

1899 to a three-year term. He has been president of the city council for the past year, and is president of the Retail Merchants' Association of Oregon City. During his first term he was instrumental in having Main street improved with vitrified brick, a great improvement to the town. He is at present a member of the Oregon City school board. He was chief of the city fire department in 1886. Mr. Albright is an able and fearless fighter for the best interests of Oregon City and always takes an interest in the cause of good roads for Clackamas county and is a highly respected and influential citizen of Clackamas county.

NEW YORK GALLERY.

Turney, the well-known photographer, and proprietor of the New York Gallery, situated on Water street, makes a specialty of cabinet and stamp photos, and his establishment is provided with modern, up-to-date equipments, and he is prepared to make the very best photographic work of all kinds. He also carries a complete line of views of Oregon scenery, which he sells at a low figure.

You should call and see his set of stereoscopic views including over 50 scenes from around Oregon City and Portland. They make a nice gift for a friend in the East. Everything in the line of photographic work, from life-size to stamp photos, is produced in an expert and skillful manner at Turney's New York Gallery. Many of the illustrations in this number were made from photographs taken by Turney, especially the scene of the Falls and the steamer Altona, which embellishes the front page.

E. J. SIAS

Came to Canby about three years ago from Portland and engaged in the watch repairing and jewelry business, and by honest dealing and strict attention to business he has gained the confidence of everybody in that vicinity.

He gets trade from Woodburn, Needy, Molalla, Macksburg, Carus, Aurora and Oregon City. Mr. Sias is also assistant postmaster at Canby and has full control of the postoffice, and every patron of the office wants him to be the next postmaster, which shows that he is honored and respected by all.

TOM F. COWING, JR.

was born in Alexandria, Minnesota, in the year of 1874 and moved with his parents to Oregon City in October, 1889. In May, 1890, he entered the service of the Western Union Telegraph Company as messenger, which position he faithfully fulfilled until September, 1892, when he assumed management of the most important branch office of the Western Union Telegraph Company, in Portland, Oregon. He continued to act in this capacity until March, 1894, when he returned to Oregon City and accepted the appointment as manager for the same company, relieving his brother, L. H., who was obliged to resign on account of ill health.

In March, 1896, Mr. Cowing was appointed to the agency of the Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, which position he has since fulfilled to the entire satisfaction of all concerned, in connection with the management of the Western Union Telegraph Company. By his careful, faithful and energetic business abilities, both of the companies which Mr. Cowing represents, have prospered and today enjoy a good substantial and steadily increasing business.

Mr. Cowing is a first-class telegraph operator and an all-round express man, and both companies which he represents, as well as the general public, are to be commended upon having such an obliging and painstaking representative as Tom.

H. M. HARNDEN.

H. M. Harnden, proprietor of the Kozy Kandy Kitchen, has the largest wholesale and retail trade in Oregon City and began the confectionery business at his present location in this city in December, 1898. On account of his superior knowledge of the manufacture of every variety of candy and the general operation of such an establishment, his business has been a success from the start, and his trade constantly increased. He manufactures principally all of his candies and sells to the wholesale and retail trade. His goods are always fresh, and include tropical and other fruits, nuts, candies, dainty bon-bon boxes, and in fact everything requisite for a first-class confectionery store. He also carries a line of cigars and tobacco and manufactures ice cream in season. A beautiful soda fountain is also in connection with his establishment, from which he serves hot soda in winter and cold soda in summer. Anyone with a sweet tooth can appease their appetite at Harnden's Kozy Kitchen. His store is a model of neatness, and is one of the most enticing places in the city.

E. L. JOHNSON.

Is a native of Yankton, S. D., and came to Oregon in 1876, when 5 years of age, and lived at Silverton until 1896, when he came to Oregon City and opened a barber shop. Since that time he has bought out several shops and now runs the only three-chair shop in this city, the "O. K.," with shower and tub bathrooms. He is also agent for the Troy Laundry Company, of Portland, and makes regular deliveries every week. Mr. Johnson, by constant attention to business and fair treatment, has gained for himself the good will and respect of the entire community, which is shown by his constantly increasing business.
