

Dropsy

starting in the feet or ankles comes from a weak or diseased heart—a heart that cannot keep up the circulation. The blood then settles in the lower limbs where the watery portions ooze out into surrounding tissues causing bloat and swelling. The heart must be strengthened and built up before the dropsy can be cured to stay; and the best of all heart medicines is Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

"Heart disease made my feet swell so that they had to be lanced in several places. One bottle of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure helped me and twelve bottles worked a complete cure."
JAMES TRENTY, Barnard, Mo.

NEW TROLLEY LINE.

Garfield to Have Rail Connection With the World.

It is now probable that the Oregon General Electric Company will build a trolley line from Portland to Garfield, a distance of 25 miles, this year. It is given from an authoritative source, that engineers will begin locating the line within the next 10 days. It is proposed that the railway line will reach the Clackamas by way of Damascus. J. U. Davis, of Garfield, was in the city Tuesday on way home from Portland, where he had completed the sale of 40 acres of land to electric company, lying along the Clackamas river in the vicinity of their power plant. This purchase now closes the gap, and the company own the land along the river for several miles up-stream from the Springwater bridge at the foot of the Springwater hill. This land has recently been purchased, and gives control of the river in the immediate vicinity of the proposed power station and water transmission canals. The river has a fall of 180 feet to the mile in this vicinity, and there is one almost perpendicular fall 12 feet in height. It is reported that the surveys for the power station, etc., have already been completed. An agent of the company has given out the information that the company will complete a trolley railway line to Garfield by November 1st.

The Oregon General Electric Company is presumed to be a branch of the Portland City & Oregon Railway system, now operating between Portland and Oregon City and out to Mount Scott and Tabor. The completion of the present proposed line would probably mean the extension of the system to other sections of the county. The proposed road will tap the richest country in Clackamas county in timber, dairy products and fruit.

James Marrs, of Springwater, was in town a few days ago, and stated that the people of that section were enthusiastic over the prospect of a railway to that section.

The important part of the above information was given out by persons connected with the electric company, but in the Daily Oregonian of yesterday morning President Hurlbut, of the Portland City & Oregon Railway, stated that his company would not build a line to that section, as they had not yet found a practical route for a trolley line. However, such a route might be built when a practical route is found, and the proper encouragement is accorded to the company by the people along the route.

A Girl, a Fight, Then a Fire, and the Former Taken Into Custody.

It is only a very few weeks ago that a succession of after midnight events occurred that are not at all creditable to the city. A lone girl of eminently respectable parentage, living several miles out in the country, was alone in town. She was only 14 years old. It she was inclined to be wayward, she should have been protected, not chased over the town by male beings, bent on her ruin. After midnight, two young men of the town had three fights over the possession of the girl. The third fight took place in the Depot saloon, and the victor took away the girl. There was a fire in the building later, but the fire had nothing to do with the fights or the girl. It was only an incident of the same morning. Later in the day, the girl was placed in custody by Constable Moody and rescued from the rabble, who were following in the distance. A few days later the girl was committed to the care of the Boys and Girls Aid Society in Portland, and the boys who were rushing her on the road to ruin, escaped without punishment.

This is not the first time similar incidents have occurred on the streets of Oregon City. Not many months ago a young girl, living a few miles from town went through a like experience, and she too was committed to the reformatory.

Our New Year Number.

The Courier-Herald New Year number is acknowledged by all to be the finest of its kind ever issued in the state. Following are a few of the many late editorial notices:

A special edition of 50 pages, printed on fine book paper, was issued by the Oregon City Courier-Herald Friday. The half-tone work throughout is equal to the best that has been seen. A number of views of Willamette Falls, Oregon City's great water power, are given. There are a number of pastoral scenes, bays, orchards and farms being shown. The special number of the Courier-Herald is an excellent thing to send to eastern friends.—Evening Telegram.

