

obtainable, and teamsters using his harness once will have no other. He also carries a full line of horse furnishing goods and saddles, besides a line of boots and shoes which he sells at living rates. He also deals in wagons and buggies and is able to save his customers money on this line of goods. Mr. Willey is considerably interested in Oregon City and Clackamas county real estate. He also takes an interest in evangelist work for the Free Methodist church and is at present pastor of Central Addition church of Portland.

A. W. CHENEY.

A. W. Cheney is a native of Wisconsin, and, after a residence of 20 years in Iowa and South Dakota, he came to Oregon in 1889. In 1895 he purchased the Oregon City Courier, publishing it until 1898, when he purchased the Herald and consolidated the two under the name of Courier-Herald. In 1899 he purchased the Canby Independent and added its patronage. Mr. Cheney, being familiar with all the details, has built up the paper until it is in the front rank of country weeklies in Oregon. Its circulation is not equaled by any paper in the county, and by but few in the state, and the paper enjoys a patronage that is constantly increasing. Besides publishing the Courier-Herald an immense amount of job printing is turned out by his power printing plant.
