and woolly town of tents with its surging multitudes of eager gold hunters and castle builders, where host and coming ran high and soapy ruled. Skagway does a shipping business with the interior, but that is at low ebb. The White Pass & Yukon R. R. shops are there. Back of the shops in the burying ground close to a beautiful cascade we noticed a fine monument "Erected to the memory of Frank H. Reed, who died for the honor of Skagway."

Soapy Smith's grave is also in the same graveyard. When the double tragedy between Reid and Soapy took place in which both were killed, the desperadoes fled in haste from Skagway. The W. P. & Y. R. R. over White Pass is a wonderful feat in railroad annals. For miles on the Skagway side the roadbed was blasted out of precipitous mountain sides and looking down a sheer descent from the cars a thousand feet to the foaming Skagway, and then turo to the precipitous cliff above, and then read the lesson told by these works in imperishable granite that "where there's a will there's a way."

The railroad extends to White Horse, 112 miles, where connection is made with steamers for Dawson. It is a pleasant trip down. Thirty mile is swift; Le Barge is usually blustery and Five Fingers, although improved, smashes in many an upper deck of the river craft. Steamers line through Five Fingers when going up.

We pass the villages Selkirk and Stewart River, and also pass Miller's coal mine on the left pass, Oswego Welch's brickyards and tie up at Dawson. Dawson is full of people. Competition has forced prices down so that meals can be had at 50 and 75 cents, and merchandise generally at reasonable prices. Brick buildings are being built. The sawmills are busy, and some government roads are in course of construction. The mines are generally busy. Bonanza is being worked by open cuts. This summer Chechaco, Adams and French Hills, high benches of Bonanza, are good producers, and Hunker and Gold Run Creeks are increasing their output. Chute and Wills, of Gold Run, it is reported, will take out two million dollars this season.

George Hamilton, Mose Warren and wife and Dell Cross are on Gold Run. F. F. White, Prof. Gray, Oliver Olsen, Mr. Rogers and Mr. Parker are on Upper Dominion and are mining on hillside properties and seem to have good prospects. Mr. Gray and Mr. Olsen have acquired mining property already.

Thomas Sager and Louis and Frank were mining on Gold Run in the spring. Clarence Porter and Mr. Patterson are in Dawson. Porter has a shop there. His wife and children joined him in July.

Dawson has three daily papers, telegraph connection with the world, schools libraries and an efficient police. The best of order prevails; the law is respected and the woodpile teared. The large miners are changing from winter to summer work so thousands of men will not find employment this winter, and a considerable exodus may be expected. Wages are about $4 and board and meals on the creeks are $1.50 and beds $1.

Eugene University.

The University of Oregon, the State University, has had an exceedingly prosperous year. The success in athletics have been only surface indications of the enthusiastic and loyal spirit of the students, and of a strong determination to put the university to the front and make it stand strongly for Oregon.

A better and truer indication of the prosperous condition of the university is the high standard of scholarly work done during the past year. The University of Oregon is fast becoming a true university and is doing a continually advancing grade of work. Indications of this are the winning of the debating contest with the University of Washington and the three university men, two graduates and one a graduate student to scholarships in great Eastern universities where the competition is very heavy. The orations on commencement and the graduating theses required of everyone receiving a degree, were of unusual merit.

The outlook for next year is bright. The departments of the university have been strengthened by the addition of seven new instructors, men of the highest scholarship and training. McClure hall, the new laboratory for chemistry and mining is being fitted up at cost of nearly $7000 and will be one of the completest and best in the country. The new engineering and power plant is in the process of erection and will greatly increase the facilities of the university in engineering. The University will have eight good buildings, six of these of brick.

The present year will see the largest increase to the library in the whole history of the university. Nearly 6000 volumes will be added by exchange, gift and purchase, and by 1902 the university will have the largest library for scholarly research in the state. The number of volumes will be by the end of 1901 about 10000 besides several thousand pamphlets.

A system of special lectures was inaugurated during the past year by which prominent men from different parts of the state were brought to the lecture copies related to courses of instruction carried on at the university. The growth of the university in numbers has been somewhat remarkable. The total number of students for all departments at Eugene for the year 1898-99 was 181; for the year 1899-1900 it was 220 and for 1900-01 it was 302, or a gain of 100 per cent in two years.