The New Year number of the Courier-Herald, Oregon City, is a fine paper. It is illustrated with fine illustrations of views and buildings in Oregon City and vicinity, and other localities in Clackamas county. The front page is illustrated with a fine view of Willamette Falls. The typographical and press work show skilled workmanship.—Dayton Herald.

The Oregon City Courier-Herald has issued a very handsome and highly creditable New Year's souvenir.—Woodburn Independent.

The Oregon City Courier-Herald has issued a model New Year's edition, one of the best ever seen in this state. There is only one thing to wonder at, and that is what grievances they could have had against Senator Porter.—McMinnville Reporter.

The Oregon City Courier-Herald is certainly to be congratulated upon the special holiday edition it issued on the 3d. It is a 48-page publication, illustrated with the scenery of Clackamas county, and well filled with matter descriptive of the city at the falls.—Times-Mountaineer.

The Oregon City Courier-Herald, on which K. H. Gabbert, formerly of Corvallis, is employed, has issued a souvenir number, descriptive and illustrative of Oregon City and Clackamas county. The publication contains much valuable and interesting matter and is very creditable.—Corvallis Times.

The Oregon City Courier-Herald's 1902 souvenir edition is on our table. It is one of the prettiest annuals published this new year and is replete with valuable information of the Falls city, which place we have never had the good fortune to visit, out a perusal of this volume makes us feel as though we had. Oregon City and Clackamas county could not be shown to better lines than in this volume.—Marshfield Sun.

GRISSER, Baker Co., Ore., Jan. 9, 1902. Courier-Herald, Oregon City, Oregon.—Gentlemen: Please allow me to congratulate you on your beautiful and artistic New Year number of the Courier-Herald. I think the engravings and designs are splendid, and I find much pleasure in reading such a home production in this high and snowy climate. Yours truly, C. E. KNOTTS.

The New Year's number of the Oregon City Courier-Herald was distinctly all right. We hope a goodly number of copies will be sent East.—Aurora Borealis.

The Oregon City Courier-Herald got out the finest illustrated New Year's edition of any we have seen this year. The illustrations are superbly printed, and everything about the make-up of the paper is first-class. Persons desiring information about this historic old town and the surrounding country should send 10 cents to the Courier-Herald and secure a copy of its New Year's edition.—Hood River Glacier.

Engagement Extraordinary.

The Lyceum Theatrical Company will appear in a magnificent production of Frohman's great play, "The Senator's Wife"—14 people and elegant costuming, Friday night, January 17th, at Shively's. A $1.50 attraction at 25, 35 and 50c. This is one of the very best plays ever seen in Oregon City.

"The Senator's Wife" ran for 600 nights in New York City, and is today one of the strongest attractions on the road.

The company, which will present the play here, was organized with a view to fitness for the roles and under the direction Mr. Percy Levin. The presentation is equal to any that has ever been given of this play. The scenes are laid in and about Washington, D. C., and the story tells of love and politics. The great third act exemplifies the solemnity of the marriage tie. The comedy is clean and rich. There is no horse play and the entire play is built on lines that chain the interest from the first to last. Prominent in the cast are Myrtle Naomi Buffe and Eugenie La Drupe, both strong emotional actresses, whose reputations have been fully established. Hewitt Thorn as Senator Rutherford, and Mr. Levin as Major Putnam, have the two male leads.

Remember that this play is one of national reputation, and Manager Shively has gone to some expense in securing this high grade attraction. "The Senator's Wife" was last played in Portland by the Neil Company.

A STORY OF TWO FLAGS.

How a Man's Life Was Saved at the Very Last Moment.

The following stirring incident of the two flags happened at Valparaiso, Chile, and was related at Montreal in 1881 by the Rev. Dr. J. O. Peck. Dr. Peck said:

"The man who gave me the facts I am about to relate was Mr. Haskins, an American sailor who had sailed to a port in Chile. On going ashore, he said, to enjoy his day of liberty he drank a little and became hilarious. One of the police officers, instead of warning him not to make a noise in the street, drew his sword and, striking him a blow, knocked him down. On that the American sailor got up and knocked the policeman down in return. He was on that arrested and tried and condemned to be shot in the morning of the following day.

