LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

P. P. Hall is building an addition to Mr. Frederick's house on the West side.
 Theodore Himler has closed his fish market, and returned to his home at Parkplace.
 Paine Brothers, of Carus, were in the city Tuesday, delivering 40 bales of hops, which were sold to a St. Paul firm at 10 cents per pound.
 J. Murrow, the Ely poultryman received a letter Monday stating that the three thoroughbred chickens, that he sold in Portland last week, had won first prize.
 There will be game of indoor baseball at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Friday night between the local team and a Portland team. The admission will be 15 cents.
 Dr. Rueben Goucher, of Mulino, a graduate in medicine, successfully passed the late examination before the state medical board. Dr. W. E. Carril, treasurer of the board, had charge of the examination.
 William Bullock, of the West Side, is serving a 75-day sentence in the county jail for carrying concealed weapons. He was arrested by Constable Moody, and Justice McNulty gave him a severe sentence for having threatened to shoot certain persons.
 President H. E. Cross, of the Oregon City board of trade, received a letter Tuesday from a prominent lumberman at Prairie du Chien, Wis., stating that he had seen a copy of the New Year Courier-Herald, and made some anxious inquiries about the lumber and timber here. His inquiries are made with a view of locating in Clackamas county.
 At the meeting of the Oregon City school board held Monday, the petition of the grade teachers in the city schools for a 25 per cent. raise in their salaries, was denied. Just now the subject of taxation is making the city taxpayer scratch his head and think. A 32-mill county levy, a 7-mill city levy and a probable six or seven mill district school tax topped off with a $3 road poll tax, furnishes matter for reflection.
 William White, a county charge in the care of J. C. Shoemaker, near the city, died last Friday aged 73, and was buried at the crematory, near Sellwood, last Monday. The county furnished the coffin, and the expense of the crematory services were borne by a niece of the deceased, Mrs. A. D. Cole, of Portland. Mr. White was a man of excellent parts and was formerly in good circumstances. He is said to have been swindled out of a considerable portion of his property.
 On Tuesday a deed was filed in the county recorder's office conveying the J. H. Lambert tract, near Milwaukie to the Waverly Company, for the consideration of $40,000. The tract embraces 169 acres, and was owned by J. H. Lambert. Mr. Lambert sold a portion of the tract several years ago to a real estate firm, but had to take the property back before the final payments were made. The tract as then platted was put on the market as "Cambridge." The new purchasers are the owners of the Waverly golf links.
 A fresh milk cow for sale. Apply at this office, or D. Close, Parkplace.

In another column will be found a list of the judges and clerks of election, one-third of the number being representatives of the democrats and populists, the selection of the latter being made by the chairman of the union central committee. According to the provision of the last legislature, all precincts containing upwards of 150 voters are entitled to two election boards or two sets of judges and clerks. It will make more to the taxpayers, but it will make more petty offices to go around on election day. The new law provides for three clerks of each board, instead of two as heretofore.
 The steamer Leona is now operating on the upper Willamette. The boat is a new water craft owned by the Willamette Transportation Company, of Oregon City. She ran for some time in the passenger service between Oregon City and Portland, making four trips per day. Her passenger accommodations are especially good. Her freight capacity is about 60 tons. For the present she is to ply between Corvallis and Booneville, Cummings and Peoria, and if business offers, to Harriburg. She is a light draft craft, and it is said, will do good work on the upper river.—Corvallis Times.
 The regular monthly meeting of the Clackamas County Teachers' Association will be held at Milwaukie, Saturday, January 25. An excellent program has been arranged by the committee, consisting of County Superintendent J. C. Zinser, Miss Fannie G. Porter and V. A. Davis. Among the numbers on the program will be "Fads and their Abuses," State Superintendent J. H. Ackerman; an address, by George H. Himsel; "Ways and Means of Securing a Library," O. M. Crittenden. There will also be addresses and papers by H. L. McCann, Charles A. Dawson, assistant professor at Willamette university; Miss Margaret Williams, Gertrude Neizer, Frances Myers. It promises to be the greatest teachers' meeting of the year, and the people of Milwaukie always help to make such gatherings interesting.

In the new election law it is provided that electors may protest against any election judges or clerks appointed by the county court. The law orders the list appointed at the January term to be posted up in the clerk's office. If any judge or clerk named by the court is unsatisfactory, protests may be filed with the court, and after hearing objections, the court may substitute other judges and clerks for those against whom the objections are made. The law provides that these objections shall be considered and passed upon by the court on the court on the first Wednesday in February. Consequently, if any readers of this paper are not satisfied with the judges and clerks appointed in their precincts, they now know how to proceed.
 According to the St. Helens Mist Charles Meserve, formerly publisher of the Oregon City Enterprise, has won a contested homestead suit against the Northern Pacific Railroad Company. "The register and receiver of the Vancouver United States land office have rendered a decision which, if not reversed, will have a material bearing on the oft disputed rights of settlers on school lands. The decision rendered holds in effect that if the homestead settler has established a bona fide residence on the land prior to the time of the survey, plating the land, his title holds good, and that his homestead entry will be allowed." A decision rendered by the register and receiver of the land office in the case of Charles Meserve, of Wankiam county, Wash., vs the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, in a contested lien land selection, has been confirmed by the commissioner of the general land office.