MRS. DYE IN HELENA.

Discovered Important Lewis & Clark Data.

Among the visitors at the historical library yesterday was Eva Emery Dye, of Oregon City, Or., the well known writer on subjects pertaining to the early settlement of the northwest. Her call was unexpected as it proved to be of exceeding interest both to herself Librarian Laura E. Howey. The latter had known for some time that Mrs. Dye was in quest of information that would aid in the preparation of a book, which when completed, will fill an important part in the literature bearing on the Lewis & Clark expedition, but had not received the least intimation of the talented author's visit at this time.

Mrs. Dye arrived in Helena Thursday evening over the Northern Pacific from the East. Yesterday morning bright and early she went to the rooms of the historical society and lost no time in making herself known to the librarian, as well as the object of her call. Mrs. Howey showed the young woman through the library, placing at her disposal everything that might throw any additional light on the Lewis & Clark expedition. Mrs. Dye spent most of the forenoon looking over the books and papers relating to the subject.

In one of the volumes shown her by the librarian, "The Annals of Congress of 1806," Mrs. Dye discovered important data and correspondence between the members of the expedition and the then president of the United States that she had so far been unable to find in all her research, which covers many states and no little time. So far as she knew it was the record of the kind in existence, and she was doubly gratified over the result of her visit to Montana's capital. This was a part of the correspondence between President Jefferson and Captain Meriwether Lewis. These letters proved to be the missing links in the narrative Mrs. Dye proposes to write of the famous expedition. She manifested the utmost pleasure at being able to include in her forthcoming book a reference to the apparently lost correspondence between the nation's executive and Captain Lewis. She also expressed herself as greatly pleased with what she saw of the historical library. With the possible exception of the state library at Madison, Wis., she said Montana had the best collection of historical works of any state that she had visited. During the past several months Mrs. Dye has devoted nearly all of her time and much hard work to gathering material for a book to be published soon. She has visited every known descendant of Captain Lewis and other members of the expedition in the course of her extensive travels in quest of information that would assist in making the work complete. Mrs. Dye proposes to make the expedition the foundation for her story. However, the narrative will assume the character of a historical novel rather than an attempt to depict the exact scenes of that memorable journey in the early days of the nation.

Mrs. Dye left yesterday noon for Great Falls, where she expects to remain until today. From there she will go direct to her home—Helena, Mont., Independent of June 13th.

Logan Cheese Factory Making Prosperous Conditions.

B. Fallert, of Logan, was in town Saturday, accompanied by his brother-in-law, Carl Roethe, who recently arrived from Galveston, Texas. Mr. Roethe is accompanied by his family, and expects to make his future home in Clackamas county. Mr. Fallert is well pleased with the profitable work being done by the Logan cheese factory, and pronounces it the most beneficial enterprise ever established in that section of the country. The factory has not only proved a paying enterprise under its excellent co-operative management, but has stimulated a new era of improvement and prosperity in the community. It has been the means of giving an incentive to diversified farming, that will make that section wealthy. New barns are being built, and the stockholders of the cheese factory are building new barns, silos, and adding to and improving their herds of milch cows. Mr. Fallert has 60 tons of green clover hay in his silo, and 50 tons of dry hay in his large, new barn. John C. Sprague and Frank Wilson also have large silos. Julius Busch has put up 45 tons of hay, and has six acres of potatoes that he expects will yield 300 bushels to the acre. A. Swales expects his wheat to yield 40 bushels to the acre. Philip Cole has rebuilt his sawmill, which was burned down a few weeks ago. He also will build a new barn.

Hot Baseball Events.

Local baseball events have been of a warm nature during the past few days.

On Sunday it was Company A versus the Vancouverers on the latter's playground, 6 to 7 in favor of the Washington team, according to the ruling of the umpire.

At Oswego the game stood Willamettes, of Oregon City, 6, and the Ramblers, of Portland, 0.

At Willamette field the game stood Redmen, 22; Foresters, 11. There was nothing particularly brilliant about the game, except the personell of the players. However, the game was interesting and entertaining, and there was an appreciative crowd present.

