

CLACKAMAS COUNTY NEWS

Beaver Creek.

Fourth day of August, hottest day on record.
Harvest is in full blast.
James Shannon is very sick with appendicitis.

Dr. Thomas was heard to say that the building of the Beaver Creek hall will commence next week.
Nancy Rohlander is the proud father of a one-year old daughter and a one-month-old son. How's that for a beginning?

A dance was given at the home of Carl Steadman Saturday night. About ten couples were present. A most enjoyable time was had by those present. The parties given at the Steadman home are always a success.

To the boys that rode the jack we would say "when shall we three meet again?"

Ame Kirk had a little break down last week that caused him to make a quick trip to Portland to purchase a new gear wheel.

William F. Harris has built a new barn. Herman Stutzinger has also erected a new barn.

Owen Parry has left his family in a neat new house and has gone away to work.

Coughing

"I was given up to die with quick consumption. I then began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I improved at once, and am now in perfect health."—Chas. E. Hartman, Gibbstown, N. Y.

It's too risky, playing with your cough.

The first thing you know it will be down deep in your lungs and the play will be over. Begin early with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and stop the cough.

Three sizes: 25c, 50c, $1. All druggists.

Consult your doctor. If he says take it, then do as he says. If he tells you not to take it, then don't take it. He knows. Leave it with him. We are willing.

From Dufur.

Upon our arrival at this place we found the people pretty much worried about the condition of their wheat crops.

It was thought that the wheat crop was heavily damaged by heavy frosts. While this was true in certain small localities, subsequent examinations and harvesting results proved first reports and fears greatly exaggerated.

We visited Wasco in Sherman county and there in that vicinity saw immense wheat fields in a thriving, healthy condition and wheat growers getting ready for an immense harvest.

We, however, returned to Dufur, which you will perhaps remember was my home before coming to Oregon City.

Here we found things in excellent condition and many wheat growers ready to begin "heading" as they call cutting their wheat up in this section. All this is done with a large machine, which simply cuts off the head of the wheat.

The wheat is "headed" and elevated from the machine into a large wagon, which is driven along beside the header as it travels around the field. The wheat is then hauled to stacks where it is unloaded with a net made of rope, which has been spread in the bottom of the "header" wagon previous to the loading, thus doing away with the old method of unloading by hand; the net, load and all being hauled off the wagon with a team of horses, which remain at the stack for this purpose. It takes about five minutes and even less to unload. It requires, usually, two "header" wagons to each machine, each wagon hauling from 40 to 50 loads per day.

To harvest in this way it requires to each machine seven men, one "header" driver, two "header" wagon drivers, one loader, who loads both wagons, two stackers and one man to drive team for unloading. It requires 16 horses to operate the outfit: six on header, four on each wagon and two at the stack.

Frank and I have been working on the Sigman ranch. They have some 700 or 800 acres of wheat.

How is the work as compared with that in the mills at Oregon City? Why isn't it to be compared. Maybe you don't believe it but I heard a man "kicking" the other day because they didn't give him steady work. He said they laid him off a couple of hours each night and he only got in about 22 out of the 24. We have two shifts. One goes on at 4 a. m. and the other goes on at 6 p. m. The last shift only works until 9 p. m. We belong to both shifts, say and we have five meals a day; sometimes two suppers, one in night. I heard a man say the other day that he worked on the eight hour system eight hours in the forenoon and eight hours in the afternoon. Now as I said before the work is not to be compared. You are not "in it" down there. Wages are fair, $1.50 to $4 per day with board. Pretty steady work too.

We could see four "header" outfits at work around today, besides our own. Great preparations for threshing are going on. Some eight to 10 threshing outfits have gone by this last week, all steam threshing outfits. Some threshing has already been done and the yield is good running from 25 to 40 bushels per acre in wheat and higher in barley.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
