

The House of FRANK BUSCH

In looking over the history of this establishment we are inclined to call it a living proof of our often mentioned hypothesis that Oregon City is a good trading point. In spite of Portland's magnetic influence on our citizens' buying capacity, Mr. Frank Busch, managed not alone to hold his own, but increased his facilities this past year and we must not omit to use that so much-used expression, that "Frank Busch's establishment is a credit to our town," and every property owner may be justly proud of his existence in our midst.

These cuts present part views of the interior of this establishment. On account of the too large floor space we were only able to show a very small part of the immense stock.