"Mr. Loring, the American consul, expostulated with the authorities that it would be monstrous to shoot the man for such an offense, but they paid no attention to him, so he thereupon made a formal protest in the name of the United States government against the barbarous act. Mr. Haskins, the sailor, was in the morning brought out plinoned to be shot.

"As the English consul was preparing to hoist the union jack he saw the crowd in the field opposite, where the execution of the American sailor, of which he had heard, was to take place. Rushing over the American consul, he said, 'Loring, you're not going to let them shoot that man!'

"'What can I do?' he said. 'I have protested against it. I can do no more.' 'Quick as thought the English consul shouted, 'Give me your flag!' And in a trice the stars and stripes were handed to the English representative. At once, taking his own union jack in his hand, he hastened across the field, elbowed his way through the crowd and soldiery, and, running up to the doomed man, he folded the American flag around him and then laid the union jack over it. Standing a few paces back, he faced the officers and soldiers and shouted defiantly, 'Now, shoot, if you dare, through the heart of England and America!'

"And they dared not do it, for they feared the consequences, so the man was at once released. In telling me," said Dr. Peck, "Mr. Haskins said to me, with tears streaming down his cheeks even then, 'They loosed me then, and, oh, how I longed to embrace those two flags!'"—Anglo-American.

POULTRY POINTERS.

A safe rule in feeding is to give enough to satisfy and no more. Droppings should not be allowed to accumulate in the poultry house longer than a week.

Bone dust supplies an abundance of bonemaking material and counteracts any tendency to diarrhea.

When possible, give the poultry house a southern exposure and furnish that side with an abundance of light.

While wheat is one of the best grains to feed to fowls, it should not be fed to excess or it may cause diarrhea. Feed it with other grains.

Loss of feathers is generally caused by want of green food or want of a dust bath. Supply both, and, as a local application, use mercurial ointment.

Breed the best flesh formers for market; then feed them up to as great a weight as possible. Well fattened, well dressed poultry bring the best prices.

A Point of Order.

One of the conspicuous features in the decorations of a certain official building is a full length portrait of George Washington. Being just behind the speaker's chair, it is in full sight of everybody who rises to speak. During a heated discussion, which involved the honor of the state and nation, a member rose and, pointing to the portrait, began in oratorical style. "By those eyes that never quailed before an enemy, by that nose—"

Then he was interrupted by a member in the rear, who rose to a point of order.

"Mr. Chairman," said the objector, "I claim it is out of order under parliamentary rules to call the eyes and nose in a committee of the whole."—New York Times.

Of Course She Was Glad.

"So you overcome that old antipathy of yours," her husband remarked, "and called on Mrs. Robbins?"

"Yes."

"Do you think she was glad to see you?"

"I am sure of it."

"Ahem! You must have some reason for that belief outside of her assurances."

"I have. I had on the old dress that was made over twice, but was out of style, and my hair had become uncurled, while she had on a gown that could not have come from anywhere but Paris. Could she help being glad to see me?"—Leslie's Weekly.

Harvard University.

Harvard university derives its name from Rev. John Harvard, its earliest benefactor, who in 1638 bequeathed one-half of his estate, amounting to £500, for the endowment of the college. Harvard hall was built in 1765, Holy worthy hall of brick in 1812 and Hollis Hall, also of brick, in 1704. Stoughton hall, being of the same dimensions and material as Hollis, was built in 1804, and a writer of 1817 states that "its appearance is somewhat in the modern style."—Boston Budget.

How It Resembled Mother's.

"No," said Mr. Medbergrass to the restaurant man; "no, I'll not say that your pie is just like mother used to make, but I'll say this—it's just as high as crusty as she used to git."—Baltimore American.