The plays made by the Willamettes at Oswego were: Hit by pitcher, Calif, 1; bases on ball, Reed, 3; two-base hits, W. Calif, 2; E. Calif, 2; Jones, 2; three-base hits, Hodgkins; struck out—by Calif, 16; Reed, 11; time of game, 1.20. Umpires, Boylan and Woodward.

Company A team will play Hillsboro at Willamette field next Sunday. There will be a return game with the Vancouverians soon, and the Willamettes will play the Gervais Stars.

"WHAT WOULD JESUS DO."

"Why not? What else can I do?" Her aunt looked at her thoughtfully, noting her remarkable beauty of face and expression.

"You do not always intend to do this kind of work, Felicia?"

"Maybe I shall. I have had a dream of opening an ideal cookshop in Chicago or some large city and going round to the poor families in some slum district like the Rectangle, teaching the mothers how to prepare food properly. I remember hearing Dr. Bruce say once that he believed one of the great miseries of comparative poverty consisted in poor food. He even went so far as to say that he thought some kinds of crime could be traced to soggy biscuits and tough beefsteak. I'm confident I would be able to make a living for Rose and myself and at the same time to help others."

Felicia brooded over this dream until it became a reality. Meanwhile she grew into the affections of the Raymond people and the Rectangle folks, among whom she was known as "the angel cook." Underneath the structure of the beautiful character she was growing always rested her promise made in Nazareth Avenue church.

"What would Jesus do?" She prayed and hoped and worked and planned her life by the answer to that question.

It was the inspiration of her conduct and the answer to all her ambition. Three months had gone by since the Sunday morning when Dr. Bruce came into his pulpit with the message of the new discipleship. Never before had the Rev. Calvin Bruce realized how deep the feelings of his members flowed. He humbly confessed that the appeal he had made met with an unexpected response from men and women who, like Felicia, were hungry for something in their lives that the conventional type of church membership and fellowship had failed to give them.

But Dr. Bruce was not yet satisfied for himself. We cannot tell what his feeling was or what led to the movement he finally made, to the great astonishment of all who knew him, better than by relating a conversation between him and the bishop at this time in the history of the pledge in Nazareth Avenue church. The two friends were, as before, in Dr. Bruce's house, seated in his study.

Improvements at State Fair Ground.

The State Board of Agriculture are making some wonderful improvements at the state fair grounds, and old timers will hardly recognize the place when they attend Oregon's greatest fair this fall. The old pavilion is being enlarged to double its size, and after the best exhibits ever seen in the state are arranged there will be ample room left for an auditorium, a thing that has been needed for a long time. A bran new up-to-date creamery building is being erected; also where the best dairy display ever made in the state will certainly be seen. The machinery hall is being enlarged, new cattle stalls, cheap pens, hog stys, and horse stables are being built. A cozy farm cottage, hay barn, and new sidewalks are also on the list of improvements, and nothing will be left undone to accommodate the exhibitor and entertain the visitor at the fair this fall.

PLAIN SOCIALISTS.

Convention Will Drop National Part of Party Name.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 31.—After the election, this afternoon, of Max S. Hays, of Cleveland, O., as chairman of the day, the national socialist convention voted on the question whether "immediate demands" should be eliminated from the platform, reported yesterday afternoon. The vote resulted in a decision to retain the words in the platform. The substitute offered by Professor Herron then came up. On vote, it was admitted as a part of the platform. Professor Herron's substitute embodies:

"1. The public ownership of all means of transportation and communication, and all other public utilities, as well as of all industries controlled by monopolies, trusts and combines.

"2. The progressive reduction of the hours of labor; the increase of wages.

"3. State or national insurance of working people in case of accidents, lack of employment, sickness and want in old age.

"4. The inauguration of a system of public industries, public credit to be used for that purpose in order that the workers be secured full product of their labor."

The Springfield anti-Debs faction scored another victory at tonight's session. The argument of the day hinged on the question of state autonomy in party affairs. After a long and heated debate, the autonomy clause was finally ordered inserted. It detracts from the powers of the national executive committee, and gives the control of the state affairs exclusively into the hands of the state central committees. Hereafter, the party will be known as the socialist party.

PANSY BLOSSOM.

Question Answered.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for Indigestion or Biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart Failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. Get Green's Prize Almanac at George A. Harding's.
